BULLETIN.

NEW CASTLE, Pa., March 24.—Two jurors, Harry Stoner, farmer, of Slippery Rock, and Mrs. Della McCracken, housewife, Scott Township, had been accepted on the Dague jury this afternoon.

By AL GOUGH
Staff Correspondent.

NEW CASTLE, Pa., March 24.—In the same little courtroom where his sweetheart, Irene Schroeder, was doomed by a jury to die in the electric chair, W. Glenn Dague today went on trial for his life, charged with the same crime—the murder of Corp. Brady Paul.

Dague pleaded not guilty when arraigned before Judge R. L. Hildebrand. Selection of a jury was begun immediately.

Nearly a score of prospective jurors were examined this morning, but not one was chosen. The defense exhausted seven of its 20 permemptory challenges and the commonwealth only three. All of the others were challenged for cause.

JURY PICKING DIFFICULT

It is proving difficult to get jurors without opinions, the Schroeder case having attracted such wide attention the last two weeks. Most of the jurors called today were empaneled for last week and many of them sat through part of Irene's trial, listening to testimony, most of which will be a repetition in Dague's trial.

Dague, sullen and silent, walked into the courtroom between two deputy sheriffs this morning and stood with right hand upraised to enter his plea.

Athlete Arrested As Purse Snatcher

CHICAGO, March 24.—(INS.)—Chester Francis, former track athlete and graduate of the University of Illinois, occupied a police cell here today after three women identified him as the man who snatched their purses.

The sum total of his loot was $2.08.

Francis wore two fraternity emblems and said he had been assistant track coach at Illinois for two years.

Notorious Brigand Slain in Gun Battle

ATHENS, March 24.—(AP.)—Tzatzas, the notorious Thessalian brigand who last autumn captured 70 inhabitants of Trikkala, one of them a senator, was killed Sunday with his band after a fight in which two gendarmes also were killed.

The heads of the dead brigands were carried to Larissa for exhibition.

PARLEY HERE HOLDS FATE OF GRUNDY

Conference of State G. O. P. Leaders to Make Decision On New 'Harmony' Slate

Senator Joseph R. Grundy's candidacy to succeed himself, which seems now to depend absolutely on the Mellon support, will be settled here probably today.

W. L. Mellon, former Republican state chairman, was expected to confer in Pittsburgh today with locrl leaders on the state political situation that involves two sets of candidates threatening to split the organization.

He arrived home yesterday after a month's yachting cruise and declined to comment on the state of affairs or on any talks he had with Eastern leaders.

GRUNDY, FISHER DUE

Secretary of the Treasury A. W. Mellon, who arrived here Saturday for the announced purpose of attending a dinner tonight honoring the seventy-fifth anniversary of his birth, also has maintained silence on politics.

Secretary Mellon's dinner guests who were scheduled to take part in today's conferences were W. L. Mellon, Senator Grundy, Gov. Fisher and State Chairman Edward Martin. Grundy arrived today, and at Duquesne Club denied himself to interviewers.

The Mellons were reported some time ago as approving a slate headed by Senator Grundy seeking to succeed himself and former State Treasurer Samuel S. Lewis as candidate for governor.

Opposing candidates for the nominations are Secretary of Labor James J. Davis for senator and

SENATE TARIFF BILL TO PASS

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, March 24.—Prompt passage of the administration's new tariff bill was assured in the Senate today when a final effort to limit tariff revision to agricultural products was lost.

The Senate rejected a motion recommitting the bill to the Senate Finance Committee with instructions to strike out all the industrial schedules and to confine revision to the farm schedule. Senator Thomas (Dem.), of Oklahoma, sponsored the motion and only a handful of senators supported it.

The vote was 9 to 70.

PROTECT FARM AID

The nine voting to recommit were McMaster, Nye, Pine, Republicans; Blease, Caraway, Smith, Thomas (Oklahoma), Walsh (Montana) and Wheeler, Democrats.

The Republican insurgents voted generally against the motion as did 26 Democrats, chiefly to save abandonment of seven months' labor on the bill. The insurgents

'Reds' Want to Show Court Riot Movies

Mellon Like Schoolboy At 75, Looks Forward Here to Century Mark

By E. C. SYKES.

SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY ANDREW W. MELLON is 75 today and as happy as a school boy. He is bubbling over with enthusiasm, first because he received so many congratulations from friends and then because the weather is so beautiful.

"You know I really cannot say much about my birthday, because I am supposed to save all of that until my speech tonight, at the dinner given by my friends," he declared.

"WELL, just give us a couple of lines of sentiment," I asked.

"Listen, my boy," said the cool-headed businessman, with a merry twinkle in his eye, "wait until I live to be 100 and then come around and I will give you a real story."

"ACCORDING to mortality tables as kept by life insurance companies, you should live seven years longer than your father," it was suggested. His father, Judge Thomas Mellon, lived to be 95 and his mother 94.

"Well, it's too bad they did not start that mortality system about 200 or 300 years ago," said Mr. Mellon with another smile.

Mr. Mellon then turned questioner.

"HOW'S the employment situation?" he asked.

"Well, there are a lot of men out of work, but it is believed this is largely due to introduction of labor-saving machinery," the reporter suggested.

"It's time now for the farmers to get busy. There will be plenty of road building and lots of public improvements that ought to help some," declared the secretary.

Mr. Mellon later turned to the new federal building to house the postoffice here.

"When is it going to be built?" he was asked.

"Well, they are about ready to ask for bids and I would say that work on the Pittsburgh structure will be started this year."

* * *

ASKED if the country was again to be prosperous, he answered, "I think so."

The subject then turned to income tax collections for 1929.

"What's the outlook as to the total revenue from incomes?" he was asked.

"I am unable to answer just now, but can tell more

WICKERSHAM DRY VIEWS DISCLOSED

'Measurable Enforcement' Possible, He Says, With Test Still Incomplete

WASHINGTON, March 24.—(AP.)—Chairman Wickersham, of the Hoover Law Enforcement Commission, believes the prohibition law "can be measurably enforced, although human appetite is widespread."

This prediction by Wickersham was given the Senate Judiciary Committee when he appeared before it in executive session.

Testimony of that hearing was made public today.

Wickersham said a fair test would have to await an opportunity for enforcement under the Justice Department as proposed in legislation now before Congress.

TEST UNFINISHED

"Until that is done," he asserted, "no one can say absolutely whether the law can be or cannot be enforced.

"I think it can be measurably enforced, although human appetite is widespread. We all know the history of efforts to enforce regulation of the use of liquor which resulted finally in prohibition. It is a long and somewhat disheartening history."

The Judiciary Committee, which is considering a resolution by Senator Norris (Rep.), of Nebraska, for a Senate investigation of prohibition enforcement, today called Attorney General Mitchell to appear before it next week in this connection. The House Judiciary Committee on Wednesday will continue hearing friends of the dry law, also the Senate may

AMERICA READY TO QUIT PARLEY

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, March 24.—Unless some definite progress can be made at the London naval conference within the next week or so it is quite probable the American delegates will come home.

This was plainly intimated here today following a conference between President Hoover and Acting Secretary of State Joseph P. Cotton, at which the situation in London was thoroughly canvassed on the basis of the latest reports from Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, who heads the delegation. These reports are understood to be very pessimistic.

After the conference, Cotton said:

"Reports from London make it perfectly obvious that the next week or two will determine what they will do. I have no other comment to make."

INFLUENCED BY FRENCH

In other words, it is evidently not the intention of the administration to keep the American delegation cooling its heels in London, idly discussing abstract matters while the French delegates spend

Fliers Fail to Find Two Adrift on Lake

DETROIT, March 24.—(INS.)—All available boats of the United States customs border patrol were searching Lake St. Clair today for a 54-foot yawl on which a man and a boy are believed to have been drifting since Saturday night.

Four planes from Selfridge Field, Mt. Clemens, which participated in the search, returned two hours later without finding a trace of the yawl.

Missionaries' Stand Condoned in Capital

WASHINGTON, March 24.—(AP.)—The action of the American missionaries at Hanchow in remaining at their posts despite reports of danger from Chinese Communists was regarded at the State Department today as having been fully justified. Acting Secretary Cotton said today he hopes the missionaries may withdraw until peace is restored.

COME HOME!

SENATOR JOSEPH T. ROBINSON,
Member, American Delegation, London Naval Conference:

Because of your patriotic American address on the radio in London February 20, the American people recognized you as the REAL HEAD OF THE AMERICAN PART OF THE AMERICAN DELEGATION.

It was like a breath of fresh air to hear your doctrine of "no foreign entanglements," after the hesitating, milk-and-water Stimson talk, accentuated by DISPATCHES FROM HALF-CASTE AMERICAN newspaper correspondents in London that Stimson was PERSONALLY in favor of joining the European naval powers in some kind of security pact to guarantee "security" of foreign nations.

That danger is over now, thanks to the service of you and your colleague, Senator David A. Reed, of Pennsylvania, telling your fellow delegates and the world WHAT THE SENATE WOULD NOT STAND FOR.

Why not again assert the moral leadership you have assumed, and LEAD THE AMERICAN DELEGATION HOME?

You have told the European powers that we will go as low in armament as they choose, demanding nothing but parity with Great Britain, which Great Britain and every other nation considers wholly reasonable and moderate on our part.

Why need you and your colleagues participate in the intrigues and log-rolling and secret diplomacy whereby the European powers decide what limit—if any—they will set in their preparations for their next great war of extermination?

Every attempt of Americans to meddle in the settlement of those racial hatreds and distrusts merely exposes us to the charge of taking sides, AND EARNS US SOMEBODY'S HATRED.

IS IT REALLY ANY OF OUR BUSINESS whether Italy gets naval parity with France or not; whether Great Britain's navy MUST equal the navies of the two strongest continental powers or not; whether Great Britain should join France in a pact to prevent Mediterranean murder in war?

Nobody so closely as you has observed the ceaseless maneuvering at the London conference to get the United States into what ex-Ambassador Child has called a pony League of Nations or a bush league of nations. As he says: "THEY HAVE CONFUSED OUR DESIRE FOR PEACE WITH A SUPPOSED DUTY TO JOIN SOME UNITED STATES OF EUROPE."

You have told them we will join nothing of the kind. You have told them our terms: Parity and, along with it, all the reduction they can agree on.

You have done all the GOOD you can do and a further stay may do harm.

Why should not your delegation COME HOME and save the Treasury the $3,000 a day your delegation is now costing in London?

We note that the AUSTRALIAN DELEGATION at the conference has booked passage to sail for home April 12.

Ship.	Sails.	From.
America	March 25	Southampton
American Banker	March 27	London
President Harding	April 2	Southampton
American Shipper	April 3	London
American Trader	April 10	London
George Washington	April 11	Southampton
American Merchant	April 17	London
President Roosevelt	April 17	Southampton

COURT STERN AT HISSING OUTBREAK

Disorder Marks Arguments On Ban When Parmalee Attorney Attacks 'Charity'

Judge Joseph M. Swearingen, in Common Pleas Court today, refused a motion to dissolve the temporary injunction banning the operation of cabs by striking taxi drivers.

An outbreak of disorder marked the hearing on the motion. Spectators, many of them striking drivers and sympathizers, hissed when Attorney Frank B. Ingersoll, representing the Parmelee Transportation Company, declared that operation of the cabs by the strikers "is not a charity."

"These men could go back to work today if they wanted to," declared Ingersoll.

JUDGE AROUSED

Hisses filled the courtroom. Tipstaves and attendants called for order and Judge Swearingen threatened to clear the room.

Following the refusal to dissolve the injunction, arguments were heard on a motion to make the injunction permanent. The temporary restraining order was obtained by the Parmelee company last week on the ground that the striking cab drivers were operating taxis without a certificate of public convenience from the Public Service Commission.

Ralph Trafford, a member of the strikers' executive committee, called to the stand, testified that the strikers had not operated the union cabs. The injunction, he said, had nipped the plan in the bud.

TROLLEY WAGE TALKS BEGUN

Wage conferences between the Street Car Men's Union and the Pittsburgh Street Railways Company involving increased pay demands were begun today in the office of Thomas Fitzgerald, vice president of the company. The present two-year agreement expires May 1.

While no official statement was obtainable, it is reliably reported that the wage committee on behalf of the men ask an increase of 5 cents an hour for conductors and motormen, making the maximum pay 75 cents an hour, and an increase of 15 cents an hour, or a 90-cent maximum, for motormen-conductors on one-man cars.

The scale committee of the union which met Mr. Fitzgerald was headed by William White, president of the union and chairman of the wage committee, and P. J. McGrath, secretary, together with eight others.

Today's conference lasted about an hour and will be continued at later days in the week. Neither side made any statement regarding the discussion.

BABE'S CRY SAVES 12 FROM FIRE AS ONE BURNS TO DEATH

HOME FOUND ABLAZE BY MOTHER

A baby's cry probably saved 12 persons from death today in a fire in First street, Blawnox.

One man was burned to death in his sleep, another was taken to West Penn Hospital unconscious and three firemen were hurt in the blaze.

The loss was estimated at $5,000 by Fire Chief George Lingle, of Blawnox.

Firemen said the man who lost his life was Charles Shpilewski, aged about 38, a boarder. The victim in the hospital is said to be George Nickodovich, 35, another boarder.

BABY WAKENS FAMILY

Mrs. George Metro was awakened by the crying of her three-weeks-old daughter, Lucille.

She discovered the rear porch of the double dwelling in flames.

Mr. and Mrs. Metro, their baby and Mrs. Metro's sister, Elizabeth Bobick, 13, occupy part of the house, while the other portion is occupied by Mrs. Sophie Gablick, her three children and five boarders, all of whom were compelled to flee.

MAN CARRIED OUT

Assistant Fire Chief Charles Lodge and A. W. Bowser carried Shpilewski out of the building and other firemen rescued an unidentified boarder. Lodge and Firemen John Cook and Albert Holden were injured by flying glass.

Directed by Bowser, who is assistant first aid head of the Blawnox Steel plant, volunteer firemen used inhalators upon Shpilewski and also upon the unconscious boarder before taking him to the hospital.

AMERICA READY TO QUIT PARLEY

their time in Paris, unwilling even to remain in London and negotiate.

The fact is now recognized here that the French, for all practical purposes, have walked out of the conference and apparently do not intend to return until they get what the Americans and British refuse to concede—some sort of a security pact.

Well nigh complete paralysis settled over the conference from the time the French departed. The delegates of the other powers have milled around aimlessly, conferring with each other, but utterly unable to make any headway toward a five-power treaty, which was the primary purpose of the gathering.

ONE HOPE LEFT

Of course, it might be possible to work out a three-power treaty between Great Britain, the United States and Japan.

This might be considered better than nothing, but there is small relish for it in Washington because it is recognized that any three-power treaty would of necessity contain an elastic clause permitting Great Britain to build relatively with the big program which the French are planning.

Japanese Cabinet Called On 3-Power Naval Treaty

TOKIO, March 24.—(AP.)—Japan's decision whether to accept or reject the tentative agreement of the Japanese and American delegates to the London naval conference is fully expected to be rendered next Thursday. An extraordinary session of the cabinet has been called for the purpose of finally shaping instructions to the delegation.

There are strong and trustworthy indicatione tonight that the cabinet will authorize Reijiro Wakatsuki, Japan's chief delegate, to accept an agreement approximating the terms laboriously formulated by United States Senator David A. Reed and Tsuneo Matsudaira, Japan's ambassador to Great Britain, delegates to the conference.

Wickersham Views Disclosed

reach a vote soon on the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

IMPROVEMENT SEEN

The Wickersham testimony disclosed that the commission chairman believes there has been a "steady improvement" in dry enforcement, particularly during the last year.

It disclosed also that he is advocating a modification of the penalty-increasing Jones act.

Wickersham said the Jones act "covers the offenses indiscriminately under the classification of felonies with the exception of possession and maintaining a nuisance."

"That is contrary to what I think is sound legislative policy," he continued. "I do not think you ever can enforce laws more effectively by putting extreme penalties on minor violations of the law."

Senator Walsh (Dem.), of Montana, inquired into the administration of this law, and Wickersham testified the judges and prosecuting officers had used "discretion" in the application of the heavy penalties so far as minor offenders were concerned.

REPEAL NOT DEBATED

Wickersham said the law enforcement commission started its work "with the assumption that the Eighteenth Amendment is a part of the Constitution of the United States."

"It was not for us to inquire," he said, "whether the Constitution of the United States should be what it is or not. We took the Constitution."

Commenting on the future of prohibition he asserted:

"I think if the Attorney General has a free hand—as he should have, I think, in reorganizing the bureau—you have as good an assurance of effective conduct of the enforcement agencies as could well be had, provided his personnel is sufficiently compensated and put on a proper basis.

"They are being placed under civil service. That is you best insurance, I think, of the effective enforcement of the law, and then you will know when you have the law enforcing agency of the government in charge of a sufficient length of time to grasp the whole problem—they will be able to tell you what is necessary to bring about the maximum enforcement, and then it will be for Congress to second their efforts or not.

"I think until that is done no one can say absolutely whether the law can be or cannot be enforced."

The chairman reported that the best enforcement of the dry law is in the state of Kansas, while it is least effective in the states where no state enforcement acts exist.

BEER LOSES FAVOR

Wickersham told the Senate committee that "the case for beer seems to be greatly diminishing, and the people who want to drink at all want a strong drink, something more intoxicating."

He estimated that of the 100,000,000 gallons of industrial alcohol manufactured and sold last year, "perhaps there was a diversion of 5,000,000 or 6,000,000 of the special denatured alcohol."

While the old "rum row" off the Atlantic coast has been broken up, Wickersham said, there were still a number of fast ships operated from St. Pierre and Miquelon, off the Newfoundland coast, equipped with tanks with a delivery hose.

"They make a connection," he reported, "probably by radio, with some point on the coast, run in and discharge their cargoes into tank wagons in a very brief space of time and are off. A great deal is brought in that way. How much nobody knows."

Senator Walsh inquired if any of these ships were ever caught, and Wickersham asserted that "quite a number" were seized.

Illicit distilling and diversion of industrial alcohol were the other sources of liquor supply, he said.

HOOVER ASKS NEW DRY FUND

WASHINGTON, March 24.—(AP.)—President Hoover today in a supplemental estimate requested Congress to make available $3,199,727 for the Department of Justice for the fiscal years 1930 and 1931 to aid in the enforcement of the law.

To cover additional expenses of federal courts due to increased work because of prohibition, the President asked a total of $1,267,000, including $425,000 for salaries, fees and expenses of United States marshals, $50,000 for fees to United States commissioners, $640,000 for fees to jurors and witnesses, $40,000 for pay of bailiffs, and $112,000 for miscellaneous expenses.

The estimates also would provide $1,600,000 for support of federal prisoners confined in state and county institutions.

The estimate also calls for $135,000 for salaries of judges in Circuit and District Courts and to cover additional expenses resulting from the creations of the Tenth Judicial Circuit. It also set aside $62,750 for continuing settlement of war claims during the fiscal year 1931.

Senate Tariff Grind Puts 7 on Sick List

WASHINGTON, March 24.—(INS.)—The Senate's sick list was mounting today as it members gave out under the seven months' tariff grind.

Senators Brock, (Dem.), of Tennessee; Fletcher, (Dem.), of Florida, and Couzens, (Rep.), of Michigan, were reported ill at their homes. Senators Shipstead, (Farmer-Labor), of Minnesota; King, (Dem.), of Utah, and Gillett, (Rep.), of Massachusetts, were absent taking health treatments, while Senator Norbeck, (Rep.), of South Dakota, was in Baltimore consulting with specialists.

WASHINGTON, March 24.—(AP.)—A certain pastime in Spain, in the words of Julius Klein, assistant Secretary of Commerce, arouses passionate enthusiasm and the many contests attract vast outpourings of people. Bullfights? No! Soccer.

Cheaper, Bigger Radium Discovery Reported

SAN FRANCISCO, March 24.—(AP.)—Development of a new process for extracting radium which, it is hoped, will make possible large scale production and the consequent lowering of the cost, was announced today by the Mar-John Mines Company.

Although the attainments at the laboratories of the company here are too inconclusive for a definite assessment as yet of the commercial significance of the discoveries, the expectancy exists at the offices that the new process will eventually bring into production vast deposits of radio active ores not now operable in competition with Belgian controlled African ores.

The process announced today is largely the work of Arthur Hand Burton, metallurgical chemist. It involves use of both the Cathode ray and the Hassel-Mar current of dynamic electricity the latter in voltages varying from 500,000 to 3,500,000.

Cost of recovering radium, now valued at about $65,000 a gram, depends largely upon the amount of ore which must be treated to produce a given quantity of radium, but the time required for the treatment is a formidable factor and it is in this phase of the industry that the hope of lessening costs is based.

From a normal period of 90 days, the process of recovery was shortened in the recent experiments to less than 30 from mine to radium salts and it is expected that it will be cut to a week or two or even to a few days.

STRIKERS LOSE UNION TAXI LINE PLEA

one in which fists and folding chairs were used promiscuously. It resulted in several broken heads and swollen jaws.

Five men were arrested charged with inciting riot and later released on forfeits. They were: Clyde Hill, 29, of 410 Bates street; August Runzo, 24, of 2406 Center avenue; Harry Levine, 31, of 16 Davenport street; Max Gold, 31, of 60 Roberts street; Edmond Haney, 21, of 11 Tecumseh street, all said to be "Back to Work" men. Arthur Colville, 27, of 32 Stanton avenue, Millvale, a "40 per cent and closed shop man" was released on his own recognizance.

The hearing of the five men, scheduled for today, was postponed until tomorrow, owing to the inability of their counsel, Attorney Henry Ellenbogen, to be present.

TOOLE OUSTED

Paul E. Toole, former chairman of the striking drivers, was ejected from the meeting. It was explained that he had claimed to have "led the men out on strike and would lead them back within three days."

There were two versions of yesterday's battle. Members of the strikers' committee said that the "back to work" committeemen crashed the doors and slugged John Tate, a Green cab driver, with a chair and precipitated a free-for-all slugging match.

The "back to work committee," through its spokesman, Maurice Fromme, claimed that the members went to the meeting to demand a vote on returning to work and with no idea of causing trouble. They started out from their headquarters 50 strong, Fromme said. Twenty-five of them got into the meeting, Fromme said, and were attacked.

"We did not intend to make trouble," he said.

The fracas lasted only a few minutes. A riot call was sent in by the management of Moose Temple.

SUPPORT ASSURED

John J. Riley, president of the Pittsburgh Building Trades Council; Louis Leonard, International Association secretary of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers of North America; George Seibert, of the Pile Drivers and Dock Workers' local union, and Leonard Williams, introduced as a "North Side business man," all declared in separate addresses that organized labor is solidly behind the taxicab drivers in their fight for recognition of their union and 40 per cent of meter receipts.

SENATE TARIFF BILL TO PASS

also wanted to protect the provision carrying the debentures form of farm relief which was added to the bill by the Senate.

After the motion to recommit had been lost, Senator LaFollette (Rep.), of Wisconsin, delivered a scathing attack on the measure, which he called "Grundy's billion-dollar tariff bill and the worst tariff bill in the nation's history."

"A vote for the Grundy bill," he said, "either as it passes the Senate or as it comes back from conference, will be a vote to turn the Senate into a market place where legislation is written by bargaining and where the lobby with the largest number of votes to trade dictates the terms of legislation.

CITES SECRET DEALS

"As the bill stands today, it is the product of a series of deals conceived in secret. These have added indefensible duties, estimated to increase the consumers' burden by a billion dollars a year.

"The bill has sown seeds of international ill-will which the United States is already repaying in the form of retaliatory measures. It is an absolute violation to the President's message urging a limited revision. Instead, it grants special favors to industries which have enjoyed exceptional profits during recent years."

Senator Blease, of North Carolina, also assailed the measure and those in charge of it, terming the high-duty coalition an "unholy and un-American alliance." He said he was "disguested," and suggested that the bill either be killed or "passed at once so that the people can get rid of those who imposed upon them."

BLAINE RENEWS ATTACK

Earlier in the debate Senator Blaine (Rep.), of Wisconsin, renewed his attack on the independent oil producers. He read a telegram from Mrs. H. E. Thomas, Republican national committeewoman from his state, which said she had been informed of a move in Oklahoma to "boycott Wisconsin products" because of Blaine's opposition to an oil tariff. Senator Thomas said he had no knowledge of such a boycott.

Senator Nye (Rep.), of North Dakota, read telegrams from lumber dealers in Minneapolis complaining against the "solicitation" by a Western Union agent" of messages to be sent to Washington advocating a higher lumber tariff. Western Union officials later explained that solicitation of messages from both opponents and proponents of legislation before Congress was a regular business practice.

Penn State Has Second 'Window' Cow

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., March 24.—Penn State has another cow with a "window" in her side. By an operation leaving an opening to the stomach of Penstate Jessie No. 2, scientists will be able to continue their observation of the operation of a cow's stomach. These studies were interrupted by the death of Penstate Jessie No. 1.

Wheeling (W. Va.) auto salesman opened without the fanfare that marked the beginning of the trial of the blonde one-time waitress two weeks ago.

CROWDS ABSENT

Only a few spectators mingled with the jury panel as Dague was arraigned.

Mrs. Theresa Dague, wife of the defendant, and mother of his two children, reported to have visited him in his cell yesterday, was not present when the trial began today. She is supporting her children by teaching school at Viola, W. Va.

The same legal forces are pitted against each other in Dague's trial as contended in Irene's. District Attorney John S. Powers, aided by Special Prosecutor Charles J. Margiotti, is seeking to send the defendant to the electric chair. Defending him are Attorneys Ben Jarrett and Thomas W. Dickey.

A motion for a new trial for Irene was to be made today before Judge Hildebrand. He will set a date for a hearing on the motion, which likely will not be for a month.

The jury which will hear Dague's case will be chosen from a special panel of 60 veniremen drawn for this week and the remnants of two special panels of 60 each drawn for service last week.

FAIR ON "OUTS"

Dague and Irene were on the "outs" today as he began his fight to escape the punishment meted out to her. Dague's defense will be, it was said, that because of his affection for Irene, she was able to force him to do her wishes. Mrs. Schroeder, while on the witness stand in her own defense, told the jury that when she first met Dague in Wheeling he was living with his family and was working. About two months later, she said, he left his family and together they began to tour the country, making one-night stops in various cities between here and Missouri.

about it in another week," was the reply.

Mr. Mellon did not care to discuss state politics, although it was indicated he was interested.

MR. MELLON'S attention was directed to the strong position of the savings accounts of Pittsburgh's banks. Leading institutions show they now hold more to the credit of depositors than before the break in the stock market last November.

"A lot of money was sent East last year because of the high call rates, and no doubt considerable was sent into the market by individuals, attracted by these rates," said Mr. Mellon, "No doubt much of this money has been returned."

Mr. Mellon left his home in Woodland road shortly after 9 o'clock this morning, accompanied by Mr. Finley, of the Treasury Department, and went to the Mellon National Bank, of which his brother, Richard B. Mellon, is head. There he was greeted by many friends.

Flowers also had been sent to his home by close friends. Mr. Mellon's splendid physical appearance attracted much comment.

TRADE GAINS CONFIRMED BY SURVEY

Business Conference Head Points to Construction And Reasonable Credit

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, March 24.—President Hoover's recent statement that a revival of business is indicated within the next few weeks is strongly supported by a survey of conditions issued by Julius H. Barnes, chairman of the National Business Survey Conference.

Barnes reported cold facts, without attempting to draw conclusions. He outlined conditions as they are today, four months after the stock market crash.

The "business doctor" pointed to two significant facts:

PROJECTS GROW

1—Vast construction projects, federal, state and municipal, backed by great industrial programs such as proposed by the railroads, public utilities and other lines of business, exceed early estimates.

2—Adequate and reasonably-priced credit now established.

"The reports from the various industries indicate that the importance laid upon construction as an influence in restoring industrial balance have not been over-emphasized," declared Barnes.

"They show that for a revival of construction in its manifold forms a first requirement is adequate and reasonably priced credit."

That credit is already in evidence as a stabilizer, the report showed.

BOND ISSUES GAIN

"January and February bond issues were 33 per cent larger than in the same period last year," Barnes said. "In general there is an increase in funds available for both long and short time securities.

"There is evidence that the general easing of bank credits is reaching the smaller centers."

Barnes declared that early estimates on new construction and other capital expenditures now show larger totals.

"Utilities of all kinds contemplate such expenditure this year to an aggregate of $3,250,000,000 as against $2,863,000,000 last year."

"Other private construction in all its forms, it now seems probable, will reach at least as large as last year."

CONSTRUCTION ACTIVE

Except for residential building, there are continued signs of improvement in the construction industry, Barnes announced. Awards for concrete pavement and for state and county roads exceed last year at this time by 82 per cent and are 40 per cent above 1928.

"Shipments of Portland cement this February were the largest of any February in the past four years," he said.

Railroads will spend $1,050,000,000 for replacements and betterments or $140,000,000 more in the first six months this year than the same period last year. The payroll total for February was higher than last year, it was reported.

The survey showed that various industries are weathering the period of depression with indications of substantial revivals. Steel operations last week were at 75 per cent of capacity with indications for an increase in production. Automobile production is increasing. Radio surplus stocks are 85 per cent absorbed. The oil industry has curtailed production and prices have steadied.

3 Bandits Battle Greensburg Guard

GREENSBURG, Pa., March 24.—Three bandits shot it out with Paul Jones, night watchman of the First National Bank Building here early today, escaping in the darkness as a cordon of police, hurriedly called, combed the city. The attempt is the first made to rob offices in the bank building. State police admitted rounding up three suspects later today, but refused to divulge names.

'LOAN' OF WIFE IN LOVE TEST REVEALED AFTER SUICIDE

'OTHER MAN' DEAD, SHE RETURNS

Detroit Art, Curator Takes Woman Back After Her Romance Ends in Tragedy

DETROIT, March 24.—(AP.)—A three-weeks journey to Bermuda, Havana and other Southern points with the wife of a Detroit art curator, taken with the consent of the latter as "an experiment," preceded the suicide of Thomas A. Newton in Miami, Fla., last week. This was revealed yesterday by Benjamin March with the return of his wife.

He had agreed to the experiment, he said, to save his wife from a "wild infatuation."

AGREED TO 'TEST'

His wife and Newton, he said, had told him in February they wanted to go away together. He agreed, he said, with the understanding that if his wife decided she cared more for him and their 18-month-old child than she did for Newton she would return to him.

From Miami she wired him, he said, that she wanted to return. Yesterday they were reunited, returned to their home here for a few hours and then disappeared.

Meanwhile Newton's widow is awaiting the return of his body to their home in Birmingham, a Detroit suburb.

MISSIONARY'S DAUGHTER

Newton, the son of a wealthy Detroit packer, was a major in the Inspector general's department of the Michigan National Guard.

March, curator of Asiatic art at the Detroit Institute of Arts, is a graduate of the University of Chicago.

Shortly after his graduation March went to the Orient and studied oriental art and language. Mrs. March was born in China, the daughter of a missionary. For a time she taught in a girls' college at Peiping and it was while there that she met March. They were married four years ago.

NEWTON CALLED OWN WIFE

Mrs. March has written numerous stories and verses for children, using her maiden name, Dorothy Rowe.

It was learned today that after she had wired her husband from Miami of her intention to return to him, and shortly before Newton killed himself, Newton telephoned his wife asking her to come to him in Miami. What her answer was has not been learned. She left her home in Birmingham shortly after word was received of Newton's death, and it was assumed she had gone to Miami to bring back his body.

Newton's Father in Miami Investigating His Death

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 24.—(AP.)—A grief-stricken father came to Miami Beach today, hoping to hear more of the circumstances under which his son, Thomas A. Newton, of Detroit, killed himself in a hotel here Friday after a "love experiment" with the wife of another.

The father, T. E. Newton, of Detroit, and young Newton's stepmother arrived in Miami late yesterday.

Newton called a telephone operator in the hotel Friday shortly before he died, and told her he had shot himself. He told police the shooting was the result of a quarrel the previous night with a young woman, but he declined to give her name.

MELLON RAKED IN TAX REFUNDS

WASHINGTON, March 24.—(AP.)—Assailing the tax refunds that have been made under Secretary Mellon, Representative Byrns, of Tennessee, chairman of the Democratic National Congressional Committee, said in a statement last night that the total of those made since the Secretary took over direction of the Treasury would reach almost $3,000,000,000.

Byrns fixed the total at $2,700,000,000 and said that if pending claims were settled on a similar basis "another billion dollars will be added, making the total refunds nearly $4,000,000,000, with which sum in the Treasury the Federal Government could suspend the collection of all taxes for an entire year."

Of the total, Byrns said, more than $97,000,000, including interest, had been returned to the United States Steel Corporation.

Sir Roger Keyes Made Fleet Admiral

LONDON, March 24.—(AP.)—Admiral Sir Roger Keyes has been promoted admiral of the fleet following the retirement of Sir Somerset Gough-Calthorpe. Sir Roger is renowned chiefly for direction of the Dover patrol's operations off the Belgian coast in 1918 and his was the mind and the hand which planned and executed the famous raids on Zeebruge and Ostend.

AL CAN'T STAY, FLORIDA SAYS

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., March 24.—(AP.)—Gov. Doyle E. Carlton declared here today that Al Capone, Chicago gang leader, "will not establish headquarters in Florida."

Capone may for a time "wrap about himself the technicalities of the law," the Governor added, "but his element will not take root here. His attendants will not be an armed guard to protect him in his past crimes against society."

The Governor's statement followed action of Capone in procuring a Federal Court injunction restraining Florida sheriffs from carrying out on order from Gov. Carlton to arrest the gang chief on sight and convey him to the state's border.

Capone was expected to arrive at his estate on Palm Island at Miami late today or tomorrow.

COLLEGES VOTE ON DRY LAW

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., March 24.—(INS.)—Thousands of college and university students of the nation today were casting their ballots on prohibition.

Harvard Crimson, the university's undergraduate daily newspaper, distributed ballots to 8,312 students here as part of the poll the publication is conducting in co-operation with colleges and universities throughout the country, to ascertain the attitude of students toward prohibition.

Eighteen institutions of learning are participating in the vote. Yale, Brown, Rutgers, Williams and Massachusetts Institute of Technology have voted. Those voting today were: Harvard, Amherst, Colgate, Cornell, Dartmouth, Howard, Illinois, Lafayette, Pennsylvania, Pittsburgh, Princeton, Purdue and Washington and Jefferson.

Two Without Homes Freed at Hearings

Asked by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg where he lived, George Youslack, 34, arrested for drunkenness, said, "No place." "And where do you live?" Rothenberg asked Joseph Sabalett, 40, a co-defendant. "The same place," was the reply. The magistrate discharged both.

Potsdam to Remove Kaiser's Park Gate

POTSDAM, Germany, March 24.—(AP.)—An elaborate iron entrance gate at Sans Souci Park, which was purchased for the former Kaiser at the Chicago World's Exposition, will be removed shortly and the entrance will be restored in conformity with the original structure of Frederick the Great.

HEFLIN SCORES DOHENY JURY

WASHINGTON, March 24.—(INS.)—"The verdict in the Doheny case was a travesty on justice," Senator Heflin, (Dem.), of Alabama, declared in the Senate today.

"The jurors who acquitted Doheny ought to be blacklisted for life and never allowed to sit as jurors again," he said.

"If this was some poor starving man who stole a loaf of bread they would have sent him to jail," shouted Heflin.

If it was a poor woman who stole to live she would have been sent to the penitentiary But this millionaire who sought to plunder the government gets his freedom.

The jurors just sang Bye, Bye, Blackbird. It is common knowledge that in the other oil trials jurors blossomed out in automobiles and had bank accounts they never had before.

Every man and woman on the Doheny Jury should be blacklisted for life. I hope to see the time when we will have one standard of justice for rich and poor alike.

Gen. Summerall Disgusted At Mysterious 'Incident'

WASHINGTON, March 24.—(INS.)—Considerable mystery surrounds an "incident" at Aberdeen Proving Grounds, Md., late last week which caused Gen. C. P. Summerall, chief of staff and highest ranking officer in the army, to leave the field in disgust, it leaked out today.

The nearest approach to an explanation was that when Summerall went to Aberdeen to witness a demonstration, he felt he was not shown the proper courtesy by the officer in charge. Whatever happened, Summerall expressed himself tartly to Col. Edward M. Shinkle, commanding officer.

Confirming the fact that an "unpleasant incident" had occurred, Summerall authorized this statement:

"The deportment of some of the officers at Aberdeen was not satisfactory, and corrective action was taken on the spot. So far as Gen. Summerall is concerned the incident is closed and no further disciplinary action will be taken unless taken by the commanding officer at Aberdeen."

Summerall, the acme of courtesy himself, is known in the army as a strict disciplinarian, but is said to be beloved by the men who have served under him.

King George Gives Record of Talk To U. S. Envoys

LONDON, March 24.—(AP.)—King George today presented each of the seven American naval conference delegates with phonograph records of his speech on the opening of the parley two months ago.

Each record was contained in a leather case lined with plush. The outside of the case bears the royal coat of arms in gold, while on the inside cover is the King's autograph and the name of the delegate.

Secretary of State Stimson gathered all the delegates in his apartment, where the presentation took place. He replied for the delegation and conveyed thanks to the King.

Pope, Mussolini To Receive Butler

VATICAN CITY, March 24.—(AP.)—Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, who arrived in Rome today with his wife and daughter, visited the Vatican Library to inspect the new cataloguing system recently installed with American financial aid. Dr. Butler was welcomed by Cardinal Ehrle, Vatican librarian, and Cardinal Pacelli, secretary of state. He will also be received by the Pope and Premier Mussolini.

While John Collie, 42, was sleeping on the Water street wharf last night, someone stole his shoes. A policeman came along and arrested Collie on a charge of drunkenness. Magistrate Leo Rothenberg discharged him.

UNDERSEA RUM BOAT SOUGHT

LOS ANGELES, March 24.—Contraband liquor in wholesale quantities is reported being poured into Southern California through the medium of a "reconditioned" German submarine. It is said to have landed liquor valued at $500,000.

The "sub" is declared to be owned and operated by a group of liquor barons maintaining headquarters in Vancouver, B. C., and Ensenada, Mexico.

Federal prohibition officials admitted that they had received word of the operations of the under-sea craft. However, they stated that if details of their investigation were made public the sub might escape from the traps which have now been laid for it.

According to reports in the dry agents' hands the sub is attached to a liquor steamer, cruising far out at sea.

According to the information in the hands of the Prohibition Bureau, the submarine submerges during the day, when Coast Guard cutters or suspicious steamers are in the vicinity, coming up for "air" when the sea is clear.

2 Ships to Carry 41 on Record Air Trip

NEW YORK, March 24.—(INS.)—Setting a new record for the number of persons carried in a transcontinental air flight, two giant Western Air Express 32-passenger planes will leave New York Wednesday for Los Angeles with 34 passengers, four pilots, a radio engineer and two mechanics.

Actual flying time for the trip will be 28 hours, with stops scheduled at Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago, St. Louis, Kansas City, Wichita and Denver.

2,000 SEE RITES FOR MONASTERO

Sam Monastero, 45, North Side produce merchant, who police say was a racketeer and bootleg king, today lies in a grave in West View Cemetery, alongside the grave of his brother, Stephano. Both men were murdered within a year, police say, of a bootleg war.

About 2,000 persons crowded in and around Queen of Heaven Catholic Church, Juniata street, yesterday afternoon for the funeral services. There were 100 automobiles in the funeral cortege A blessing service was conducted by the Rev. Guglielmotti Raphal, pastor of the church.

An escort of two motorcycle policemen accompanied the funeral procession to the city limits. There they were substituted by two state highway patrolmen who led the procession to the cemetery. Monastero leaves his widow, Frances Duca Monastero and two daughters.

Stephan was murdered last August, shot down as he was entering the St. John's Hospital to visit a friend. Sam was found strangled with a towel, seated in his automobile in Jacks Run hollow several days ago. The murderers were not apprehended.

PFARR RENAMED FIRE MARSHAL

For the eighteenth year, Thomas L. Pfarr today kept his hold on the job of Fire Marshal of Allegheny County. He was reappointed by Judge Josiah Cohen following a conference with Judge John A. Evans.

Pfarr had met opposition to his reappointment for the first time in his career. William R. Morgan, of Dormont, backed by County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong and Fire Chief Richard L. Smith, had filed an application for the post.

The judges, however, again selected the man familiar to thousands who have seen him speeding in a red roadster to fires large or small. For his work, Pfarr will receive the same county salary of $10 a year.

$2 Ticket Wins $51,750, Miner Quits Work

SAN DIEGO, Cal., March 24.—(AP.)—So George Fischer, weighmaster of the Washoe Sampler Works Mine, Butte, Mont., took the $51,750 he made on the Agua Caliente Handicap and quit work. Fischer drew Victorian in the sweepstakes to make his "killing."

"I'm writing my letter of resignation today," he said. "This has put me on easy street and there I plan to spend the remainder of my days."

Fischer is 51 and unmarried. After collecting his prize he will go to Los Angeles, where he formerly worked, to visit a brother. Beyond that he said he had made no plans.

Winner of second place money went to Bob Wood, Santa Ana, Cal., who is to collect $23,000.

A. M. Comer, Emmitsburg, Md., won $11,500 for third place. There was $115,000 worth of prizes, drawn from nearly 65,000 $2 tickets.

MELLON BACKS DRY PENSION

By WILLIAM S. NEAL,
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, March 24.—Reversing a former decision, Secretary of the Treasury Mellon today informed the House Claims Committee he would not object to passage of a bill giving $150 a month pension for life to George Charles Walthers, who was permanently injured when shot by a prohibition officer near Underwood, Wash.

The measure already has been approved by the claims committee, a majority of which is dry, and will be considered in the House soon.

Although the measure had the approval of Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, former assistant attorney general in charge of prohibition enforcement, it may arouse opposition as a precedent for scores of claims for other persons injured by prohibition officers in the last few years.

Russian Orthodox Bishop Pays Visit

Bishop Arseny, of Winnipeg, Can., head of the Russian Orthodox Church in the United States and Canada, was present at services yesterday in St. Alexander Nevsky Russian Orthodox Greek Catholic Church, Ketchum street, North Side. He celebrated the divine liturgy service yesterday morning. The bishop is visiting Pittsburgh to tell followers of his faith of the Russian emigration to Canada.

Called for Trial in Stepfather's Killing

Vincent Sweeney, 27, of 68 Edgewood avenue, went on trial in Criminal Court today, charged with the murder of his stepfather, John J. Fitzgerald, 68, last December 27. Fitzgerald followed Sweeney to the basement and ordered him from the house, the commonwealth charges, when the aged man was shot and fatally wounded with his own revolver in his stepson's hands.

WOMAN ASSAILS PARKER ON OIL

WASHINGTON, March 24.—(INS.)—A protest against confirmation of John J. Parker, federal judge in North Carolina, as an associate justice of the United States Supreme Court, charging his appointment was influenced by "oil interests," was lodged with the Senate Judiciary Committee today by Miss Mary W. F. Speers, a Washington business woman.

It was the first note of opposition thus far sounded against the appointment.

She charged Judge Parker pronounced a decision against her which benefited George G. Pratt, brother of the head of the Standard Oil Company of New York.

The nomination of Judge Parker and Miss Speer's protest were referred to a sub-committee for investigation. The committee comprised Senators Overman (Dem.), of North Carolina, chairman; Herbert (Rep.), of Rhode Island, and Borah (Rep.), of Idaho.

Nicaragua Canal Survey Needs Cash

WASHINGTON, March 24.—(AP.)—With one quarter million dollars already spent, Secretary Hurley believes it may be necessary for the War Department to ask an increased appropriation from Congress to complete a survey of the proposed right of way for a canal across Nicaragua.

Climantic conditions, rain, tropical winds and heavy underbrush were given as reasons for the heavy expenditure above the original estimated sum. Hurley said the board of engineers has asked $7,000 additional.

Impeachment Quiz Asked for Judge

WASHINGTON, March 24.—(INS.)—Investigation of Federal Judge Harry B. Anderson, of Memphis, Tenn., to determine whether impeachment proceedings should be started was demanded in a resolution introduced in the House today by Representative La Guardia (Rep.), of New York. La Guardia said charges had been made that the judge required court receivers to deposit money in a trust company which was making loans to members of his family.

Shut Down 2 Years, Ohio Mine to Open

BELLAIRE, O., March 24.—(AP.)—The Big Run mine of the Rail and River Coal Company near here will resume operations April 1 after two years of idleness. The company has announced that 550 men will be wanted for employment. Improvements were completed recently at the mine.

RESERVE BOARD SHOWS GAIN IN OUTPUT

Production Greater, With Workers Unchanged; Drop In Cost of Commodities

Universal Service

WASHINGTON, March 24.—Industrial production increased in February, the Federal Reserve Board announced.

Number of workers employed in factories remained about the same as in January, the report stated. Wholesale commodity prices continued to decline. Credit extended by member banks was further reduced in February, but increased during the first two weeks of March.

Money rates continued to decline.

The report said:

PRODUCTION GAINS

"Production—February industrial production increased about 2 per cent, according to the board's index, which is adjusted to allow for seasonal variations. This increase reflected chiefly a substantial gain in the output of iron and steel. Automobile production was in larger volume than during January, but was 30 per cent smaller than the large output of a year ago. Cotton and wool consumption by mills was substantially lower in February and production of bituminous coal and copper also decreased.

"In the first two weeks of March the output of steel mills declined in comparison with February, contrary to the usual seasonal movement. Bituminous coal output also was smaller.

BUILDING STEADY

"The volume of building contracts awarded in February was about the same as in the preceding month.

"Employment—The volume of factory employment, which had reached a low point in January, showed little change in February, when an increase usually occurs.

"Distribution—Freight carloadings on an average daily basis were slightly larger than in January, but smaller than in the corresponding month of any other recent year.

PUPIL SLAYER ESCAPES JAIL

MORRISTOWN, N. J., March 24.—(AP)—Alphonse Mieri, arrested at Blair Academy where he was a student, on charges of murder and robbery, escaped last night from the Morris County jail after knocking the night keeper unconscious with a club.

The youth, who is 19, called the night keeper, Arthur C. Fairlamb, to his cell, hit him with the club he had concealed, and with the keeper's keys unlocked his way to freedom.

Mieri was indicted Wednesday by the New York County grand jury on charges of murder and robbery. He is alleged to have been one of four young gunmen who, on January 2, last, held up a cigar store in New York, during which an unidentified Negro was shot and killed.

Mieri was traced to Blair Academy, at Blairstown, which he entered early in February, and was arrested March 12. Pending his extradition to New York he was lodged in the county jail here.

Firemen Use Masks To Fight Blaze

Equipped with gas masks, firemen early today fought a stubborn fire in the three-story building at 709 Penn avenue, occupied by the Keystone Cloak and Suit Company. Smoke and flames filled the basement of the three-story structure and made it difficult for firemen to enter the building.

According to Deputy Fire Chief Frank Jones, who estimated the loss at $2,500, the fire originated in the basement.

POLICE BLOCK RED MEETING

Efforts by Communists to hold a meeting in Hungarian Hall, Beech street, East Pittsburgh, was frustrated yesterday afternoon when police arrived from East Pittsburgh and North Braddock. Posters had announced a gathering scheduled for 2 p. m.

East Pittsburgh police under Lieut. David Bennett and North Braddock police under Lieut. James Kelly arrived a half hour earlier. Alleged Communists and police watched one another without making a move until nearly 4 o'clock when a notice was posted on the door stating the meeting place had been changed to Croatian Hall, North avenue, Chalfant. Police followed and there was no meeting, they said.

Think Gang Victim Was Minor Hoodlum

CHICAGO, March 24.—(INS)—Police today partially identified the body of a man found slain near the place where John "Dingbat" Oberta was put on the "spot" as a minor hoodlum employed by the Saltis gang to which Oberta belonged.

The body was found yesterday with several bullets in it. The identification supported the police theory that the killing was connected with the recent gang killing of Oberta and his bodyguard, Sam Malega.

COOLIDGE EYES PRESIDENCY

WASHINGTON, March 24—(Universal)—Calvin Coolidge has written a roundup of the year since he left the White House and has frankly discussed the suggestion that he run for the presidency again. He also discusses the attempts under way to repeal the Eighteenth Amendment, the tariff and the suggestion he be a candidate for Senator from Massachusetts this fall, Ray Long, editor of Cosmopolitan Magazine admitted here.

"This article seemed to me to be so important that I wanted to rip the April number off the press when I received it," said Long. "Mr. Coolidge wrote it in Florida and wrote me a letter about what it contained. I felt it was so important to the country that I wanted to stop the presses. I wired Mr. Coolidge to that effect but he said the May issue was the one it should appear in. He apparently had a definite reason for this.

"Mr. Coolidge gives this article the title of 'Reflections From Private Life,' and for the first time he calls it a 'story.' That is exactly what it is—a news story. It will appear on the news stands on April 10th. I can only says that Mr. Coolidge reviews the first year of the new administration, the tariff, prohibition and other major questions. I would break a confidence if I revealed what is in the article."

The article, Long said, was written by Coolidge on the anniversary of the first magazine story he wrote after completing his term as president.

"Has Mr. Coolidge taken President Hoover 'for a ride'?" Long was asked.

He refused to answer that question.

"Will Mr. Coolidge run for the presidency again?" he was asked.

"He states his mind on this, as well as the suggestion that he run for Senator from Massachusetts this fall," Long replied. "I think this will interest every man and woman in America in view of what he has to say about the year just passed since he has been out of office. That is all that I can say without breaking confidence with Mr. Coolidge."

Senate, House Tariff Schedules Compared

WASHINGTON, March 24.—(INS.)—A review of the important changes in the new tariff bill, as gathered by International News Service, follow:

DOCTORS EAGER FOR CANCER SERUM

Co-Discoverer of Latest Treatment Tells of Great Interest Shown in East

Universal Service.

LOS ANGELES, March 24.—Virtually every physician whom Dr. Walter Coffey and Dr. John B. Humber met during their recent trip to Washington, D. C., wanted to know how soon the Coffey-Humber cancer treatment would be available for use outside the clinics now conducted under the personal supervision of the two discoverers.

This highly significant statement was made by Dr. Humber, who returned in time to attend the regular Saturday clinic here, at which nearly 500 patients were treated.

RIGID SUPERVISION

All these inquiries were told, Dr. Humber said, that the extract which forms the basis of the treatment would be made available through rigidly supervised channels as soon as further experiments has shown more definitely just what can be accomplished.

Further evidence of the widespread interest in the medical fraternity has been shown, he said, by the announcement that the Chemical Foundation, with headquarters in New York, plans to finance a trip to the Pacific Coast for a group of experts who will visit the Los Angeles and San Francisco clinics. Dr. Joseph C. Bloodgood, outstanding cancer specialist of Johns Hopkins, is also expected to come to inspect the work.

BABY TREATED

Among the hundreds of patients treated Saturday was the youngest on record—an 18 months old baby, suffering from birth with malignant sarcoma. The child received its first treatment and stood the injection like a veteran.

The oldest patient in the Southern California district is a 94-year-old Long Beach man, and a woman, over 90, is progressing well at the sanitarium.

PRIZE WRITER DIES UNKNOWN

NEW YORK, March 24.—(AP.)—The body of an elderly man who fell dead on the street in Brooklyn, Friday, has been identified as that of Prof. Justin Harvey Smith, author and historian, who won the 1919 Pulitzer prize for history and formerly served on the faculties of Harvard University and Dartmouth College.

The body was identified by George A. Plympton, head of Ginn and Company, publishers, of which Prof. Smith was a partner. Physicians said the professor had died of a heart attack. He was 73 years old.

From 1899 to 1908, he was professor of modern history at Dartmouth and from 1896 to 1906 was a member of the visiting committee on romance philosophy at Harvard.

In 1920, Columbia University gave him the $2,000 Pulitzer prize for "The Letters of Santa Ana," adjudged the best book on American history published the previous year. In 1893 he received the first Loubet prize of $1,000 for the best book in English on the history, geography, archeology, ethnology, philology and numismatics of North America.

Suits Opened Over Fatal Gas Explosion

WAYNESBURG, Pa., March 24.—Five actions in trespass resulting from a gasoline blast which occurred in West Waynesburg, March 13, 1928, are scheduled for trial in Greene County Common Pleas Court which opens here Monday. Four different persons and one automobile firm are involved in the five suits and cross suits.

Two persons, John B. Gordon, of Waynesburg, and Harry Lewis, of Marianna, were killed in the blast.

Builder's Residence Looted of $25,000

NEW YORK, March 24.—(AP.)—Jewelry valued at $25,000 as well as furs, silver and clothing, were stolen yesterday from the West Eighty-first street apartment of Leo J. Fischer, president of Thompson-Starrett Company, contractors.

The thieves forced a service door with a "jimmy" while the family and domestics were out.

ARTIST READY FOR GRILLING ON SLAYING

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 24.—Henri Marchand, artist and sculptor of international renown, steeled himself today for the ordeal he must go through when he is summoned to the stand this week at the trial of Lila Jimerson, his dark-eyed Indian sweetheart who is charged with the murder of his wife.

The jury was nearer to completion at today's session than it was at the close of court Friday.

Although one juror was chosen at the morning session he merely occupied the chair vacated by a juror excused because of illness in his family and the number of jurors remained at nine.

District Attorney Guy B. Moore asserts that Lila plotted the slaying of Mrs. Clothilde Marchand, the artist's wife, because she believed that Marchand, who had made love to her when she posed for him, would some day marry her. Mrs. Marchand was beaten to death in her home by Nancy Bowen, a superstitious 66-year-old Indian woman, on March 6 under circumstances still shrouded in mystery. Nancy was a friend of Lila's and was taken to the Marchand home by Lila. She was Lila's dupe, according to the state.

Marchand himself professes to have only the deepest contempt for Lila and says he is crushed by the death of his wife, with whom he lived for 22 years. He insists he knew nothing of any conspiracy to kill Mrs. Marchand and denies promising to marry Lila.

Fox Film Row Showdown Near

NEW YORK, March 24.—Litigation between the two factions of the Fox motion picture enterprises has been further complicated, it has been learned, by an order signed Saturday by Supreme Court Justice McCook.

Under this order, issued at the instance of Winfield R. Sheehan, vice president and general manager of the Fox Film Corporation and proponent of the Halsey, Stuart & Co. plan of financing, cause must be shown next Friday before Justice Ford why William Fox and 13 co-defendants should not be enjoined, pending litigation over control of the $300,000,000 Fox interests, from proceeding with the Bancamerica-Blair financial plan favored by the defendants.

As interpreted by Nathan Burkan, counsel for Sheehan, and by the latter, this step makes for a "showdown" in the controversy that has split the Fox organization. The Sheehan affidavit revealed, for the first time, some of the intimate incidents transpiring in the several months preceding the litigation.

Millions Saved

Sheehan alleges his proposal of a trusteeship under the Halsey, Stuart & Co. plan, originally approved by Fox, would prove up to $31,000,000 cheaper than the Bancamerica-Blair enterprise and would provide $5,000,000 more working capital.

His affidavit makes the significant comment:

"I understood also that there were side agreements with Mr. Fox in connection with the so-called Bancamerica-Blair plan which were not revealed or divulged at the directors' meeting."

He said too:

"The attitude of Mr. Fox has been harmful to the best interests of the companies and his own interests. Without reasonable justification he has sought to repudiate a trust agreement under which these companies would be fully and completely financed. He has been obstructive to every suggestion that would be of benefit to the companies."

Personal Whims

Commenting on the Halsey, Stuart & Co. idea Sheehan said:

"Mr. Fox should have been the first to welcome an opportunity to carry out such a plan. Instead, he has conducted himself as if these enterprises were his own private affair, to be regulated by his own whims, personal desires and caprices, disregarding the many thousands of stockholders who hold his securities and the many creditors and thousands of employes whose livelihood depends on the proper continuance of these enterprises."

Sheehan insisted he never sought and does not seek a receivership.

The defendants named by Sheehan were the Fox Film Corporation, William Fox, Fox Theaters Corporation, Clarence B. Dillon and Clifton Erskine Christie Jr., of Dillon, Read & Co., members of the banking house of Lehman Bros.; the Bancamerica-Blair Corporation; Halsey, Stuart & Co., John E. Otterson, Electrical Research Products, Inc., and Harold L. Stuart.

Sheehan recited that when he became production head of the company, in 1925, the gross annual business was $21,321,869 and the net $3,388,836, increasing in 1929 to $72,000,000 gross and $15,000,000 net. He predicted this year's business, gross and net, would exceed 1929 by 25 per cent. With the exception of theater expansion, financial arrangements and laboratory work, he said, he was responsible for all the business activities."

Expansion Cited

Fox and Sheehan gave him information as to how he intended to finance purchase of Loew's stock. He recalled that during the stock market crash he was in Europe and cabled Fox he would return immediately if necessary. Fox replied, said Sheehan, that the companies were in a strong position.

Transatlantic calls from other executives, however, said Sheehan, informed him to his "shock and surprise" that "the company was in serious financial straits by reason of the fact Mr. Fox had engaged in a program of over-expansion without adequately having provided for the financial requirements thereof."

Fox himself, on the transatlantic phone, said Sheehan, painted a rosy picture. Sheehan said he reached New York December 3 last and immediately conferred with Fox. He said further:

"Mr. Fox informed me he had actually signed a trust agreement between himself, John E. Otterson and Harold L. Stuart, with himself as third trustee."

Sheehan described Otterson's company, Electrical Research Products, as an American Telephone & Telegraph subsidiary. He quoted Fox as describing the agreement not only the means of saving the company but a master stroke on his part.

Control Not Sought

Conferences with Otterson and Stuart convinced Sheehan they had no desire to control the Fox interests, Otterson being concerned with getting back $15,000,000 due his company and Stuart being concerned with his company's underwriting of $48,000,000 of the Fox enterprises.

Sheehan said that under all the circumstances, which included assurance from Fox and the proposed co-trustees that he, Sheehan, would be enabled to deal freely with all parties concerned, he, too, approved the trusteeship project.

However, he was due for a rude awakening. For he called on Fox at Woodmere, L. I., and:

"To my great consternation he stated he did not feel inclined to go on with the agreement. For the first time he expressed to me the fear Otterson and Stuart intended to steal his companies."

Sheehan said he insisted Fox go through with the agreement, informing him not only was he in honor bound so to do, but:

"I reminded him repeatedly his enterprise was not a private affair, but there was involved tremendous responsibility to the public and he could not afford, for their sake, to bring disaster and ruin upon this enterprise."

Disloyalty Charged

Sheehan quoted a letter he and five other executives wrote Fox urging him to adhere to the trust agreement. For this, he said, Fox taxed him with disloyalty. He said Fox proposed to borrow $35,000,000 from exhibitors and employes and made such an attempt, against Sheehan's advice, with the result it failed.

Sheehan described a series of directors' meetings, attended by Samuel Untermyer, counsel for Fox, at which the majority, under Fox control, insisted on the Bancamerica-Blair plan as against that of Halsey, Stuart & Co. Fox, he said, stated definitely we would have to take the Blair plan or submit to a receivership.

"My conclusion was that the slogan, 'This plan or a receivership' was a bugaboo, but that the actual situation confronting us was the directors were compelled to accept the one and only plan personally agreeable to Fox, and if the directors did not entirely submit to Fox's arbitrarily decided [illegible] bring about a receivership by his own creation and domination and by his obstinacy."

3D FIRE SWEEPS HOBOKEN PIERS

HOBOKEN, N. J., March 24.—(AP)—Hoboken's third disastrous waterfront fire in the last 30 years still was burning today, but firemen had under control the flames which destroyed piers 15 and 16 and a large quantity of merchandise.

Estimates of the loss varied from $3,500,000 to $4,500,000.

The fire started at 10 o'clock Saturday night in an oil and rag dump 200 feet from pier 16. Carried by a brisk wind, the flames quickly reached this wooden pier. The flames then followed oil on the water to pier 15.

The flames attacked Pier 14 twice, but were extinguished.

5 SHIPS SAVED

Five vessels of the Lamport and Holt Line, which owned the piers, were towed to safety.

Three firemen were injured while fighting the blaze. Several others were overcome by smoke.

2 OTHER BIG FIRES

The two other major fires along the Hoboken waterfront in the last 30 years were on June 30, 1900 and December 30, 1927. The first caused 145 deaths and property loss estimated at $100,000,000. Three North German Lloyd liners, the Saale, the Bremen and the Main, were wrecked and the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse was badly damaged.

The second fire destroyed the Clyde-Mallory liner Seneca, several small vessels and two 700-foot piers. Property damage exceeded $1,250,000, but no lives were lost.

The Lamport and Holt Line was the owner of the ill-fated liner Vestris, which sank on November 12, 1928, off the Virginia Capes with a loss of 110 lives.

Puppy Dog Saves Tiny Master From Lake

JACKSON, Mich., March 24.—(AP)—"Just a pup," but with a human life saving credited to it, a small dog is hailed as a hero at Vandercook Lake near here today.

Maxie Lettow, 4, and his pup were playing on the banks of a small creek which flows into Vandercook Lake Sunday afternoon. Maxie fell into the creek. The dog ran to the Lettow home and barked and whined until the child's father followed it to the creek, where he found his child under water and unconscious.

The Jackson fire department was called and the boy resuscitated by means of an inhalator.

ARSON CHARGED IN M'KEESPORT

McKeesport police and county detectives today are searching for a Negro seen leaving a one-story frame building in the rear of 1438 Locust street, McKeesport, this morning, after it was set on fire. According to Fire Chief M. J. Quinn, the house was saturated with carbon oil. Chief Quinn turned over two five-gallon cans which contained the oil to the police. The house, occupied by Kester Pugh, Negro, was damaged to the extent of $400.

Damage estimated by Chief Quinn as $1,500 to the home of Paul Ruticiz, 2317 Lawnsdale street, McKeesport, early today was caused by fire due to a broken gas pipe in the cellar of the two-story frame building, Chief Quinn said.

Connellsville Asks Malta Convention

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., March 24.—An invitation will be extended to the grand lodge of the Knights of Malta to hold the 1931 convention here. Members of St. Omar Commandery, with the support of all units in Fayette County, will form an automobile caravan to go to the 1930 meeting in May at Carlisle and make the bid for the next session.

5,000 View Play; Shown Until Easter

More than 5,000 persons already have viewed the eleventh annual presentation of "Veronica's Veil" in St. Michael's auditorium, Eighteenth street, South Side. The play will continue until Easter. Many members of the cast are appearing in the some roles they impersonated in previous productions.

2 IN TEX'S CLUB SHOOTING HELD

CHICAGO, March 24.—(INS)—Two men were under arrest today as police sought an underworld warfare motive for the shooting of Leon Sweitzer, former cabaret owner, in Texas Guinan's Green Mill night club yesterday while 800 guests made merry.

The prisoners are Harry C. Voiler, reputed manager for Miss Guinan, and Arthur D. Reed, his bodyguard.

Sweitzer named them as his assailants, police say. He was wounded by three bullets, but probably will recover. He said he was shot following a quarrel over the rent for April, which he said he sought to collect upon hearing that "Tex" planned to leave for New York Saturday.

The Little Club, opened by Sweitzer shortly after he leased the Green Mill to Miss Guinan, was the scene of an unsuccessful bombing attempt recently.

Russelton Autoist Held After Crash

Five members of the Parnassus detail of the State Highway Patrol caused the arrest of several motorists on reckless driving charges in the Freeport road on Sunday. Among those given tickets was Joe Rossi, of Russelton, whose car is said to have collided with that of Peter Kalaba, of 834 Progress street, North Side, near Blawnox. Rossi is to be arraigned Wednesday before Justice of the Peace Chester Sproul, Blawnox. No person was injured in the collision, Private J. M. Burnsworth, the arresting officer, said.

Local Jewelers Ask For Meeting in 1931

An invitation to hold the 1931 convention in Pittsburgh was to be read today at the convention of the National Association of Credit Jewelers in session in Philadelphia. The invitation is signed by Mayor Charles H. Kline. A delegation of Pittsburgh jewelers left here Saturday night, headed by S. H. DeRoy, president of the national association.

'Rises From Dead' And Terrorizes Mourners

MEXICO CITY, March 24.—(AP)—Juan Garcia, 24, a clerk living near Atzacapotzalco, a Mexico City suburb, saved himself from the grave, but nearly sent his startled relatives there when he suddenly broke from his coffin while being transported to a cemetery.

Following an extremely heavy meal with wine, Garcia collapsed and a physician pronounced him dead.

As burial in Mexico City follows death without delay, the cortege to the cemetery started, and in 30 minutes more Garcia would have been interred.

When he broke the lid from the coffin pall bearers and mourners fled in panic.

BOSTON MAYOR FOR DE VALERA

BOSTON, March 24.—(AP)—James H. Phelan, second assistant assessor of Boston, represented Mayor James M. Curley at a meeting addressed by Eamon de Valera here last night and placed the Mayor on record as favoring an Irish republic, de Valera's aim. The meeting was to raise funds for an Irish daily newspaper.

Phelan referred to a conversation between de Valera and the Mayor and said that Mayor Curley wanted it understood the conversation concerned economic affairs in Ireland and that the Mayor stood behind de Valera in his appeal for the Irish daily paper and his political policies.

Mayor Curley had been quoted as having told de Valera that he believed the Irish leader should adopt a more constructive attitude towards Irish affairs.

Zionist Leader Will Give Talk

WASHINGTON, Pa., March 24.—Abraham Goldberg, of New York, leader in the Zionist movement in America, will speak in Washington Monday night in the Beth Israel Temple.

MORE PLANETS BEING HUNTED

TUCSON, Ariz., March 24.—(AP)—Before the echoes of the discovery of the new trans-Neptunian planet had died, Dr. A. E. Douglass, director of the Steward Observatory at the University of Arizona, said astronomers were searching for at least two more such bodies.

Dr. Douglass, now 63 years old, has been connected with astronomical work since in his youth; he first used the old Colonial telescope "B" of his great grandfather, Andrew Ellicott. For a decade he was an associate of the late Dr. Percival Lowell, who predicted the discovery of the recently-found planet.

"It is the beginning of the solution of a long series of attempts made by many different astronomers to locate an additional planet," Dr. Douglass said.

"Since this new planet is much fainter than was expected, there remains a possibility that others may be found. The method used for such investigation will consist of putting some skilled assistant to work, photographing over and over the suspected region of the sky."

State Expert Quits To Aid in Census

Arner, who has held the position since August, 1927, quit the State service to assume a post in the Federal Census Bureau as an expert on population analysis in connection with the 1930 census.

Oldfield to Return To California Home

NEW YORK, March 24.—(AP)—Barney Oldfield, who has been living in New York for six weeks, plans to return in May to Hollywood, though he rented his apartment there to Constance Talmage. "California is the only place to live," he explained.

EDGE INSPECTS FRENCH MILLS

PARIS, March 24.—(AP.)—Ambassador Walter E. Edge left Paris last night for a 10-day trip of business inspection through the great industrial and economic districts in the provinces.

Tomorrow he will visit Grenoble to inspect its gloves and leather manufactures and its tanning trade. Marseilles, the French gateway to the Near East and the Far East, will be his next port of call, and then he will go to Grasse to study the perfumery industry.

The Ambassador's schedule calls for two similar trips of inspection, the next being to study the textiles and mining industries of Northern France.

REVIEWS OF NEW FILMS WITH CHAT ABOUT HOLLYWOOD AND OUR THEATERS

DIX, IN STRANGE LOVE MIXUP, FEATURES SHERIDAN BILL

By J. G. SHRADLE

Love makes the world go round and it intrigues Richard Dix into a dizzy romance with Lois Wilson as "Lovin' the Ladies" talks its way through the Sheridan Square Theater program.

It's a slow and cold start the feature attraction makes, but it warms up after [illegible] feet of film and provides somewhat fast and warm romance. It is a good story adapted from the stage play "I Love You." While there is nothing intricate or startling, it is extremely fascinating and fully satisfying comedy. Dix is the star.

The story can be boiled down to a brief description. The wealthy set finds nothing attractive or different, so clubmen bet on love, one man claiming the right setting and conditions can draw any two persons regardless of caste or taste into romance. Dix as an electrician is chosen as the male of the romance and the pair select a girl for his wooing. She stumbles into love with the butler and Dix wins the wagering clubman's heart and flame. Details of the romance make the entertainment.

The short film subjects have an interesting attraction in a travel feature "Congo," presented a little differently than most of such subjects. A community exposition is being conducted in conjunction with the entertainment, souvenirs being given the audience.

Movies of Future to Be Inhaled as Well as Seen and Heard

By DOROTHY HERZOG.

(Copyright, 1930, by Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, March 24.

THIS colyumnist read with glee an item that stated "John H. Lovell, of Los Angeles, had been granted a patent on an apparatus which will project appropriate odors along with scenes and talk emanating from motion picture talking films."

In the inner circle of robust criticism, a bad production has always been delicately referred to as "smelling to high heaven." Mediocre film merely smelt. The word, for obvious reasons, never seeped into the printed review.

Cecil B. DeMille

Now along comes Mr. Lovell—bless him—to "un-libelize" smell as a future critique. Instead of: "This is a good picture or a so-and-so picture," one may soon be saying: "I can't say that film smelt so hot."

DEW SWEPT GRASSES

THE educational advantages are also richly lavish. One who has never been west may ponder whether or not a western egg in the frying pan compares favorably with an eastern ditto.

The dainty odor of dew swept grasses in the Zane Grey spaces should vitally enhance or depreciate—via the comparison route—the dew swept grasses of a DeMille extravaganza. Surely, DeMille would be on his mettle. It is sound logic to surmise that the dew of his film must be superior to the dew of a Zane Grey horse opera.

INHALE THE HERO

ONE'S favorite cinema heroes, too, will be on the oblique defensive because of the smellies. Inhale George Bancroft striding into a fight scene and exuding a whiff of lavendar. And visualize the twitch to the nostrils should Mary Pickford inadvertently munch a dish of raw onions prior to a dramatic scene.

Mary Pickford

MASKS IN ORDER

And then—oh, glory—give a thought to the ecstatic reviewer writing:

"Clara's Pet Puff" began as a good smellie. It compared favorably to Miss Whoozit's previous effort. As it developed, however, the smell took a turn for the worse, and at the swish of the last close-up, this reviewer regrets to announce it smelt like box office limburger. Take along your film mask for this one.

Ah, to be alive and healthy and a critic when the smellies douse the silver sheet!

SOUNDS FAMILIAR

THIS listens suspiciously familiar, but I may be wrong—as usual. At all events, Renee Torres (leading woman for Pan-American Pictures) was applying for a life insurance policy. While taking the onceover examination, the medico asked:

"Have you ever been in an accident?"

"No," replied Miss Torres.

"Then what is this scar on your leg?"

"A dog bit me when I was a little girl."

"Wasn't that an accident?"

West View Traders Will Show Films

A program of speeches and motion pictures will be given tonight at the monthly meeting of the West View Board of Trade in the West View Junior High School auditorium. Women as well as men of the community are invited. George H. Dawson, Jeanne Hayes and Leo C. Mueller are scheduled to speak.

Prodigy

Rose Marie, McKees Rocks youngster, is aged seven merely, but she handles a hefty piano-accordion with ease. She will be a feature in the Harris for a week beginning next Saturday.

COMEDIAN FRANK FAY RIDES AND FLIRTS IN WARNER

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

"Under a Texas Moon," Warner Brothers' new all-color talkie, came into the Warner Saturday. It more appropriately could be called "Under a Texas Sun," for it has more sunlight than moonlight. However, though it is gay in Technicolor hues, as entertainment it hasn't the bright sparkle that the word sunlight implies.

The picture isn't very strong on story. It really is just a big horseback ride with Comedian Frank Fay galloping all over the place on a white horse, stopping here and there to flirt with the fair senoritas.

GIRL AT EVERY RANCHO

As a bold and deceiving Mexican gallant, this Mr. Fay is a regular land-sailor. He has a girl at every rancho. And he has kisses and a string of "fibs" for each of them.

Cattle rustlers are introduced for no special reason except that this angle affords the chance to display an effective color and sound sequence of a lowing herd. Moo, moo, moo—say the cows. Oooh, oooh, oooh—say the children in the audience.

OH, YES, THE FIESTA!

The production does have its laughs. And it does have a lot of well known names in the cast. These include Noah Beery, Fred Kohler, Tully Marshall, Armida, Myrna Loy and Raquel Torres.

It also has its share of fiestas, haciendas and that sort of thing. Nevertheless, you get the idea that some director, seeing a lot of actors standing idle and a bucket of Technicolor in a corner, decided something should be done about it. And what was done is "Under a Texas Moon."

MUSIC

Yost Quartet

Schenley Ballroom

PROGRAM

Rispetti e Strambotti	Malipiero
Promenade	Moussorgsky-Pochon
Cavatina	Rimsky-Korsakow-Yost
Vivace	Haydn
Piano Quintet	Brahms

The Yost String Quartet closed its season yesterday afternoon in the Schenley ballroom, after a winter of instructive and very entertaining music. The growth of this organization is not to be wondered at, since these players give us so much of the classic chamber music, but at the same time are on the alert to let us hear what the rebels have written.

J. Fred Lissfelt

The important music in yesterday's concert was the work of Malipiero, a leader in the new school of Italy. The form of this quartet is quite foreign to the accepted four-part sonata, and is a happy departure. It is made of folk song and dance patterns, and while the harmonic progressions seem at first somewhat bewildering, a listener can soon sense Malipiero's idiom; it then loses its bitterness and has a very pleasant tang.

The group of short works were a light prelude to the Brahms quintet. Pasquale Tallarico joined the quartet to play the piano part, and altogether it was one of the poorest performances the ensemble has given. It lacked the Yost vitality and most of Brahms.

J. FRED LISSFELT.

Perry High Will Issue French Paper

French students of Perry High School will issue a French school paper, "Le Perryodique." The editorial and business staffs include William Hansen, Charles Zoller, Paul Peters, Jane Stover, James Purvis, Loismae Gratz, Elizabeth McNaugher, Albert Wall, Berryman Maurer, Elsie Deane, Charles Barthberger, Donna Vaught, Martha Sevcik and Anna Serba.

Home

Elmer Kenyon is home again, having arrived to deliver a series of lectures about "Strange Interlude," coming next week to the Nixon. Mr. Kenyon, y'know, used to be English instructor in Schenley High School before the New York Theater Guild drafted him.

DICK WARE ON STAGE, OAKIE ON SCREEN IN HARRIS

"Hit the Deck," RKO's popular version of the musical stage comedy of the same name, came sailing into the Harris Saturday for its first downtown showing. The picture has received the praise of critics and public wherever it has been presented.

Jack Oakie, clown boy of the talkies, is the big number in the film. As a wise-cracking gob, he is a laugh from start to finish. The story details his romance with a young girl who runs a coffee shop. Polly Walker is seen in this role.

The production abounds in musical numbers.

Dick Ware is making his debut as master of ceremonies on the stage. He is a likeable fellow and he knows some keen dance steps. Opening show audiences greeted him and his revue, "Jazz Americans," with applause. The feature of the revue is the Clifford Wayne Troupe of Indians. They are a versatile lot. Pinto, Bennett and Fletcher offer music and comedy, the Harris Co-Eds step and Marjorie Barth does an acrobatic dance.

MUSIC AND FUN BILLS FEATURES ON STAGE THIS WEEK

Victor Herbert's "Naughty Marietta," in which the charming Ilse Marvenga sings the leading role, opens its Pittsburgh engagement in Syria Mosque tonight, and moves to the Alvin, commencing Wednesday matinee. It will continue there for the rest of the week.

Connie's "Hot Chocolates," Negro musical revue, will be presented in the Nixon this evening, opening a week's engagement, with matinees on Wednesday and Saturday. The entire New York cast of more than 100 will be headed by "Jazzlips" Richardson, Baby Cox and Edith Wilson.

Opening Monday afternoon, March 31, at 5:30, sharp, the Theater Guild of New York will present Eugene O'Neill's nine-act drama, "Strange Interlude" in the Nixon Theater. There will be a dinner intermission at 7:40 until 9, with the final curtain at 11. Seats are on sale.

Opening tonight in the Pitt, the George Sharp Players will present the comedy, "Laff That Off." Matinee days are Wednesday and Saturday.

Arlington Church To Stage Minstrel

The minstrel and olio, "Fun in a Country Store," will be presented by the members and friends of the Arlington Congregational church, Arlington avenue, tomorrow night and Wednesday, in G. B. U. hall. A program will be given by members of the minstrel group.

GENERAL ELECTRIC
SUNLAMP

You Can Have a Suntan Right Now.... at Home

It has been known for ages that sunlight is a great help in maintaining health and resistance to sickness . . . in developing stamina and, under proper conditions, in generating buoyant energy.

That is why men, women and children alike are healthier, feel better, are happier and more care-free in summer than in the gloomy days of winter.

Modern living conditions make it difficult for most people to get enough actual sunshine. General Electric engineers and research workers have studied this problem for years, and have finally produced a simple, practical device which provides radiations similar to those of the sun itself . . . including the beneficial ultra-violet range.

This marvelous new invention is the General Electric SUNLAMP. It furnishes an effective substitute for midsummer sunshine . . . right in your own home, in any room. With a flick of your finger, you may enjoy its tonic benefits at any hour of the day or night. The operating cost is surprisingly low—about 3c an hour.

And it will give users the same reddening of the skin . . . and eventual tanning . . . in about the same time as exposure to actual sunshine on a clear day.

With Walter Winchell On Broadway

MAN ABOUT TOWN

WE'LL probably carry the horrible memory of the scene to our mausoleum. It was the most terrible adventure ever experienced by us in our breathless career and even now our fingers limp over the typewriter keyboard. Oh, the pain of it! The shudders that still shake our body and the ugly feeling of fuzz lifted high on our cheeks and arms!

Walter Winchell

We never went through an ordeal like it before. It seemed as though we had been blindfolded, kidnaped and stranded in a cemetery at night. It was terrible! The hour was exactly 5:14 yesteryawning and from the Broadway corner of Fifty-second street, looking as far south as our orbs could observe (Forty-seventh) and as far north (the Circle), there wasn't a man, woman, child, cab, trolley, newspaper-delivery wagon or any other vehicle or soul stirring! Imagine that! Nothing but night and the ghost of a street that once was alive! An hour when Broadway still blazed—Yom Kippur or Lent.

Even the regular late places had closed earlier for lack of trade. The all-night delicatessens which cater to the night-loafers and others were as barren as the average musical comedy. And so at 5:30, afraid of the stillness and horror of it, we raced to our Fifty-fifth street home and collapsed from fright in the foyer of the hotel, where a sepia bellhop revived us and carried us upstairs to our dwelling. But, alas! The dawn had not come up, and our kin refused to unbolt the door, suspecting burglars. "It can't be Mr. Winchell," shrieked Mrs. W., "it's yesterday yet!"

IT DID HAPPEN

The Unbelievers will argue that It Couldn't Happen in a town like New York, but it did. He was suffering from the "miseries" and "girl trouble," so he got into his roadster and cruised up and down Vth Avenue, through the park and out of it, to Washington Square and north again to the Library, pausing at Forty-second to correct his time-piece with one in a jeweler's window. It was 4 a. m.

Then his heart thumped. Driving slowly across the way was a young woman in her sedan, bound south. He turned and followed and when they neared the corner where the Waldorf-Astoria used to be, he forced her car to the curb. "Hullo, baby," he said. She stopped and smiled. "Go ahead, say I'm a fresh guy, but I'm lonesome, and you?" he cooed.

SO LONESOME

"CAN'T a lady take a drive for a little fresh air without being annoyed?" she replied in the siren manner. "Of course she can," he said, "but I never knew that a fellow could get so lonesome in a big town like this. Come on, be a sweet person and let's go to Harlem and have fun."

At her suggestion he put his bus in a nearby garage and they drove on in hers. "You don't have to tell me your name or anything," he purred as they rolled along the park's East Drive, "let me bore you with my sad love life. I just lost my girl. But you wouldn't know about such things, huh?"

"Maybe I would, mister, maybe I would," she answered swiping the Hal Skelley-Nancy Carroll style from the cinema based on "Burlesque." The chit-chat that followed was as meaningless as it invariably is, when You Hardly Know The Gal, so they gagged, clowned and kidded each other until he suggested that they stop at one of the Harlem hot-spots. Liquor, dollars to the table-to-table entertainers. Liquor. "Blues." Dim lights. Torrid tunes. There goes another hour. And another.

CAME THE DAWN

THE hour is now 7:50 and the smoke-filled speakeasy with its rose-colored lamps is doing its heaviest business . . . "and so yesterday she told me she was through, that we had nothing in common and that she had met someone who adored her," he was saying, "and that's my sad story. The only thing that puzzles me, is how a woman can go for a guy twice her age! It happens every day, though, doesn't it?"

"So they tell me," she answered bitterly, "so they tell me. And the only reason I'm here with you now, Mister, is that I'm carrying a lot of torch, too. One of those veteran sheiks has been my beau for two years, and when the boat pulls out this morning it will take him and his new honey to the old country. I got wise to their romance the other night after I found this picture of them."

WE TOLD YOU SO

THE Unbelievers, we told you in paragraph one, would argue that It Couldn't Happen in a town as big as New York—that two torch-toters could meet in this manner and discover that their respective "hearts" were eloping together. But it did, and these jilted kids were trying to laugh it off.

"I've an idea," she ejaculated. "It's only 8 o'clock and I can't sleep, anyway. Let's drive down and see them off!" And when a certain liner sailed the pair of elopers leaning on the rail felt as though they were splitting in sections when they saw their Used-To-Be's in a fervent embrace on the pier.

The new romancers, from all indications, will live happily ever after, and their wedding will be among others chronicled later.

SLAIN, PERHAPS

WHATEVER became of the racketeer who handed your lady friend a rose as you ankled by the Paramount Theater and then followed you until he shamed you into paying two bits for it? . . . Patricia Barclay, the love interest in the "I Want My Wife" show, who is the bride of Hardwick Nevin, whose pappy, Ethelbert, wrote "The Rosary," and who probably wrote the love ditty employed in the play. . . . The new feature at "Hot Feet's," on West Houston street, Mattie Hite, a brownskin whose high spot is a chune tagged: "Stop It, Joe!" . . . The intelligent lyric that goes: "My indiscreet heart longs for a sweetheart that I left in old Monterey." . . . Imagine our embarrassment in discovering that the dictionary defines New York's nickname "Gotham" (or Gothamist) in this manner: "A wiseacre; a person of limited intelligence: so-called from Gotham, a village in England, noted in stories for the blundering simplicity of its inhabitants"!!!

New Formula Gives Quick Stomach Relief

A new formula indicated the way for Harry H. Marks, Port Morris, N. J. to end his stomach trouble. He says, "For ten years, I have been suffering with a bad stomach and had taken everything under the sun, but to no avail. Then I bought a package of Acidine and can say it has done me more good than everything else I had taken."

Acidine sweetens the sour stomachs and neutralizes excess acid. You can get it at any drug store or write Health Laboratories, Inc., Pittsburgh, Pa.

PASTOR SCORES DRY CRITIC

"Prohibition and the Literary Digest Poll" was the topic of a sermon delivered by the Rev. Dr. George W. Shelton in the Second Presbyterian Church last night in which the pastor declared Gen. W. W. Atterbury of the Pennsylvania Railroad held inconsistent views on liquor legislation.

"Rule G of the railroad forbids employes to drink or to be found loitering around a place where intoxicants are sold under penalty of discharge. How does Gen. Atterbury, president of the system, reconcile his position with Rule G?" Rev. Shelton questioned.

"The inconsistent position taken by Gen. Atterbury is an interesting paradox," Dr. Shelton said.

He stated that opponents of prohibition have not suggested anything to take the place of the dry law, but only urged its annihilation.

Dr. Shelton declared there is nothing in the Literary Digest poll to discourage the drys, but, on the contrary, the effect will be to stir them up to require more effective enforcement.

Sees Improvement In Business Pace

CLEVELAND, March 24.—Business is showing steady improvement but the pace of recovery is slower than was generally expected, says the Union Trust Company, in a survey of the trade situation. Employment conditions are growing better and spring weather should stimulate retail sales and building construction.

"Business is proceeding cautiously but with confidence, looking forward to a satisfactory level of operation by the end of the summer," says the bank, in its magazine Trade Winds.

"It is evident that the reaction from last year's peaks of production and speculation is proving more far-reaching than was at first anticipated—and that therefore the necessary readjustment is going to take somewhat longer than was expected.

Publishers Urged To Protect Girls

Unregulated employment of girl crews in magazine subscription solicitation is to be fought by the Travelers' Aid Society, J. Rogers Flannery, national president of the society, today stated. The cooperation of many publishers has been pledged in the effort to break up such employment, Flannery declared.

Flannery recently met with a conference of publishers at which time he charged that young girls had been left stranded in cities far from their homes, by crew managers employed by subscription selling organizations.

Queen, Elephant 'Widow,' Dies Of Grief

NEW YORK, March 24 (AP).—Queen, one-time circus sensation and the Pavlowa of pachydermdom, is dead.

A broken heart, if you want to take the press agent's word for it, has snatched the 100-year-old dancing elephant, still in her prime, from the plaudits of her public just as she was about to enter upon another season in the sawdust rings of the big top.

Queen collapsed yesterday at the Coliseum, where the circus is preparing for its annual debut. She fell on the very spot where Albert, her mate, died a year ago. The elephant's trainers said Queen had been "off her feed" for months and simply ate her heart away in sorrow for her departed mate.

ARCHITECTS TO GIVE AWARDS

Three prizes are to be awarded by a jury of internationally known architects who will judge the work in the first annual architectural exhibition to be held April 8 to 12 under the auspices of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce. The jurors will be selected tomorrow by the chamber's architectural council.

Three hundred Pittsburgh designers will participate, according to M. Nirdlinger, chairman of the council. He said the jury would be made up of three members of the American Institute of Architects, a member of the Pittsburgh Civic Art Commission and a member of the builders' council of the chamber.

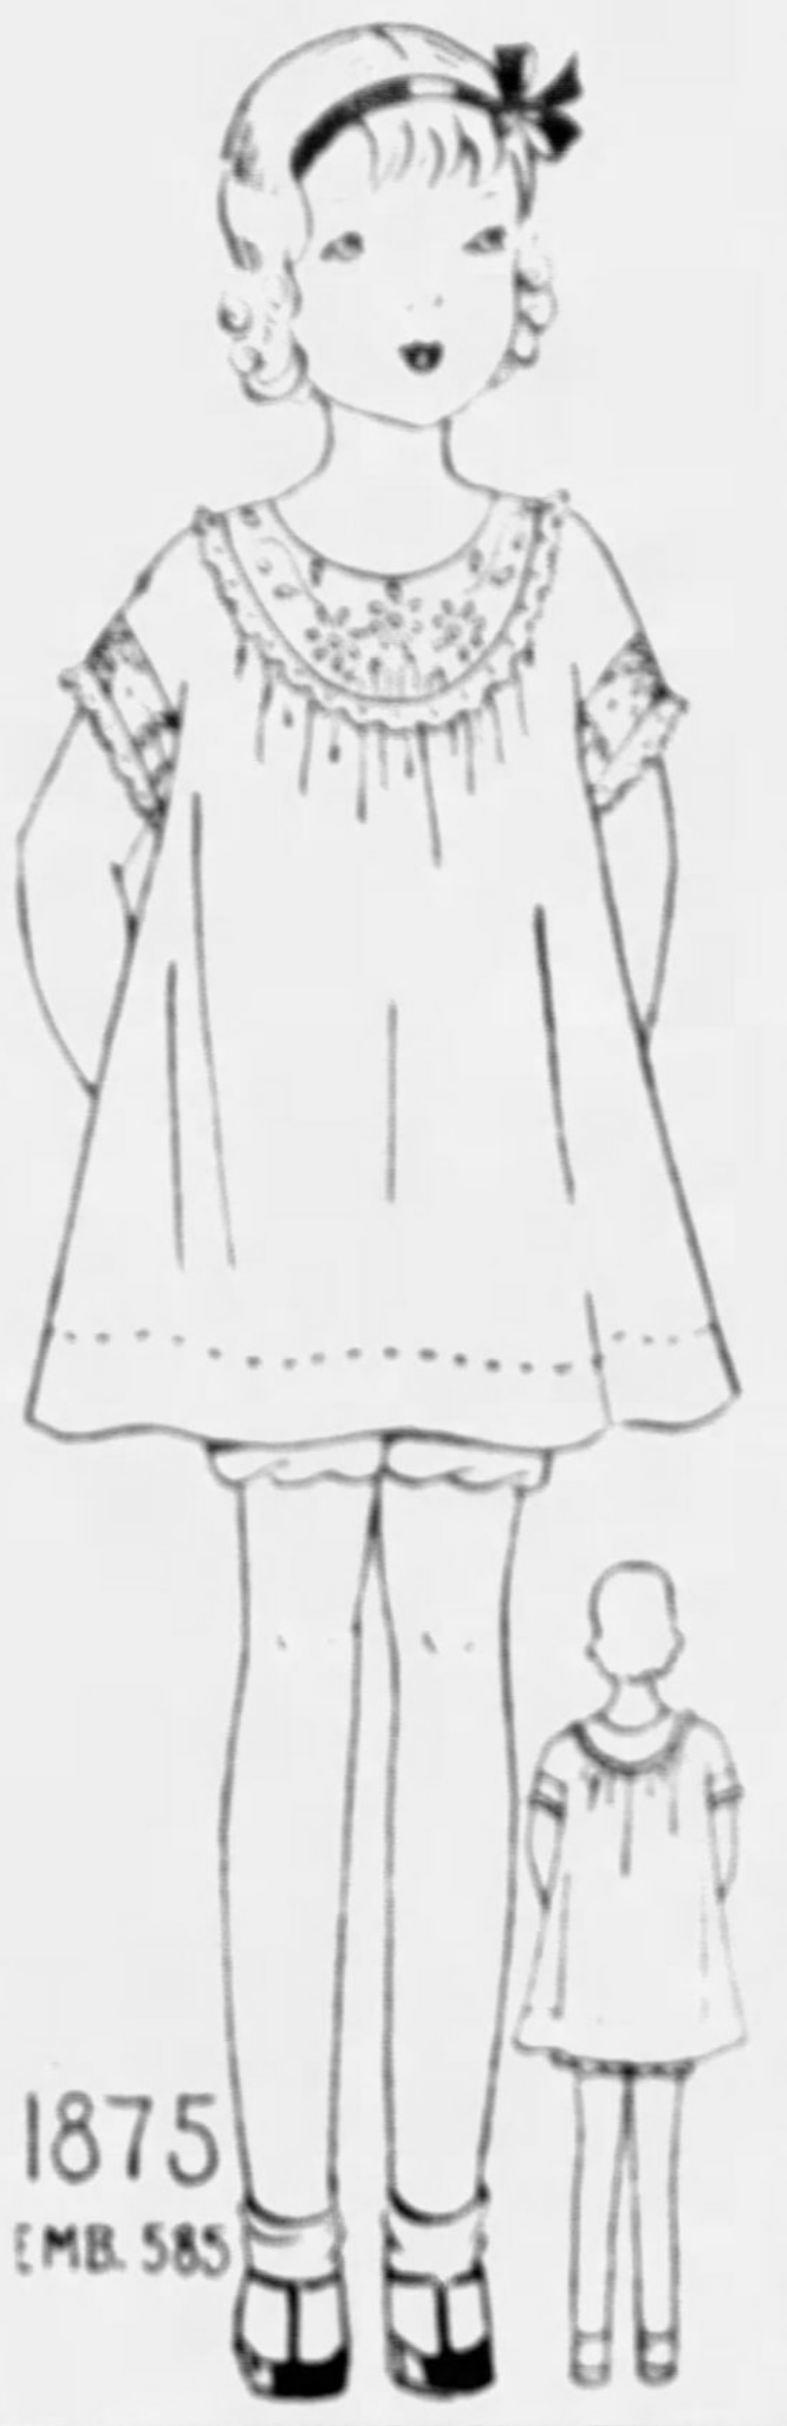
Cunning Frock for Wee Girl

Pattern 1875

Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

By ANNE ADAMS



1875
EMB. 585

Isn't this an adorable little frock for the very small girl? It is so easy to make, too. The rounded yoke and cuffs, daintily trimmed with narrow lace, create becoming lines for chubby tots. If one has time a bit of hand embroidery would add so much to the beauty of the frock.

Design 1875 may be made of dimity, batiste, lawn, pongee, wash silk, organdie, etc. The embroidery may be done in the color of the fabric, or a contrasting color might be selected. The transfer pattern 585 is 15 cents additional.

Designed only for sizes 1, 2, 4 and 6. Size 2 requires 2⅛ yards of 36-inch material and 1½ yards lace.

No dressmaking experience is necessary to make this model with our pattern. Yardage for every size, and simple, exact instructions are given.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins carefully wrapped, or stamps, for each pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, STYLE NUMBER and SIZE wanted.

Our PATTERN BOOK of NEW SPRING and SUMMER STYLES is FIFTEEN CENTS, but only TEN CENTS when ordered with a pattern. Address all mail and orders to Sun-Telegraph Pattern Department, 243 West Seventeenth street, New York City.

OBITUARY

Roswell R. Ogden

Illness of less than a week's duration proved fatal last night for Roswell R. Ogden, 30, of 1316 West Steuben street, Crafton, Sun-Telegraph staff artist for the past six years. Ogden had worked up to Tuesday morning last when he was stricken ill with pneumonia. Born in Clarksburg, W. Va., Ogden spent his boyhood there and became interested in art work. He was the son of the late Dr. George Ogden of Clarksburg. He leaves his widow, Mrs. Olivia Kraus Ogden, and his mother, Mrs. Hannah Ogden, of Clarksburg. Ogden attended the night school of art at Carnegie Tech after his removal to Pittsburgh, and worked during the day in the art department of the old Gazette Times. When the Sun-Telegraph was formed Ogden remained on the staff, being later transferred to the promotion department as artist. Funeral services will be held at his home at 10 a. m. Wednesday.

McLaughlin Funeral

Funeral services for John F. McLaughlin, 37, of the Schenley apartments, professor in the school of education at Duquesne University, were to be held today in the University Chapel. Burial will be tomorrow in Chicago. Prof. McLaughlin died Saturday in St. Francis Hospital. He had been a member of the faculty at Duquesne since 1922, starting as an instructor in physics and professor of business and pharmaceutical law.

He received his bachelor of science degree at the University of Pittsburgh in 1923 and his bachelor of laws degree at Duquesne in 1925. He was at one time principal of the Kaylor, Pa., public schools and the Friday Street School in Millvale. He leaves his mother and a brother.

Lawrence Funeral

Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon for Mrs. George R. Lawrence, 71, of 510 Grove street, Sewickley, who died Saturday at Daytona Beach, Fla., where she had been spending the winter. Services will be held in her late home in Sewickley and burial will be in Allegheny Cemetery. She was the widow of George R. Lawrence. She was a member of the First Presbyterian Church of Sewickley. She leaves four brothers and a sister.

Evans Funeral

Funeral services were held yesterday for Samuel M. Evans, 86, superintendent of Memorial Hall, who died Friday. The services were held at the H. Samson funeral parlors. Mr. Evans had been in charge of memorial hall for 13 years and had occupied many offices in Civil War organizations here. He enlisted in the Union army when a boy and served throughout the Civil War. He also was a member of many Masonic and civic organizations.

William J. Burns.

William J. Burns, former superintendent of the Singer-Nimick works of the Crucible Steel Company, died Saturday in his home at 141 Grant avenue, Bellevue. He retired from active work eight years ago. Mr. Burns was born in Pittsburgh and spent his entire life in Western Pennsylvania. In 1879 he became a night clerk for the Carnegie Brothers Company and in 1887 was made head shipper in the plate mill of Park Brothers' Black Diamond Steel Works. Later he was made superintendent of sheet mills and after three years was transferred to the Singer-Nimick works as superintendent.

Mrs. Margaretta English.

Funeral services for Mrs. Margaretta English, 85, widow of Samuel English, who died Sunday at the home of her son, H. A. English, Rochester road, will be held tomorrow afternoon. Mrs. English was born in Mercer County but had made her home in Pittsburgh for the last 75 years. She leaves two daughters, three sons, two sisters, 10 grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren.

ADMITS KILLING, GETS 3 YEARS

William Uhlir, 21, of Coal Valley, in Criminal Court today pleaded guilty to a murder that resulted from a quarrel over a child playing and was sentenced to serve three to six years in Western Penitentiary.

Uhlir admitted fatally wounding Thomas Winkelvoss, Jr., 26, last July 26. The two quarreled, he testified, after Winkelvoss threatened to slap Uhlir's 2-year-old son, Clyde, in the hallway of the Granger Hotel apartments, where both resided. Judge F. P. Patterson fixed the crime at second degree murder. Assistant District Attorney John F. Haggerty prosecuted the case.

Workman on Bridge Drowns After Fall

ROCHESTER, Pa., March 24.—Robert A. Mitchell, 36, of Raleigh, N. C., employed on the new Rochester-Monaca bridge, drowned when he fell 90 feet from the bridge into the Ohio river this morning. The body was recovered.

Sharpsburg Pupils To Present Play

The junior class of Sharpsburg High School will present a comedy, "The Ghost Bird," in the school auditorium Wednesday and Thursday nights.

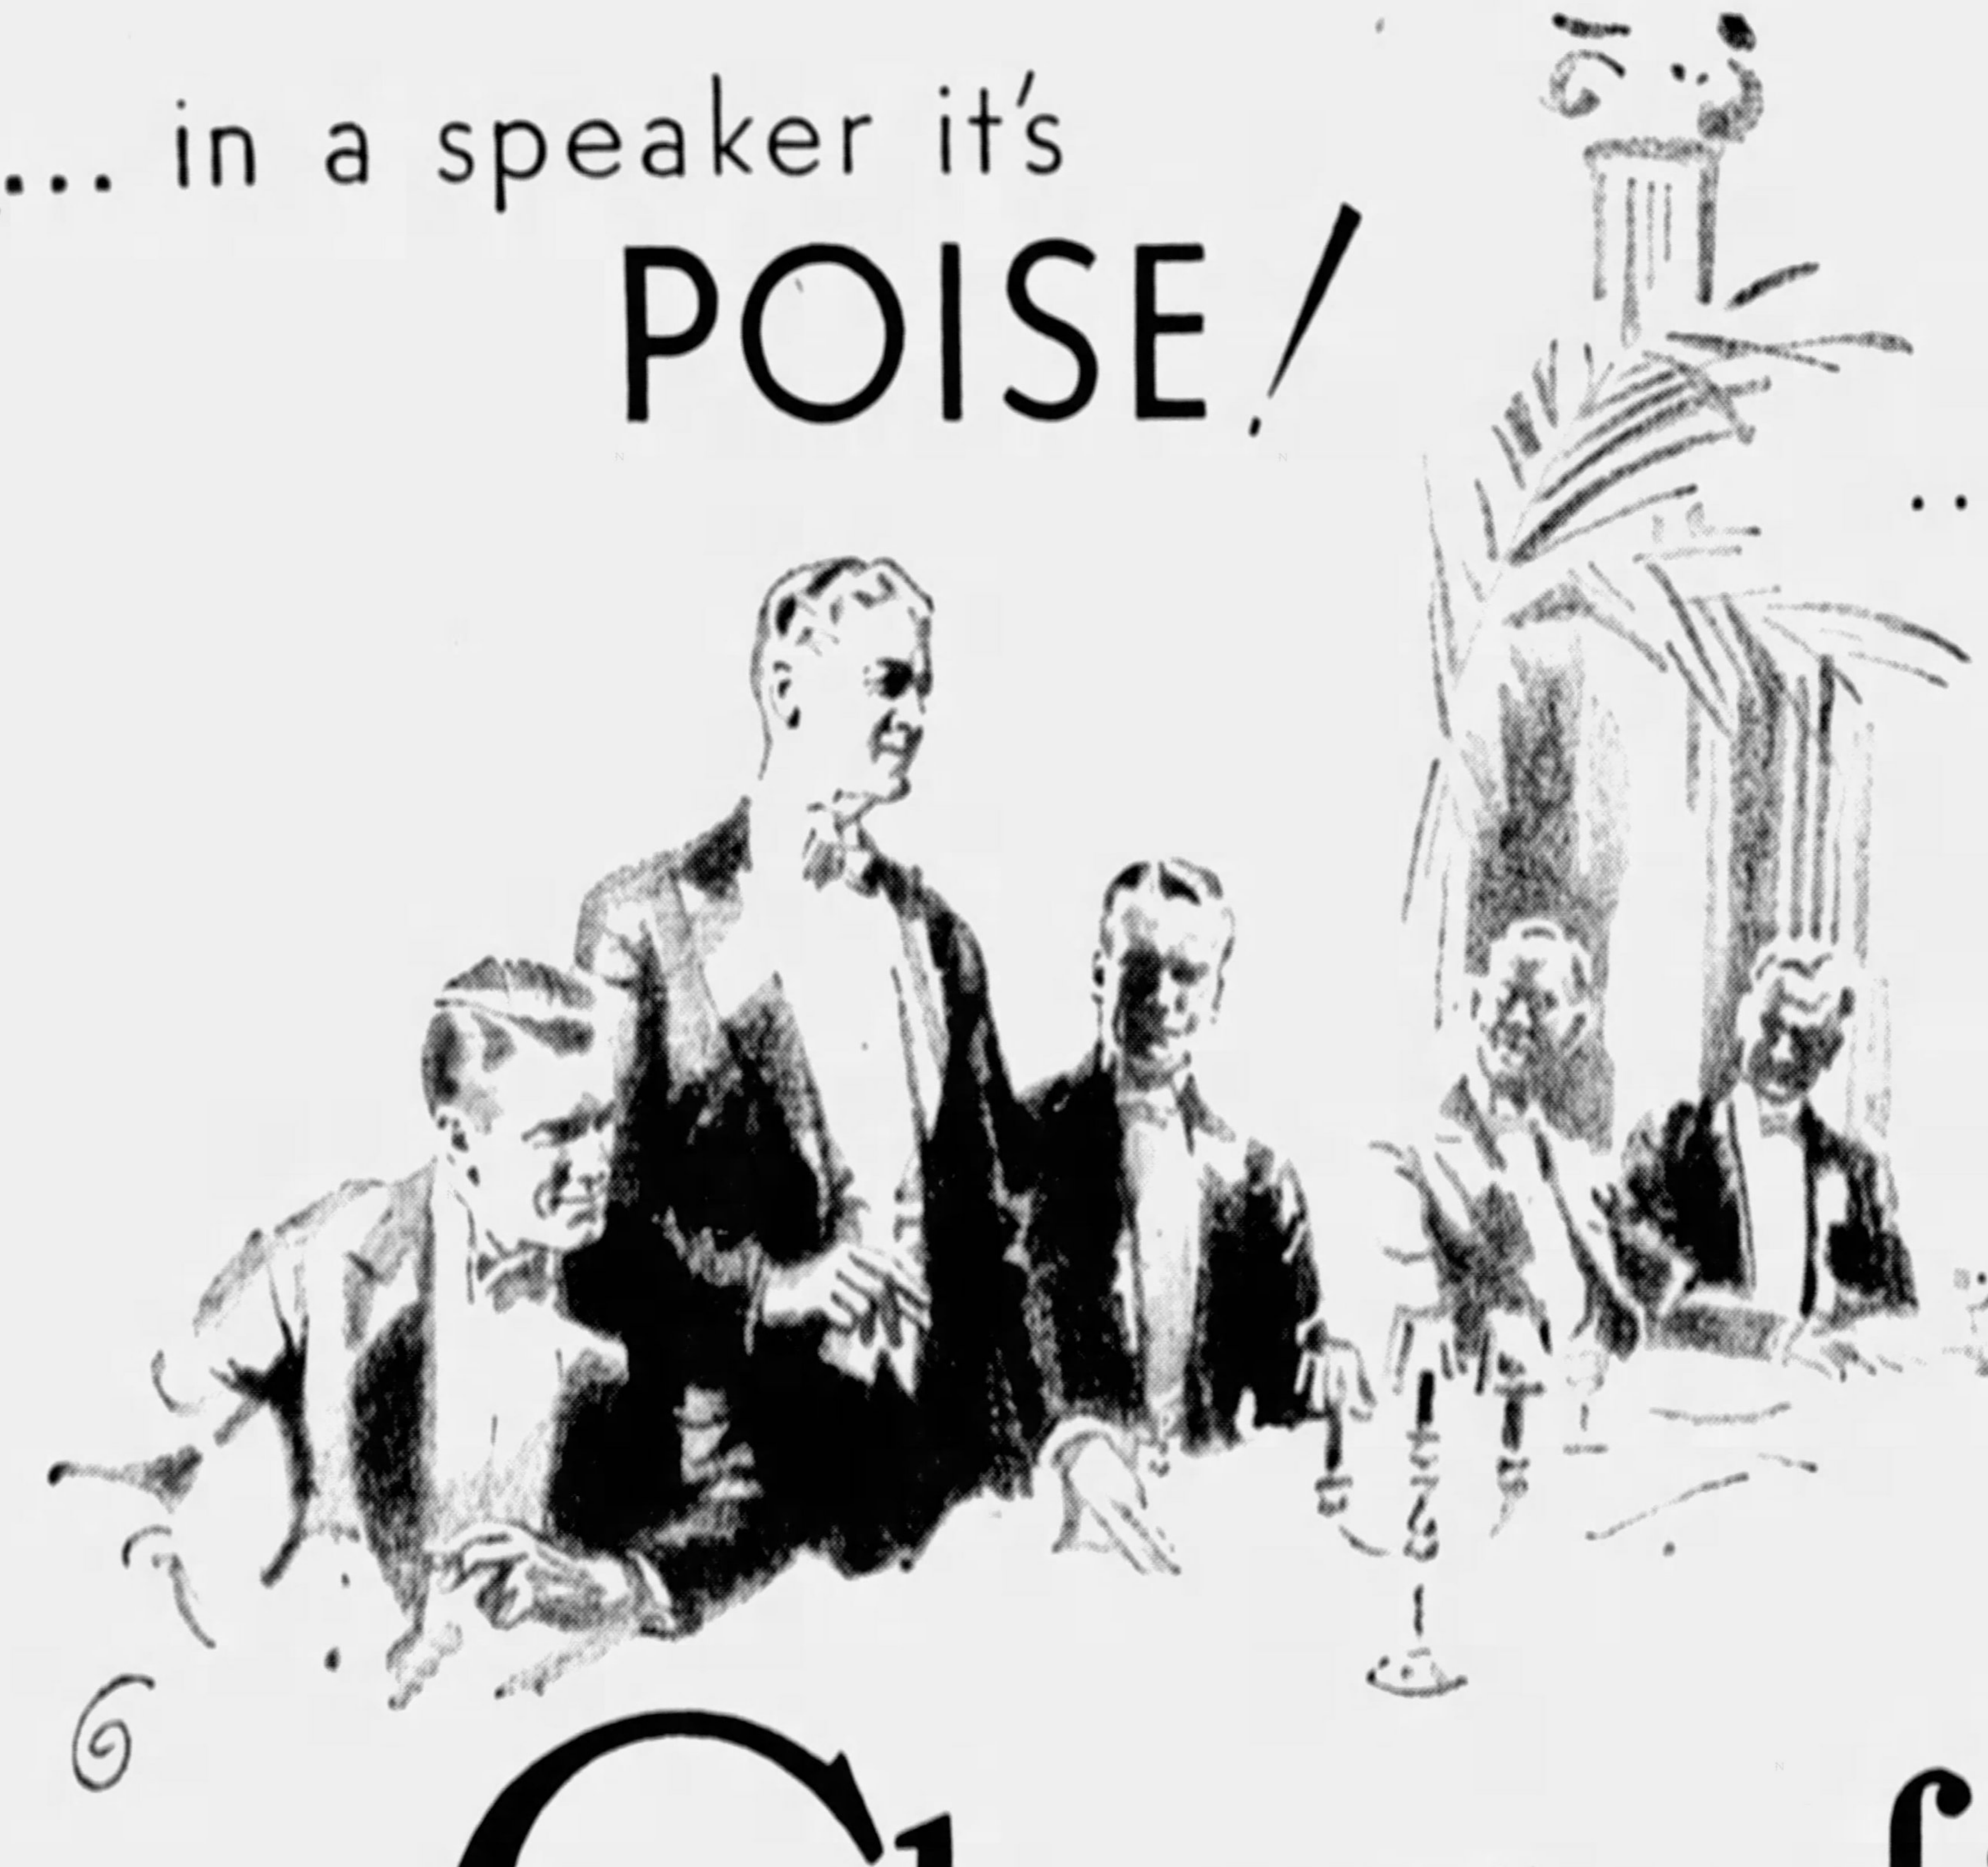
TASTE!



CHESTERFIELD'S taste speaks for itself—no amount of talk can tell you as much as one puff of its flavor.

Taste Chesterfield—and you will recognize a distinct and pleasing flavor, a spicy fragrance, and a rich, wholesome "character" that is Chesterfield's own.

Good taste! What else counts half as much with critical smokers? How else could Chesterfield win and hold its immense popularity . . .

We Now Present

By DARRELL V. MARTIN
Radio Editor

CONNIE MACK, DeWolfe Hopper, "Adrian," Julia Faye and Jack Little will step into thousands of living rooms tonight via the loudspeaker.

A baseball party on the General Motors program, WCAE at 9:30 will be divided into "innings." Hopper and Graham McNamee will furnish the home runs. Cornelius McGillicuddy, or plain "Mack"—will speak from the Athletics' training park at Ft. Myers, Florida. Hopper will recite "Casey at the Bat." McNamee will tell something of baseball heroes past and present.

Jack Little

"Adrian," internationally known costume designer, will design and describe a new gown to be worn by Julia Faye in her new picture when Filmland comes on WJAS at 7:30. The microphone will be placed in the dressing room where Adrian is creating the gown, and his conversation with Miss Faye will be heard.

As guest artist of the Stanley Theater this week, Little Jack Little will croon us to sleep over WCAE at 11:30. Jack has made "jack" out of radio and you'll know why if you listen in.

The Gypsies meander in the springtime . . . the Real Folks feel an urge to have a jury trial . . . and the Anglo-Persians go Chinese.

Did you know that Annie Laurie was a real and not an imaginary person? She was the daughter of Sir Robert Laurie and was born in Maxwelton House on the braes immortalized in the song, which Franklyn Baur will sing for Firestone tonight.

Henry Shope, tenor on the Davey Hour heard on WCAE every Sunday, sang for Charles M. Schwab when he was superintendent of the Homestead Steel works.

Paul E. Fleeger, once a very popular theater organist here, has a delectable program for KQV listeners at 9:30 tonight.

TODAY'S TID BIT:

"The world's too small for radio," says Senator Marconi. "A short wave, traveling 186,000 miles a second, goes around the world three times before it settles down. Every time the signal returns to the point of origin it registers, resulting in a difficulty called 'radio echoes.' These 'echoes' emphasize the fact that radio has made the world so small that scientists are complaining about the lack of elbow room."

Now, "ain't that sumthin'?"

Trial by Jury
Charges brought against one of Mrs. Effie Watts' boarders will be tried by jury. Mayor Matt Thompkins usually settles most disputes among the citizens of Thompkins Corners, but this situation calls for more formal legal action. Judge Whipple will act as presiding officer and a jury of 12 citizens will be picked. Mayor Thompkins has offered to defend the prisoner and Mrs. Watts, of course, will appear as prosecutor. The trial is to be held in the Thompkins store.

GRUNDY'S FATE UP TO PARLEY HERE TODAY

Conference of Republican Leaders to Determine if Senator Gets Mellon Aid

former Attorney General Francis Shunk Brown for governor

Reports from Philadelphia yesterday indicated the Pittsburgh conferees might submit to leaders in the Eastern city, including William S. Vare, who are backing Davis and Brown, a plan for the elimination of all present candidates and the substitution of a harmony ticket headed by Gov. Fisher for senator and Chief Justice Robert von Moschzisker, for governor.

PUSH CAMPAIGN PLANS

Despite that report the Vare forces in Philadelphia and their colleagues in Pittsburgh continued plans for a vigorous campaign for Davis and Brown.

It was pointed out that neither Davis, Brown nor any member of the Vare group will attend Secretary Mellon's dinner and the question arose as to who would represent them in compromise talk.

Justice von Moschzisker, who is here attending sessions of the Supreme Court, said last night he was not aware of any plan of suggesting him as a harmony candidate.

ACTION EXPECTED

"I have no comment to offer on something I know nothing about," he said.

W. L. Mellon was said to have conferred yesterday in New York with Gov. Fisher, who upon his return to Harrisburg, was quoted as saying:

"I believe there will be some definite action soon toward smoothing out the political situation. There should be something one way or another shortly."

Fisher has been represented as being unalterably opposed to Lewis for governor and disappointed at Grundy's insistence on Lewis as a candidate.

LEADERS HERE TO MEET

One of W. L. Mellon's first visitors today probably will be his political field marshal, County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong, Republican county chairman, who has not announced his choice of candidates, but is believed to have decided to support Davis and Brown.

Armstrong has made it clear that he would make no public declaration until he had explained his reason to Mellon.

Persistent rumors that Armstrong would manage the Allegheny County campaign for Davis and Brown were strengthened by a recent report that William H. Ziefel, chief clerk in the county commissioners' office, would begin today preparing space in the William Penn Hotel for Davis-Brown headquarters.

KLINE STILL SILENT

Mayor Charles H. Kline today continued non-committal on the candidates he would support in the state race. He said that both he and Commissioner Armstrong expected to hold a conference with W. L. Mellon today.

Others expected to talk with Mellon are Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell and State Senator Frank J. Harris.

Mackrell has made no public commitment, but his office has been the mecca for leaders of adjoining counties, and it is generally accepted that he would be the Davis-Brown campaign manager for Western Pennsylvania, excepting Allegheny County.

Former Gov. Gifford Pinchot, running independently for another term, issued a statement in Philadelphia yesterday in which he branded unemployment on a large scale as a "crime against humanity."

He said when there was such a situation it was the business of the state to get "aggressively busy" in using every means within its power to keep workers employed.

Weather Conditions.

A low pressure area is centered over Central Indiana and Illinois this morning and extends from the upper St. Lawrence valley southwestward to Texas. It covers the entire Central Valley section. The disturbance is causing cloudy weather over most of the interior of the country and rain or snow over the Plains states and the Mississippi Valley states, and as far east as Indiana. Another disturbance off the South Atlantic coast is causing heavy rain at Charleston and Jacksonville. The temperatures are rising over the states east of the Mississippi, while over the Plains states and the Canadian Northwest the temperature change since yesterday was towards cooler. There are no low temperatures however except in Manitoba. The high pressure area responsible for the change to cooler is centered over the state of Oregon, and covers the entire country west of the Mississippi.

1,000 TO AID IN COUNTY CENSUS

Allegheny County alone will need more than 1,000 persons to compile the detailed statistics of the 1930 census which starts April 1. Final plans are being made at the census offices in the American Bank Building.

Thirty-two questions, including a checkup of employment conditions, home ownership, citizenship and literacy will be asked every person in the first complete house survey ever attempted by the government. All information gathered is to be held in strict confidence.

CARDINAL PRAYS FOR RUSSIANS

BOSTON, March 24.—(AP)—Cardinal O'Connell, in his first public appearance since his return from a vacation in the West Indies, spoke of the religious situation in Russia at the Cathedral of the Holy Cross here.

The cardinal blamed some of the troubles, as he thought them, of Russia upon former neglect of the poor and concentration upon mere accumulation of wealth. He went on, however, to denounce the campaign of the atheists and to pray for the godless.

"Poor benighted men," he said. "They have lost the greatest blessing God ever gave them. They are groping around in the dark to find their happiness, which they never will find. They have overthrown the Czar, hoping to find liberty, but they found only more and grosser slavery under masters that are heartless."

The cardinal asked his hearers to have pity for "millions of these good, poor people who are living lives of terror today under the lash of that heartless clique" which, he said, "forced the peasant against his will to obey not God, but a despotism a thousand times worse than that of the Czar."

George Wilson, Vet Of Minstrelsy, Dies

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., March 24.—(AP)—George Wilson, widely known throughout the country in the heydey of the minstrel show, died here last night. He was 86 years old. He was a member of the troupe of Barlow, Wilson, Primrose and West. He retired six years ago.

BYRD'S VESSEL OFF FOR HOME

DUNEDIN, New Zealand, March 24.—(AP)—Carrying 50 members of the Byrd Antarctic expedition homeward, the bark City of New York, flag ship of Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, sailed late yesterday from Otago harbor for Tahiti, en route for New York.

Admiral Byrd was among a crowd of more than 10,000 that thronged the wharves to say goodby. He is remaining here for a few days to complete business affairs and will travel by mail steamer homeward, rejoining the City of New York at the Panama Canal. He bade his shipmates farewell before the tug took the bark down the channel.

Pushing out into a gray mist and bucking a stiff easterly breeze, the Byrd flagship, after 16 months in the waters under the Southern Cross, started the expedition's journey home from its conquest of the South Pole by air, and its triumphs in the fields of exploration and scientific research.

The steamship Eleanor Bolling will follow her in a few days. about the body.

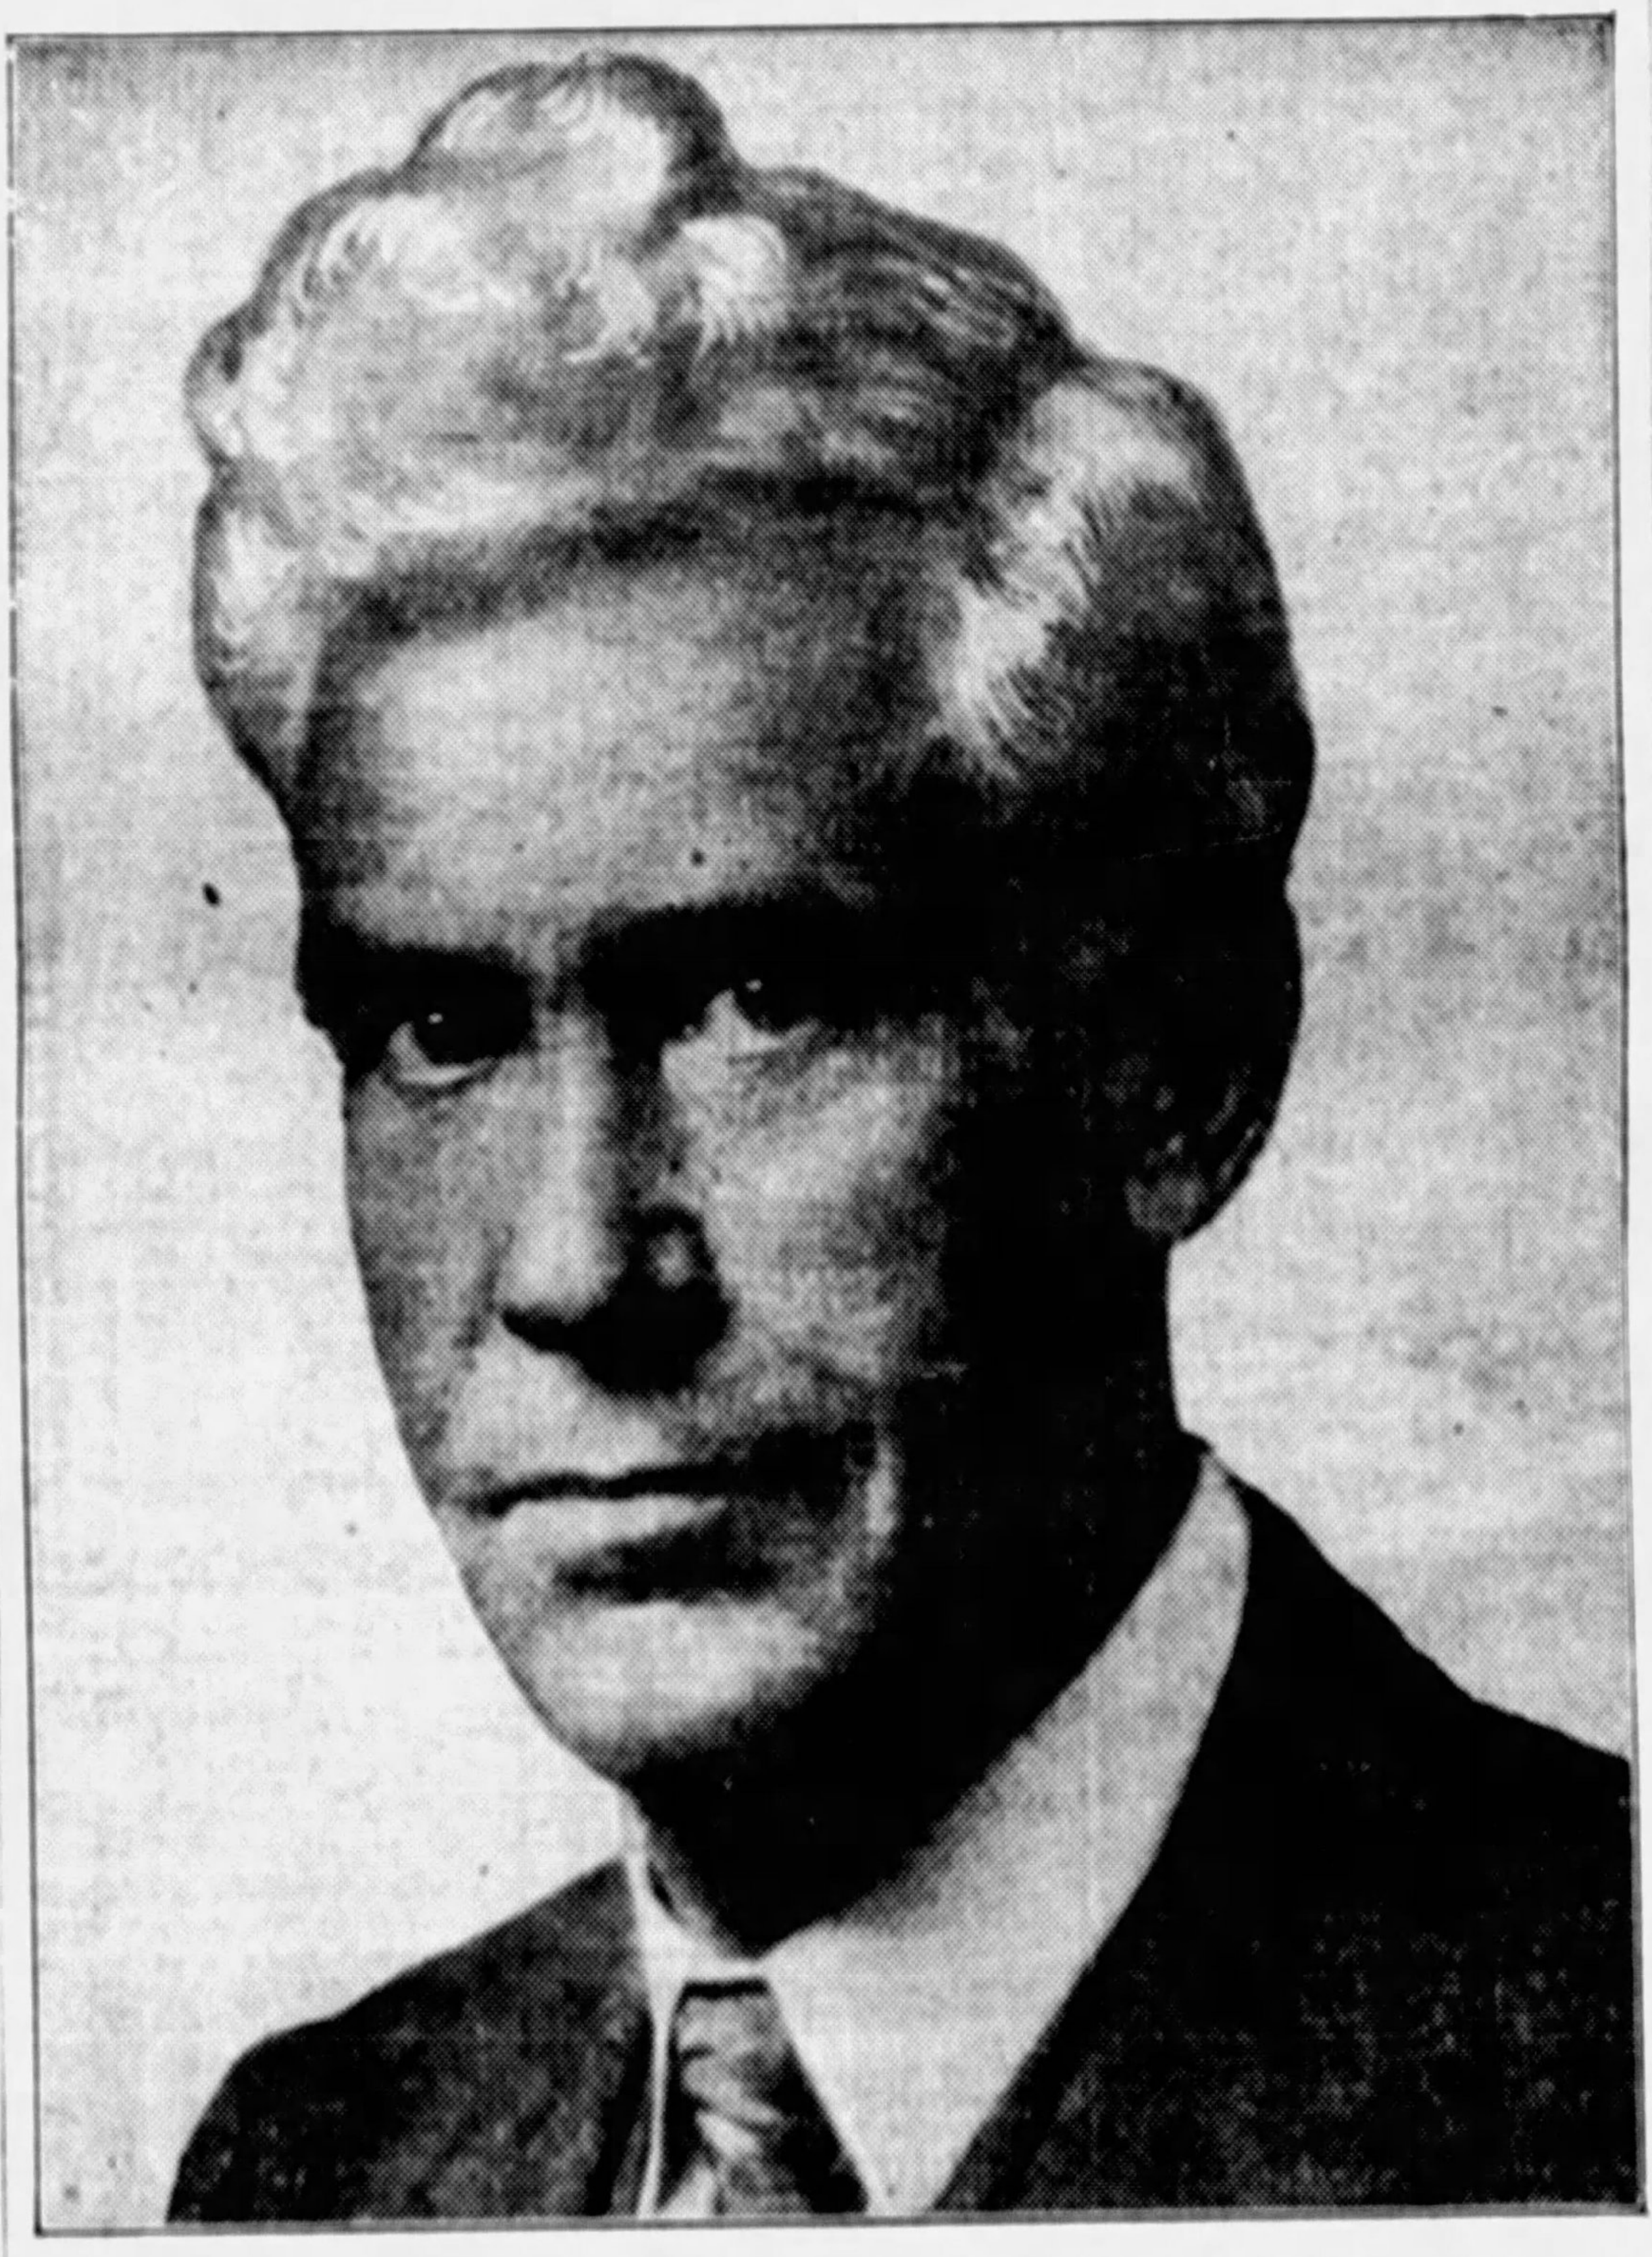
Flaxolyn Can Help You "Gain Health While You Sleep"

Says Los Angeles Doctor in Remarkable Statement to Pittsburgh Folks



Dr. Frederick J. Cook, of Los Angeles, Director of the famous Academy of Physical Reconstruction. Thousands upon thousands of men and women throughout the country have sought and found greater health in this unique institution.

"I Have Faith in the Health-Power of Flaxolyn Because I Have Seen the Wonderful Results It Has Brought to Tired, Rundown, Worn-out People!"

"If you seek a richer, deeper sleep than you have experienced in a long time, without the use of harmful drastic drugs, I certainly recommend the use of Dr. Luntz's vitaminized Herbal Flaxolyn," states Dr. Frederick J. Cook, head of the Academy of Physical Reconstruction, which occupies the entire fourteenth floor of the Hibernian Building in Los Angeles.

"There isn't one man or woman in a thousand who can say that he or she wakes up every single morning feeling fully refreshed, happy, light-hearted and ready for a day chock-full of energetic achievement, whether in business or social life. If YOU are the one man or woman in a thousand, all right, you don't need Dr. Luntz's Flaxolyn. But if you wake up almost as tired as when you went to bed; if you are ever troubled with headaches and gas and nervous indigestion, bad breath, sallow complexion and the host of other ailments which follow in the wake of constipation and sleeplessness, then to you I can earnestly advise the immediate trial of Flaxolyn.

"Don't expect miracles from Flaxolyn overnight. Use it steadily for a fair period of time. I am sure you and your friends will notice the wonderful difference in your health and appearance."

Vitaminized Flaxolyn Discovery Relieves Constipation Naturally; Peps Up the Bile-Action of the Liver, Helps the Digestion, and Assists the Functioning of the Kidneys

Thousands of people here who formerly suffered nights of sleeplessness and days of agonizing stomach distress due to constipation, now feel fit, eat with keen appetites and sleep serenely since taking Nature's own formula, Dr. Luntz's Herbal Flaxolyn.

Dizzy spells and yellow complexion, caused by liver sluggishness, have been corrected through Flaxolyn. It has likewise been of immense benefit in improper kidney elimination, gas on stomach, nervous indigestion, loss of strength and other symptoms.

Money Back Guarantee

Take vitaminized Flaxolyn on the personal guarantee of Dr. Luntz. If you do not feel and see the improvement by the sixth pleasant spoonful, return the partly used bottle and have your money refunded.

Clip This NOW. Learn the power of Flaxolyn in your own case.

From everywhere come the reports that it is doing a world of good. Flaxolyn contains herbs and other safe, valuable ingredients.

SEATTLE PAYS EIELSON HONOR

SEATTLE, Wash., March 24.—(AP.)—Seattle paid final tribute yesterday to the memories of Carl Ben Eielson and Earl Borland, Arctic aviators who went to their death in an airplane crash near North Cape, Siberia, last November. They were attempting a flight from Teller, Alaska, to the fur trader Nanuk, ice-bound at the Cape.

The bodies were recovered after months of searching and brought to Seattle by plane, train and ship, the steamship Alaska bringing them here from Seward, Alaska. The Alaska arrived Saturday night many hours overdue, having been buffeted by head winds continually on the trip south.

The bodies were taken from the ship and escorted by civil and military organizations to the mortuary where they reposed in their flag-draped coffins until time for the services. Borland's final resting place will be a cemetery in Seattle, the home of his parents, while Eielson will be interred in Hatton, N. D., his boyhood home.

Included in the funeral party were two Russian aviators, Commander Mavrick Slipenov and Fabio Fahrig, who had aided in the search for the bodies, and three Canadian aviators, Capt. Pat Reid, Sam MacAuley, and William Hughes, who were taken north to engage in the rescue expedition.

Find Still, Whisky In Dover Garage

DOVER, March 24.—In a garage owned by Antonio Tedesco, Dover, state officers and local police found 415 gallons of whisky, a still and the labels for Old Log Cabin and Golden Wedding bonded liquor. Tedesco denies knowledge of the cache, blaming it on an unknown tenant.

Coal Dealer Fined For Short Weight

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., March 24.—Mark Klutt, coal dealer, was fined $25 and costs by Alderman D. D. Garvin on a charge of selling coal at short weights. It was charged Klutt sold a 60-bushel load of coal for 65 bushels.

CHICKIE

CHAPTER XLI

CHICKIE took the noon hour to shop. Trembling, yet half enchanted, she stood at the counter, running her hand through a delicate pink cloud of silk and lace lingerie, the sheerest and most expensive, offered for half price in this early May sale.

When Chickie read the ad she thought with a gay flush: "I may as well begin to gather things gradually—that's the best way. It may be real soon."

Now she examined a beautiful set with little plaits and insets of hand embroidered net. Even at half price it was $25. She wanted it. She had nothing as lovely as that. Pulses tingled at her ears. She said to herself: "Bridal set—it will be the best one. I might as well—"

But she hesitated and might have walked out but an abrupt, nosey woman picked it from her hand, saying to the saleswomen: "Another set like this? If you have, I'll take it." And she remained at Chickie's side waiting her decision. Chickie took it.

She had it done in a box, tissue paper. Tremulous with excitement, as though her wedding day were the morrow, she went airily back to work. The purchase engrossed her thought. "Frightful extravagance! What in the world would Jennie say? Jennie mustn't know. Hide it." She began to wonder if it was worth the money and became so troubled about it that she took the box and stole to the dressing room for a swift scrutiny. It was more exquisite than she fancied.

That night she laid it out in her drawer and put little pink and blue sachet bags about it. She was just covering it carefully when the door opened. She faced about guiltily. It was only Jonathan.

He came in his big clumsy way, closing the door mysteriously. She laughed: "Cutie comes on a secret mission? Got some dark plot afoot?"

Father Questions Her

He stood at the bureau running his knuckles back and forth over the scarf. "Chickie, did you and Mr. Munson quarrel?"

"Oh—you goofy old Jonathan, of course not!"

"Was he angry with you about that night you kept him waiting?"

"Well, hear that! Don't you know, Johnny, darling, I'm the girl what kicks the crowns from the heads of kings and laughs about it? Angry with me!"

"Why doesn't he come any more?"

"Shall I ask him? Shall I demand to know why he's forsaken your beautiful darter? Men you know and the weather like a change—sometimes fair and sometimes dark."

He took her shoulders and made her face him. "Chickie girl, that's not true. Now, he did a great deal for us and I wouldn't like to feel that you'd been rude to him. Your mother and I thought he had very serious intentions."

"Oh, you did, did you." She became nervous, laughing, a little high-pitched gayety. "Well, imagine Little Jennie getting such notions. That's not demure. When I was a girl we wouldn't dream of such a thing until the man had flopped to his knees and said his little piece!"

He looked down at her, nodding—sober. "You don't want your father to know, Chickie? Is this the way you want to treat me?"

She dropped her eyes before the consuming, kind love of his: "You make it pretty hard for me, Jonathan. I can't help it if he doesn't come, can I? Men do things like this."

No Proposal

"Did he never speak for you?"

"If you mean did he ask me to marry him—well, he didn't."

"Because you let him see that you preferred this boy? Was that the reason, Chickie? You drove right up here that night when you knew he was waiting. I was ashamed of that."

"Oh, I didn't know it. Now, don't start in that—that's just like you, Jonathan—you want me to cry about it. If he wants to come, he can; if he stays away—tish, I should worry!"

He knew that she wished him to go; he saw her lips with little eager movements twisting them. He put his arm about her shoulders, raised her chin upward. "Chickie, girl—what can Barry do for you? He's a nice boy, but your old dad right now can make things sweeter. If you're tired of working—why don't you stay home awhile? Your mother spoke of it. She's not as young as she was. Fine to have our Chickie around all day."

"I'm not tired—at all—I like to work. I have lots of fun at it. What are you getting so solemn about? Don't you want me to have any friends?"

Jonathan only knew that this sweet, fairy thing with her bright head against his shoulder was his life; only knew that he could beat the path smoother for her with his bare hands. And he saw—or thought he saw—that she was running into a road of thorns and jagged stones. He said heavily: "I want you to be wise, Chickie. You've never had to do without. You've always had it pleasant and easy. Have you ever thought of that?"

"You're telling me the truth, Chickie?"

"Who knows, Jonathan? What is truth?"

She thought when he finally left—thought with a little sad bitterness: "He doesn't want me to love, either. He and Jennie married because they wanted each other. And Mary did that. And Lucy. Now they shriek at me, 'Don't!'" She wondered with uncertain, wistful eagerness if they could possibly be right.

On Bridal Path

It was like the reluctance she had noticed in Barry. But that was gone now. When he came to the window he was all daring and happy. When he met her for lunch he often touched her hand quickly, made her look up, pursing his lips to tease her. When they rode about at night parking in secluded lanes he grabbed her and put her head on his shoulder—made her stay like that. She did—her thoughts drifting in a beautiful languor, losing themselves in the high tide of love.

One Sunday morning they hired horses and went riding. Chickie borrowed Janina's suit. She had a magnificent sensation of wealth—fancied herself a gay young debutante and Barry a lord millionaire. They were both jubilant, thrilled with a sense of adventure.

They took the bridle path in Prospect Park. He rode a little behind, coming up suddenly, the flanks of their horses touching. "You look like a lady of King Arthur's court—so sweet she is!"

He put his hand on hers, holding the reins. He whispered softly: "Chickie!"

She glanced up slowly, knowing that he was bending to her. A flush tinged in his eyes. He said breathlessly: "Quick!" She stood a little in the stirrups—waited till he kissed her twice. She lowered her head, flushed and silent—seeing the ardent youngness in his face. And she felt within her a thing that bowed down gladly—that laughed and sank to its knees.

No matter—no matter—ah, let Jonathan talk and Mary warn—there was one thing on the earth—that look in his eyes—that clasp of his hands.

Barry Meets Ila

Still he rode alongside of her; still he held the reins. He said with his lips shaking: "Chickie—I wish it was today!"

"Do you? Chickie, look up—oh, why—"

His face grew pale.

No day passed now that they didn't see each other. At noon she stood at her window, looking across to his. If he put his hand up it meant they were to meet at the corner. If he turned both thumbs down it meant that he couldn't get away—that something kept him too late.

The Wednesday after their ride the thumbs were down. Well—that meant a long, sweet evening together—

Chickie went to lunch with Janina.

"Getting in deeper and deeper—up to your neck?" Janina asked.

"Oh, I don't know about that."

"She could have a king and the poor babe in the woods takes the page!"

"You like them young yourself, Janina."

"Thats where you're wrong. It's the callow youths that fall for me. Give me a chance at a man with blood in his veins and you won't see me crying for milk! Bess is coming to meet us."

They were just seated when Bess, all drooping, but extremely chic, let herself down with a long sigh next to Chickie. "Water — I've just dragged in here to draw my last breath. Order my coffin, Janka, love. Have it made of ivory to remind the world that I died pure. Oh, Miss Bryce, how dare you to look so rosy—don't you know I suffer from other people's robust health! How's your steady? Is Ila Moore trying to win him away from you? Saw his picture on her dressing table. Don't worry, little one—you've got her dead to rights. Men don't like the tranquil type."

It was a sharp blow in Chickie's face. She shrank from it.

Coming back to the office, she walked quickly past his building. And she saw him. She saw a limousine with a man and a girl at the curb. Barry was stepping into it. The girl was Ila Moore.

IN MOST cases the marriages which do not last very long should never have taken place at all.

Those who marry and mean to make a success of it, should consider well the mate they are choosing for life.

They think more of the future than the present. Marriage with them is not a sudden escapade to surprise their friends.

The serious girl considers the future of her young husband.

The serious young man considers the girl he is marrying as a wife of whom he can always be proud—a wife who will be worthy to share any high place he may attain.

In frivolous moments young men may seem to prefer wayward girls, but in the serious decision of marriage they have ideals!

Hugh Grantland Re-Enters the Tale

THERE was real concern beneath the apparent levity in Harry Underwood's voice as he asked me whether there had been "dirty work at the cross roads."

"Exceedingly," I answered. "It's a bad business and only you can cope with it."

"I think you know I'll do my best," he said suddenly sobering, and I had time for only an answering nod before we came up to Lillian, who put down her knitting and looked at me with steady inquiry.

"I can see you have all the dope," she said. "Let's go over there by the window. We can't possibly disturb the invalid then."

We followed her to the window and settled ourselves comfortably. For the next few minutes they listened in attentive silence while I told them the story of the attack upon Noel which Mary had just related to me.

"Do you mind if I go out in the hall?" Harry asked when I had finished. "The language which is on the tip of my trembling tongue could not be uttered even in the presence of the modern young thing in her teens, let alone shrinking violets like you two. Lady Fair, the task you've set me is pure joy. It will be rapture to deal properly with that young Gaderene swine named Leslie."

Mr. Underwood rose abruptly and stretched his long arms above his head.

"You two can have your few minutes right now," he said. "I'll hie me into my own sanctum and induct my manly body and feet into garb more suitable for ambulance duty than this I have on. But I warn you I'll be back very shortly, so don't chin too long."

Lillian waited until he had closed the door; then she spoke, quickly, softly.

"I suppose I shall have to tell you about Hugh," she said. "I should have done so before, have been meaning to for several weeks, but really, it never entered my head that Leslie would dare come back. It must mean that——"

"That Hugh is dead!" I said tensely, unable to control my anxiety another second.

"Not a bit of it," she said. "That doesn't follow at all. It's more probable that one of his most trusted agents has fallen down on him or double-crossed him—it doesn't matter which, now that the mischief is done."

"You've had postal cards from Hugh telling you of every change in his address ever since Grace Draper kidnaped Junior," she said, not as one asking a question but stating a fact. "But I do not think you know that from that day on he has kept up a regular correspondence with me. I think you will acquit both the gallant major and me of any sentimental interest in each other"—she grinned widely—"so you probably can guess why he has taken his trusty pen in hand so assiduously."

My face was flaming now, but Lillian ignored my embarrassment and went on as if she were reciting the most ordinary behavior in the world.

"If I had been his sister or his mother, he could not have confided in me more fully," she said. "In fact, I think I've been a sort of a safety valve for him all the years. He knew that Dicky's jealousy of him made it impossible for him to do more than to keep you advised of his whereabouts, and besides, some of the things he told me, concerning expeditions of his, would have worried you to death, or any other woman less a fatalist than I."

I hid a wry grimace at her subterfuge, for I recognized it as such. She is no more a fatalist than I, but she was trying to make plausible Hugh Grantland's dread of causing me pain or worry.

"I've also been able to keep him posted about you," she went on; "oh!" as I started violently—"nothing that you would not have been willing to have him know, you ought to know me well enough for that—but I've stayed him with flagons of ordinary homely gossip about you and yours, enough to assure him of your safety and happiness."

My embarrassment at her revelation, something of which I had guessed before, made my voice suddenly sharp:

"But all this doesn't explain why Jack Leslie has dared to come back," I said.

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

Making Men Marriage-Minded

ONCE upon a time, this Land was famous for the plentifulness of its marrying men, the chivalry of its lovers and the dutiful devotion of its husbands.

Now over half a million American girls are vainly looking for suitable husbands, and facing the bleak prospect of eternal spinsterhood, according to a frank confession in a recent magazine.

And there's a reason. American men are no longer marriage-minded. They no longer think in terms of engagement rings, rose-covered bungalows, insurance policies and perambulators. They think in terms of motor cars and petting parties.

Apparently, woman, after a swift whirl around the primrose way, has gotten right back to where she started. She wants a husband. A husband of her OWN! Just borrowing another woman's husband may have been the favorite pastime of the wild young thing of the post-war generation, but it does not satisfy the girls of the new "younger generation."

They are not content to be just a little side-dish in a married man's life. They want to be the whole feast in some man's life. Why not?

But, if ever their dreams are to come true, they will have to get out their little primers and begin educating the men all over again. And getting a new idea into a man's head is almost as much of a feat as refilling a non-refillable bottle.

The first rule for getting a husband of your own is not to waste your time, playing around with other women's husbands. A flirtation in the life of a married man is just a little detour, which, nine times out of ten, leads right back to the old door-mat and the protection of his wife's skirts.

The second rule is not to make a bachelor's life such a long, sweet love-song and such a continuous petting party that he will be loath to exchange it for a lullaby and a fireside.

The wild girls of the post-war generation succeeded in ruining the best lot of husbands, potential and actual, that the world has ever known. It was the women, themselves, who gave the marriage-minded American man the perfectly new and startling idea that he could take marriage—or leave it alone. That he need not take it seriously. That he need not untie himself from all the other women, just in order to tie himself to one woman.

* * *

All of which is very hard on the clear-eyed young woman of today, who finds that she is only living half a life—and doesn't see much chance of getting the "better half."

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Ultra-Violet Light

IN RECENT years, ultra-violet light therapy has been going through an experimental stage.

DR COPELAND

It now seems as though a new hope in disease has arisen in the effective use of these life-giving rays. Everywhere experiments are being made. Recently, in London, important experiments in cases of skin tuberculosis seem to have brought gratifying results through the use of ultra-violet radiation. Special lamps, known as "quartz mercury vapour lamps" and "carbon arc lamps" were used.

The rays are applied to as large an area as possible. Not only is the affected part flooded with the light, but also the doctors have given general treatments of the body.

In the treatment of some diseases of the mouth, throat and nasal passages, the rays have been applied. It has been generally recognized that ailments of the mucous membranes are less satisfactory to deal with than those of the skin. This may be because they are much more difficult to reach.

The germs of tuberculosis, in the majority of cases, it is probable, enter through the nose. They are then spread to other parts of the body, to the cheek, or to the skin of the face. Of course, there are many other skin troubles than those due to tuberculosis.

It has been puzzling to know why ultra-violet rays exert such marked beneficial effects in skin tuberculosis. The sore places in this disease are deep-seated. In spite of this the new treatment has been helpful.

Further investigation of ultra-violet light action will, no doubt, lead to other interesting results. Some cases of lowered resistance, and even depression of health, have been found after exposure to ultra-violet light. On this account, care should be taken to guard against its use in unsuitable cases. That is why a doctor should be consulted.

I have no doubt that sunlight is essential to health. There are in it these wonderful ultra-violet rays. Unfortunately not everybody has access every day to the life-giving light. Indoor workers are denied its benefits. Bad weather intereferes.

The inventors are never daunted. In the face of every obstacle they solve the puzzling problems. By reason of their work the mysteries of disease are being solved.

The modern lamps that supply the ultra-violet rays in great streams of life-giving energy are among the wonders of the age. Properly applied these treatments do much good. Not only do they help local ailments, but they add to the general health and vigor.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

POUCHES or loose tissues under the eyes may be inherited. If they come and go, they are probably due to fatigue or intestinal organs that are sluggish. A treatment that is of value, especially as a facial pick-me-up after a trying day and before the merry evening, consists of dipping a pad of absorbent cotton in hot water and applying for three or four minutes. Then dip the pad in ice cold water and apply, following with applications of witch hazel. Hot water, with cold tagging along afterwards, lessens the swelling.

Egg facials are used for the purpose of tightening the skin and correcting enlarged pores. Apply the yoke; after it has dried somewhat apply the white of the egg. Remove in fifteen minutes with warm water.

In a dry climate and in high altitudes the complexion considers the idea of suicide. It tries to fluff itself away. Moisture and oil are friendly to the human hide, and the more moisture and oil it has, the softer it is and the finer its texture. A quick steaming of the skin is all right if followed by an ice rub. There is no such thing as giving the complexion too much cold cream except when it is burdened with excessive oil of its own manufacture.

Combs and hairbrushes should be scrubbed thoroughly at least once a week, certainly always before they are used on the glory-top that has just been shampooed. Use a strong scrubbing powder and a firm brush. If soap scum clings to the bristles of a hair brush, touch them lightly with a liquid dry cleaner.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

When There Is No Engagement Ring

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. What is the correct way to announce my engagement when there is no engagement ring?

2. Can an engagement be announced formally in the newspapers in such a case, and how long before the date of marriage should this be done?

PUZZLED.

JUST as the engagement would be announced if there were an engagement ring: The bride-to-be tells her close relatives and very close friends, writes notes to those not so close, either in degree of friendship or distance, and then, if she and her parents wish, the engagement is announced formally in the newspapers.

2. Yes. Whenever the parents of the bride and the bride wish to have it announced.

The Groom's Parents Are Guests of Honor

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. Should the bride and groom, in leaving the church to go to the reception, leave the church in a machine alone, or go in the machine with the bridesmaids and best man?

2. Does the groom's family sit on the right or left side in church?

M. E.

THEY go from the church in the car alone.

2. The groom's family and friends sit on the right of the aisle. You see, the parents of the groom are the guests of honor of the occasion, and guests of honor sit on the right of the hosts. The parents of the bride are the hosts of the occasion, and so they sit on the left.

Addressing an Envelope

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

When writing a social letter is it proper, or, rather, considered good form, to address the envelope to the extreme left?

E. R. J.

NO, this isn't good form, because it does not artistically balance on the envelope. The address on an envelope should be so spaced that it will give the impression of being a picture, framed by the borders of the envelope. When you frame a picture, you wouldn't frame it so that it is off to the left of the frame.

The best way to write the address is in the manner in which it will be most easily read by the postman. Therefore, the indented lines are most sensible. Like this:

504 Clermont Avenue,
New Haven,
Ohio.

Household Hints

Creaking hinges should be rubbed with a piece of soap, as oil sometimes spoils the paint.

Common alum melted in an iron spoon over hot coals makes a very strong cement for metal and glass.

Hair brushes can be thoroughly cleaned by putting ammonia in cold water and dipping the brush in, being careful not to allow the wood to go into the water; then rinse in clear cold water.

It is a good plan to buy a small-size stiff-bristled scrubbing brush and keep it hanging near the sink. You will find it very useful for cleaning suet graters and other articles of a similar nature. Without its help it is very difficult to dislodge the bits of suet and food from the grater without hurting the fingers.

You'll readily understand why smart women prefer Kotex, when you discover its clever shaping and remarkable softness.

WHAT a difference the right sanitary protection makes under your smart new frocks!

With clumsy methods . . . you have awkward lines and bulges.

With Kotex . . . smooth fit, a minimum of bulk; never a revealing outline!

Kotex is made of a remarkable substance (Cellucotton — not cotton — absorbent wadding) which makes bulk and weight unnecessary. Cellucotton is so light and cool, so amazingly absorbent.

Used in 85% of hospitals

Cellucotton is so vastly superior that you'll find it used in 85% of the very greatest hospitals, not for one or two purposes alone, but for important surgical work.

Cellucotton absorbent wadding is, as you probably know, a cellulose substance which performs the same sanitary function with 5 times the absorbency of the finest cotton.

Cellucotton absorbs away from the surface, leaving the surface always soft and delicate. This prevents chafing and packing, and makes Kotex hygienic as well as comfortable.

There are many other reasons why millions of women today will use only Kotex. One is its instant disposability. Others are noted at the right. Please try Kotex. Kotex Company, Chicago, Illinois.

KOTEX IS SOFT . . .

1—Not a deceptive softness, that soon packs into chafing hardness. But a delicate, lasting softness.

2—Kotex filler is far lighter and cooler than cotton, yet absorbs 5 times as much.

3—Deodorizes, safely, thoroughly, by a special process.

Kotex Super-Size—65c for 12

FORD EXPLAINS PARTS BUYING

DETROIT, March 24.—(AP.)—Reports that a large part of the work heretofore done in certain departments of the Ford Motor Company was being let out on contract to outside firms, brought from Henry Ford the statement that the company never was committed to the policy of producing in its own plants everything that went into Ford cars and trucks.

More than 2,300 firms throughout the United States supply the Ford Motor Company, Ford said. Business throughout the country is aided by this policy of decentralizing manufacture, he added.

Asked whether employment in the parent plants here had been reduced by the discontinuance of certain departments, Ford said:

"We inquired particularly into that before we acted. Thus far the men have been kept at other work as far as possible and that means practically every man was retained in employment."

The plan has not only effected economies in production, according to another official of the company, but has served to spread employment.

"We have land enough," he said, "to duplicate a department for the production of everything required, but why should we take that work from those already established and proceed in making such parts? It would add to our expense of manufacture to build up such departments.

"We are trying to spread work around. The more we can spread manufacture and employment, the more certainly are we making it possible for tens of thousands of people to stay at home and work instead of flocking to Detroit to increase the general problem."

WHALEN SCORES SLEUTHS' CHIEF

NEW YORK, March 24.—(AP.)—Police Commissioner Grover A. Whalen blames John D. Coughlin, former inspector in charge of the detective division, for "failure of the department to function properly" in the investigation into the slaying of Arnold Rothstein, Broadway gambler, in November, 1928.

In a lengthy report of his investigation of the police handling of the noted murder case, Whalen wrote that he had found indications of "a breakdown in the efficient operation of the detective bureau, due to the lack of intelligent and capable direction on the part of the commanding officer of the detective division."

Coughlin has retired since the Rothstein case, as has Inspector Arthur Carey, commander of the homicide bureau, who was held responsible in Whalen's report for failure to obtain fingerprints of Rothstein before he was buried.

The commissioner's report was based in part on evidence introduced at the trials of police officers for violating departmental rules in handling the case.

The only officer actually punished, beyond a reprimand, was Detective Patrick Flood, who was demoted to patrol duty and fined for carelessness and laxity.

Train Injures 7, Then Causes Blaze

ERIE, Pa., March 24.—(AP.)—Seven Erie Negroes were injured yesterday when their automobile, driven by Helene Jefferson, 17, was struck by a freight train.

Sparks from the same train later started a grass fire along the right of way, flames for a while threatening the farm houses of Elbert Bush and Mrs. Emma Crook.

ENGINEER DIES SAVING TRAIN

With only a few seconds to choose between leaping for his life and facing sure death in his cab, Bell remained at his post to set the air brakes when he felt the engine hit the ties and careen toward a ditch at the side of the right-of-way.

The setting of the brakes stopped nine Pullmans which made up the train and about 80 sleeping passengers were saveed from possible death or injury.

The engine, with Bell imprisoned in the cab, burrowed a hole eight feet deep in the soft earth. Two baggage cars and an express car directly behind the locomotive were turned over on their sides but the Pullmans remained upright.

Fireman P. F. Jenson, of Mansfield, was thrown out of the cab, but was badly scalded.

The accident was believed to have been caused by a wobbly wheel on one of the baggage cars. Traffic on the main line was held up for eight hours.

Bank Cashier Dies After Auto Crash

LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 24.—(AP.)—Samuel Dohrmann, cashier of the Security Bank here, was injured fatally in an automobile accident here yesterday. Ten minutes later police arrested F. H. Poschinger, general manager of the American Elevator and Machine Company. He was charged with manslaughter and failure to stop and give aid.

HARVARD HEAD'S WIFE DIES

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., March 24.—(AP.)—Mrs. Anna Parker Lowell, wife of Abbott Lawrence Lowell, president of Harvard University, died at the Lowell home here yesterday after an illness extending over almost a year.

Mrs. Lowell was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Gardner Lowell, of Boston, and was a distant relative of her husband.

She entered fully into the life of the university. Her Sunday afternon teas for students particularly were widely attended and endeared her to each new generation of Harvard men. Last June the Lowells observed the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage, but the occasion was marred because Mrs. Lowell had been taken ill.

Queen Marie Asks Native Officer To Dine

CAIRO, Egypt, March 24.—(AP.)—A native officer in charge of the police at Sakkara considers 13 his lucky number, since it was responsible for his getting an invitation to have luncheon with Queen Marie and Princess Ileana, of Rumania.

The Queen and Princess, while visiting the ancient monuments at Sakkara, were invited to luncheon by the head of an excavating party. They discovered that an unexpected guest had increased the number of diners to 13. The Queen hesitated to sit down to a meal with a party of 13 persons, so the native officer was summoned to join them.

SOUP KITCHENS DEFENDED

The Rev. Alexander Gibson, who directs the feeding of hungry men each day at the soup kitchen in old "Dutch Henry's," Second avenue and Grant street, struck back today at the heads of organized charity who Friday said bread lines here were unnecessary and demoralizing.

The Rev. Mr. Gibson is superintendent of the Keystone-Pittsburgh Rescue Mission which operates the soup kitchen each day.

"The demoralization is that our charities are not caring for the hungry," Rev. Gibson said.

In his statement the Rev. Mr. Gibson said:

"I would gladly close the soup kitchen tomorrow, but as a lover of my fellow man I cannot do it.

"First—There are, I know, 2,000 hungry men on our streets.

Second—From actual contact we know that there are very few of them that do not want a job.

Third—There are no jobs to get and this cry of prosperity is all bosh. Every honest person knows it.

Fourth—If Father Cox is willing to give a cup of coffee and a piece of bread every morning and I can give a bowl of soup and a piece of bread every noon, there will be less begging on the street and perhaps less crime in our city.

"It is hard for homeless unemployed men to get anything from our charities. As soon as work opens up the soup kitchen will close. The demoralization is that our charities are not caring for the hungry. They had become desperate and dangerous. This is the reason for the soup kitchen."

CRASH LAID TO MINE GUARD

William H. Burns, 49, an industrial policeman at Harmarville, was held for court today by Justice of the Peace Lawrence Sutton at Springdale, on a charge of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor.

Attired in his uniform, Burns was arrested last night by Private J. M. Burnsworth, of the Parnassus detail of the state highway patrol, after he was said to have wrecked two automobiles in the Freeport road at the intersection of the Oakmont Bridge. Burns spent the night in the Springdale lockup, Burnsworth said.

The car driven by Burns, the arresting officer said, struck the parked automobile of William D. Clark, of 426 Maryland avenue, Oakmont, and then veered across the road and hit the automobile of Melvin McCully, of Indianola. Occupants of the latter car were slightly injured, Burnsworth said.

Burns was released on $500 bond.

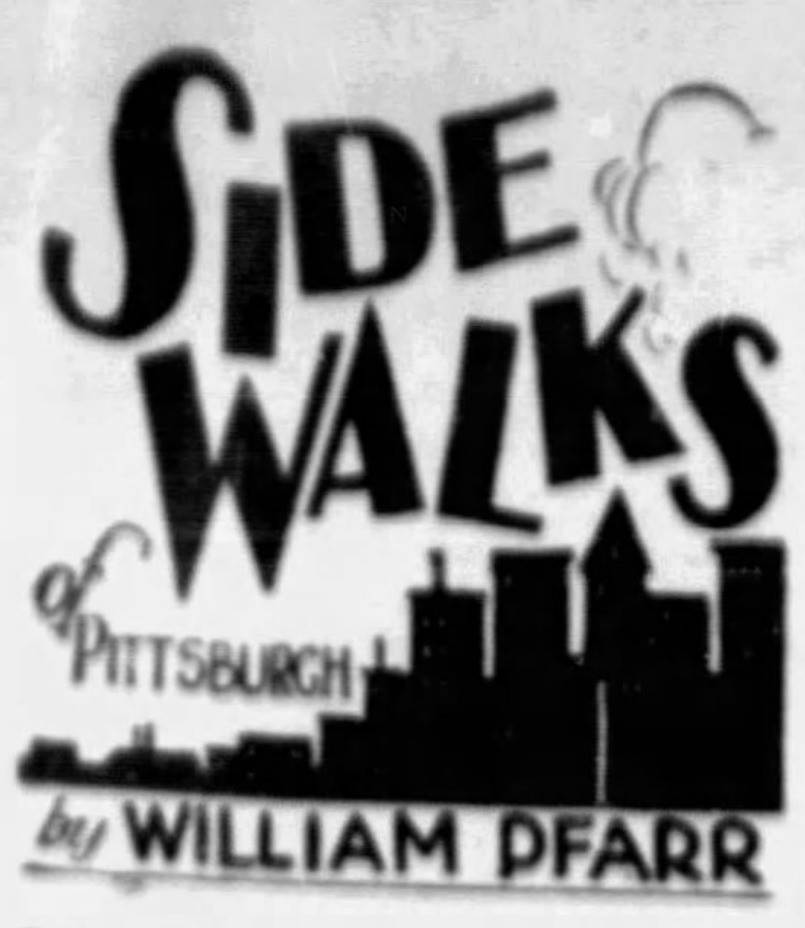
NINE ARRESTED IN 100 ROBBERIES



SIDE WALKS of PITTSBURGH

by WILLIAM PFARR

NOW he is a young salesman, a few years ago he was a freshman at Oberlin College. Low in his studies, he was threatened with dismissal. But he hired a tutor and barely made the grade. He made his will the other day and he named his sister beneficiary of his estate, which consists solely of insurance. But he specified that if his sister passed on before he did, the estate was to be used to establish a scholarship fund to tutor Oberlin freshmen who, guilty of low marks, were threatened with dismissal.

When anybody asks us (nobody ever has) what's wrong with show business, we contend that it suffers from a lack of showmanship. That answer is beside the point, but it gives us the opportunity to say a few words about showmanship. Our estimate is that not more than one of every 100 in show business is a genuine showman. If you demand our definition of a showman, we'll tell you a story.

FIRE-WORKS AND JULY 4
AH!—— THAT'LL HELP MY PARK

Lou Joseph, the cashier of the Nixon Theater, was operating an amusement park in New Jersey a few years ago. His competition was an adjoining park. The competitor had spent several thousand dollars exploiting his Fourth of July program, which featured fireworks. Joseph had a mere wirewalker—and an idea.

The crowd flocked to Joseph's competitor while Joseph's place was, as the saying goes, starving. But Joseph had so constructed the apparatus for the wirewalker that when his competitor's fireworks lighted the skies the crowd was fascinated by what it saw in the distance—a man walking on air hundreds of feet above the ground. The crowd came closer—and pretty soon most of it was in Joseph's park. And that is showmanship.

Joseph's duties, incidentally, include selling tickets at the Nixon Theater. He is a very unusual ticket seller. He says to himself, as he sells each ticket, "Well, if I satisfy this customer maybe he'll write a letter to the boss and tell him I'm all right."

THE business of reforming the people is discouraging. We write a piece advising you to keep your hat on in elevators and somebody from Connellsville writes in to criticize us for suggesting that you keep your hat on in the theater. "I'm not a Bolshevik," the letter writer advises, so we'll have to apologize for having called the gentleman a Bolshevist. But is he an anarchist, that is the question.

Prof. Milton D. Crandall, the humanitarian, is bringing 1,000 turtles to town for the Turtle Derby. Prof. Crandall is the gentleman who invented marathon dancers, bicycling blondes and pet shows.

"I have always been a great admirer of the turtle," the Professor announced, "purely, of course, from the scientific standpoint. There is one thing you can say for the turtle—it has never sung 'Sonny Boy.' Find me a turtle that has sung 'Sonny Boy' and I'll prove it's not a turtle. This latest contribution of mine is purely for scientific purposes. The turtle has never been developed properly scientifically, and I propose to encourage that development. I do not know what the results will be, but I am confident that science will benefit."

Oratory and Music On Settlement List

A program of unusual activity is scheduled for this week at the Irene Kaufmann Settlement where an oratorical contest, debate and boys' tournament will be staged. The contest for those in the intermediate and senior groups will be held Tuesday night. On Thursday night Fred Colber, pianist and lecturer, will speak on the appreciation of music. A musical festival is to be held next Sunday in which Elias Breeskin, Mrs. Frank Wertheimer and Mrs. Theresa Pergament will take part.

WHITE HOUSE GANG

President Reprimands Boys Because of Pranks

Theodc Roosevelt, when President of the United States, started the venturous, rollicking, joyous career of the White House Gang by sending his youngest son, Quentin, to the Force Public School in Washington. Here the gang was recruited. The accredited members are Charles (Taffy) Taft, "Brom" Seeley, Dick (Sailor) Chew, Edward (Slats) Stead, also called "Bedstead," Walk White, "T. R.," the most active member of the gang; Quent the leader, and Earle Looker, the author of this story.

Each day after school, the gang went into a huddle to confound all rules of deportment in high places, mingle in the lives of presidents and policemen, win victories, taste honor, suffer punishments and engage in escapades which were swept along the wires to national publicity. Many exploits of the gang, however, either remain unknown or were known only to the President and Mrs. Roosevelt. Some there were securely hidden even from them.

CHAPTER XVII.

A FIGURE was silhouetted against the sky—just where the wooden ball was dropped, down along the flagpole, by which downtown Washington set their watches, every noontide. The figure began to wigwag, a colored signal flag fluttering at the end of each arm.

"I'll spell the message out for you," the aide said helpfully.

Slowly, carefully, as if in full appreciation of the importance of the message it bore, "Y-O-U U-N-D-E-R T-R-E-E-S," pause, "ALL OF YOU," pause. Then rapidly, "A-T-A-C-K O-N T-H-I-S B-U-I-L-D-I-N-G M-U-S-T I-M-M-E-D-I-A-T-E-L-Y C-E-A-S-E H-A-L-T S-T-O-P," pause, "C-L-E-R-K-S C-A-N-N-O-T W-O-R-K," pause, "G-O-V-E-R-N-M-E-N-T B-U-S-I-N-E-S-S I-N-T-E-R-R-U-P-T-E-D," pause, "R-E-P-O-R-T W-I-T-H-O-U-T D-E-L-A-Y T-O M-E F-O-R Y-O-U K-N-O-W W-H-A-T." A longer and impressive pause followed, and then, "T-H-E-O-D-O-R-E R-O-O-S-E-V-E-L-T."

"I know for what, very well!" Q said amid the deadly silence which followed.

"Well—for what?" one of the Gang asked, with the recklessness born of his certainty of drastic punishment.

Q looked at him steadily, and with some contempt. "Do you imagine," he remarked, "that my father is going to take you out, and lick you?"

"N—no, not exactly," the uncertain one retracted. "But—"

Q laughed. "Oh," he said, "I thought you were feeling it away down inside—the way I do. . . ."

Notable Aide
Died a Hero in Ship Wreck

"The President is at his desk now, I think," the aide suggested quietly.

"Thanks for telling me," Q said briefly. "I know where to find him——"

The aide looked at us as any gentleman would look at a group of other gentlemen somewhat younger than himself, and refrained from further suggestions. It was one of the few moments, so gratefully remembered, when a full-grown man—other than TR—treated us with proper discrimination. The officer was Capt. Archibald Butt, U. S. Army, personal aide to the President, that gallant officer who, by the manner of his death, won as great distinction as if he had met it upon the field of battle. A passenger aboard the ill-fated Titanic, when she rammed an iceberg, April 14, 1912, he applied himself to a calm, heroic share in the protection and aid, given to the women and children and perished with honor, as chivalrously as he had lived. Beloved by his brother officers, especially of the White House staff, a gentleman, an intimate friend of TR, Archibald Butt lived in bachelor quarters at 17 H street. On one occasion, as he passed in full uniform on his way to the White House an old Negro was heard to say of him, "Dare goes de man, what de mightiest wid de mighty, an' lowest wid de lowly, of any man in dis city."

Prayers Needed
Quentin Confesses to His Father

Today, Archibald Butt's spirit seems to be very near to the spot where he talked with us, under the trees; for not 200 yards south—just beyond the picket-fence of the White House garden—is the fountain erected to his memory and to that of his friend, Francis Davis Millet, the painter, who went down to death with him, on the sloping deck of the Titanic.

"Well, goodby, boys," he said to us, and walked away.

"Olive oil (au revoir)!" called Q, in terms of equality, thereby somewhat restoring the shaken morale of the Gang. "Without delay, means without delay, with father," said Q, presently. And the Gang formed itself as a detachment of prisoners, hemmed about by the invisible, yet concrete necessity of obedience to the President of the United States. Some of the "others in authority" wished fervently, it were Sunday, with assembled congregations praying for them. Urgent, special prayers were needed right then. . . .

"Whose idea was it?" TR asked, with slow, deliberate gravity such as we had never seen before.

"Which idea?" Q asked quickly. "If you mean the mirrors, it was mine—"

"What other ideas have you in mind, Quentin Roosevelt?" asked TR formally.

"Oh, the idea of going over to the State-War-Navy Building, for instance," Q explained.

"Whose idea was that?" pursued TR, relentlessly.

"Mine," Q admitted briefly.

Boys Impressed
TR Takes Share in Their Affairs

"Well, there's the idea of their laughing at us," Q said, elaborating with a complete story of the incident, which had made him so angry.

We were deeply impressed by the President's serious reception of Quentin's narrative. Here, again, TR was taking a definite share in our personal affairs; and the impression conveyed was, in a way, comparable to the clear, sharp contact of a die, upon the smooth surface of a softer metal.

But to ascribe merely the force of a stamping-mill to TR, would be more than unfair to him; it would be a gross libel. The force was there, certainly—the strength, the power. But its effectiveness was best demonstrated when it moved with a quiet, smooth, almost hydraulic irresistibility. It was thus that he dealt with Q and the Gang.

That TR should have chosen to have that message wigwagged to us from the top of the State-War-Navy Building, did not overly disturb us, because, even in his reprimands, he was quite unusual. And this was because he considered deeply and logically and with such dispatch that the result appeared to be a matter of impulse. Like father like son, or—as we saw it—like son, like father; TR was simply a natural man without inhibitions or holdbacks; Q was a natural boy, without the restraints of unimportant information; and so both were, indeed and of a truth, most unusual.

Consequently, when TR heard of the State-War-Navy trouble,

Pittsburgh Woman Shows Rare Chinese Collection

By PENELOPE REDD

A collection of Chinese objects, gathered by Mrs. T. J. Worthman of North Linden avenue during a prolonged residence in China, is unusual in that Mrs. Worthman has exercised an active curiosity in assembling seldom seen intimate, decorative objects.

Penelope Redd

Her courtesy to her husband's Chinese assistant, resulted in the employe's father sending her a pair of modern Cloisonne vases. Her note of thanks was answered by the gift of a gold-painted fan 200 years old. Her gratitude for the rare fan was acknowledged by a pair of snuff bottles 400 years old. And so the series ended.

FLOWER CAGE

Mrs. Worthman has exquisite conceits, such as a finely carved ivory drinking cup for a pet lark, and a silver filigree cage for a lady's jasmine flower.

On the side of the superb, Mrs. Worthman has objects such as one finds illustrated as museum pieces in the standard works on Chinese art. Out of this group may be mentioned a rare pair of Kintercheng wedding lamps of porcelain, with panels depicting amorous scenes.

Another rare item is a bronze Buddha-Lamist temple set, dating from 1644, which includes an incense burner and sacrificial wine vessels with elephants cleverly adapted to both the use and the embellishment of the design.

The textiles are varied in kind. The K'ossu work from Soo Chow is probably the parent of modern transparent tapestry. Actually it is a mosaic textile, because the background is first woven and the designs are inlaid with eye-defying stitches. The Peiping stitch of minute French Knots adorns alike the imperial yellows and the cover for a bride's mirror.

RARE PORCELAIN

All the spontaneous beings of earth as birds, beasts, trees, blossoms and happy children, are found in infinite numbers scampering about porcelains or frisking in the celestial gardens of the silken textiles.

Mrs. Worthman's portrait of a Chinese beauty of the old regime is obviously an imitation of the occidental style of portraiture. Against a robin's egg blue background, the woman in a peach-colored coat with patricianly long figner nails, smiles secretively at the observer—a Chinese "Mona Lisa."

Pittsburgh, Vandergrift War Heroes Cited

WASHINGTON, March 24.—The War Department today announced the award of a posthumos citation for gallantry in action to John Lotto, private first class in Company L, One Hundred and Ninth Infantry, son of Paul Lotto, of 314 Wabash avenue, Pittsburgh.

The department states:

"Private Lotto was a member of a detachment consisting of two automatic rifle squads that was holding a position north of the bridgehead in the town of Fismette. During the severe enemy artillery bombardment of their position, the members of the detachment were buried under falling buildings on three different occasions, but each time they were able to rescue one another, salvage their guns and continue to hold the position.

Another citation for gallantry was issued to John M. Stitzinger, of Vandergrift, Pa., saying:

"While on observation duty Private Stitzinger observed a moving figure about 120 yards in front of our lines, which he believed to be an American soldier. Leaving his post, Private Stitzinger crawled out to the position and rescued a private of Company C, One Hundred and Eleventh Infantry, who had been a prisoner in a shell hole within the German lines for seven days."

DROP PICNIC AT DORMONT

Plans for a huge community picnic for Dormont during the summer have hit the rocks and have been abandoned by those sponsoring the movement.

The decision was reached when the municipal affairs committee of the Dormont chamber of commerce reported that the school board refused to assume any portion of the responsibility attendant to the project, unless the affair was held within the boundaries of the community. Unwilling to shoulder the entire responsibility for a project of this magnitude the chamber voted to drop any further consideration of the subject.

Community Builder West View Speaker

H. B. McNeal, of the Community Builders' Association of Western Pennsylvania, will speak tonight at a meeting of the West View Board of Trade. The meeting will be held in the auditorium of Junior High School.

QUIZ ENTRANTS FOR GOVERNOR

F. N. Brewer, president of the Pennsylvania Elections Association, has forwarded to all candidates for governor in the May primary an inquiry as their attitude toward proposed laws to improve the elections.

Major measures would provide for permanent registration in larger cities; repeal of the tax qualifications for voting; prevent a ballot purposely made too large for voting machines by listing numerous "dummy" candidates; stricter check-up on voters claiming assistance in the polling place.

IMPROVED AIR AIDS HEALTH

Improvements in health conditions today were said by Dr. C. B. Maits, director of public health department, to have resulted from improved air conditions in the city.

Citing the Mellon Institute of Industrial Research report of a reduction in smoke and dirt, Dr. Mait said the improvement undoubtedly has brought about the decrease shown this season in pneumonia cases, not associated with influenza. The improvement was partly laid to the increased force of inspectors in the Bureau of Smoke Regulation.

POLICE FLAG TRAIN, TAKE SUSPECTS

Prisoners Charged With Many Holdups in City; Man Shot Resisting Thugs

City detectives today claimed that they had under arrest three gangs of young stickup bandits who had confessed more than 100 holdups and thefts of autos.

There were three in each gang, the sleuths reported. One gang was arrested by state police from the Greensburg Barracks on an east-bound Pennsylvania Railroad train, another was taken in Crafton and a third in the Grand Hotel, Fourth avenue.

ARRESTED IN HOTEL

Patrolman Jack Keenan was credited with the arrest of the three in the hotel. He said he was walking through a hallway when he saw a young man shaving with a new shaving outfit in a room. This and the general appearance of things excited his suspicion.

Precinct Detective William Harris identified these three as those who had held up him and other customers in the Mayflower drug store, 4827 Penn avenue, recently. They are registered as Theodore Keisler, 20, of Hanger street; Fred Dumburg, 18, of 111 Overhill street; Harry Logan, 18, of Becks Run road. In Morals Court Logan admitted to 20 holdups and thefts of autos in East End and Oakland.

CONFESS 40 JOBS

Lieut. Edward O'Rourke predicted that the three arrested on the train would be implicated in 100 "jobs." He said they have already admitted 40. They are on the police books as Elmer Winters, 19; Robert Casey, 22, and William Spingler, 21, of Pittsburgh. Detectives said they had five revolvers when arrested.

Detectives Pat Tully and Harry Williams said that the three arrested in Crafton had confessed 60 holdups and thefts of autos. They are listed as Robert Diamond, 22; James Schaffer, 23, and James Hershman, 25, all of Woodville avenue.

All of these prisoners are being held while detectives try to round up the victims of recent holdups for identification purposes.

GET $1,200 IN STORE

Three bandits entered the clothing store of Sol Mintz, 410-12 Federal street, and backed seven clerks and 14 customers into a rear room. The thugs escaped with $1,200 after forcing Mintz to open the safe.

Frank Lester, 53, of 513 Washington street, Steubenville, O., was in Mercy Hospital with a bullet wound in his groin, a victim of three Negro bandits who attempted to rob him in front of an apartment house at 2039 Fifth avenue, early yesterday, he told police. Lester was shot, he said, when he resisted the highwaymen.

VICTIM HURLED THROUGH CAR'S WINDSHIELD

Woman Painfully Cut in Triple Crash on Crowded Beechview Thoroughfare

James McMahon, 46, of 526 Foreland street, was killed and W. J. Steele 44, of Evergreen road, seriously injured when an automobile in which they were riding crashed into a pole in East street, near Gould street, last night.

Steele, police said, was driving North in East street, when he apparently lost control of the machine. McMahon was hurled through the windshield. He was pronounced dead upon arrival at the Allegheny General Hospital. Steele suffered a fracture of the skull.

TRIPLE COLLISION

Sunday motorists witnessed an unusual automobile accident on the Liberty bridge when three machines collided late yesterday, injuring Mrs. Ida V. Downs, 40, of 15 Arion street. She was removed to the Mercy Hospital, severely cut on the face.

In exceptionally heavy traffic, Frank Robeson, of 1620 Broadway avenue, Beechview, police say, stopped his machine suddenly. The Downs car, driven by Joseph Downs, husband of the injured woman, struck Robeson's car. Both cars were damaged. The third machine was struck by Robeson's car by the force of the crash.

STRUCK BY AUTO

Struck by an automobile when she alighted from a street car at West Liberty avenue and Park boulevard, Dormont, Miss Bessie Markowitz, 20, of 1434 Walnut street, McKeesport, was slightly bruised. George Smith, of Powers Run, Fayette County, was not arrested by police, who say the woman stepped outside the safety zone into the path of the machine.

Jack Earney 6, of 1224 Arkansas avenue, Dormont, suffered body bruises when hit by the automobile of H. C. McKelvey, of 1315 Arkansas avenue, at Potomac and Espy avenues, Dormont, yesterday. The driver was not arrested.

2 HELD IN BOY'S 40-FOOT FALL

Two boys detained by the Munhall police will be questioned today as to their connection with the serious injuries of Walter Zogram, 17, of 123 Plum way, Homestead, who is in the Homestead Hospital, unconscious since yesterday, suffering head and body injuries.

According to the police, Zogram fell 40 feet down a cliff from the Homestead High School athletic field, West Run County road, Munhall.

Conflicting stories are being investigated by the police. Several people reported that the injured boy was standing too close to the edge of the cliff and fell over. Others said that he was pushed off by the two youths, John Tomko, 17, of 214 Fourteenth avenue, Homestead, and Joseph Orris, 17, of 232 Fourteenth avenue, Homestead.

TAXATION MEET COUNCILLORS APPOINTED

Main and Rosenbaum to Head Pittsburgh Delegation at Conference in Harrisburg

Frank W. Main and Walter Rosenbaum, representing the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce and the Retail Merchants' Association, respectively, will act as councillors at the Pennsylvania conference on local taxation, opening in Harrisburg, Thursday. Both men were appointed at the request of the State Chamber of Commerce.

The Harrisburg meeting was called to afford an opportunity for exchange of views between taxpayers and representatives of public spending agencies. Aside from probing tax conditions, the conference will suggest methods for holding in check the rising costs of local government.

Others from Pittsburgh who will attend include Frederick Marshall and Dr. Marion H. McKay, of the Chamber of Commerce; E. F. Daume and members of the taxation committee of the Real Estate Board, and William H. Hesselbarth and H. S. Hershberger, of the West End Board of Trade.

Dr. McKay and John L. Glenn, comptroller of the Pittsburgh Coal Company, will be speakers. All sessions of the conference will be staged at the Penn-Harris Hotel. E. J. Poole, vice president of the State Chamber of Commerce, will preside.

RESUME WORK ON CATHEDRAL

Work on the Cathedral of Learning, halted on February 27 by a strike of the hoisting engineers, has been resumed, and is now being vigorously pushed.

The strike did not originate here, but was ordered by the Hoisting Engineers' Union to apply to all Stone and Webster construction projects throughout the country in sympathy with a walkout of the engineers on a Stone and Webster project at Hartford, Conn.

Since the date of settlement of the strike building has gone forward rapidly. Stone is arriving for the structure at the rate of two and three carloads a day, and about 800 cubic feet are being set each day. Other work on the structure is being continued at a fair rate.

The Camera Question Box

The Sun-Telegraph's "Camera Question Box" each day will ask a question of public interest to Pittsburghers and will photograph those interviewed.

Today's question: A reader who believes that the mayor of Pittsburgh has little official business that necessitates the use of an automobile asks, "Why should the taxpayers provide him with an automobile?" What is your opinion of this custom?

V. BURNETTI, North Side, waiter: "Well, I don't think he could afford to buy one himself, so we might as well give him one. He needs an up-to-date car for his official use."

V. Burnetti

NETTIE MESSER, McKeesport, Secretary: "No, I don't think we should give him an automobile. Of course, if he would use it only for official purposes, it would be all right. But for personal uses, it would be all wrong."

Miss Messer

H. J. TYLER, Brushton: "I guess he has enough use for it. All officials of other cities hav them. If he didn't get it, some of the other officials would grab the money."

H. J. Tyler

ELLEN MARSHALL, Cheswick, bookkeeper: "No, sir, he shouldn't have a car bought for him by the city. He gets his wages the same as any other man and he ought to be able to buy himself a car. Very few people have cars furnished for their business purposes even."

Miss Marshall

MARCELLA DEVERSON, Brookline, Secretary: "A man in his position has every need for an automobile. It seems to be the custom for the people to buy their mayors and other high officials cars, so why should we balk at supplying one for Mayor Kline?"

Miss Deverson

HAZEL MILLER, Keystone Athletic Association, manicurist: "For official purposes, yes. But I don't think everybody should have the use of it for their pleasure, just because they're his friends and he may be elsewhere. A lot of hangers-on would probably like to ride around in the Mayor's car."

BRIDGE DEATH MYSTIFIES CORONERS

North Side Man's Crushed Body Found in Woods Run Underneath High Span

Deputy coroners today were endeavoring to clear up the mystery surrounding the death of Matto Vuksic, alias Mike Byschick, 29, North Side laborer, who was found dead Sunday morning at Eckert street and McClure avenue, Woods Run. At the county morgue where an autopsy was performed, it was stated the man's body was broken as though he had been struck by an automobile, fallen from a great height or beaten severely.

Mary Vuksic or Byschick, his wife, told police she had retired with her husband at midnight in their home at 6 Ketchum street. When she awakened at the usual time she discovered her husband was not in bed. A short time later police notified her that he had been found dead.

The man's body was found beneath a bridge and there is a possibility that he fell or leaped from the span. There is also the possibility that he may have been hit by a machine. Mrs. Vuksic told police her husband had been very nervous for several days on account of bad teeth, and that being unable to sleep, he may have taken a walk.

5 HELD IN FOOD PLANT ROBBERY

Accused of the theft of 60 pounds of macaroni, three gallons of tomato sauce, five boxes of noodles and electrical supplies, five Glendale youths today were in the Allegheny County jail pending further hearings before Justice of the Peace A. W. McMillen, of Carnegie.

They said they were Stanley Sadowski, 21, Thomas Byron, 20, Robert Nutbrown, 21; John Glowork, 19, and John Gavey, 19.

The loot was stolen from the Viano Macaroni Factory at Fort Pitt, according to Police Chief Christ W. Keisling, of Carnegie, who, with Lieut. Harry Keisling and Motorcycle Officer Fred Mathias, arrested the quintet.

Second Victim Dies After Fire in Hotel

The second death due to the fire in the Kirkwood Hotel, East End, last week, was reported to coroners yesterday. Thomas Andrews, 62, of 465 Center avenue, Verona, died in the Pittsburgh Hospital from burns of the body. Arthur N. Young, 54, of Elmer street and Negley avenue, died Thursday.

The men had engaged a room at the hotel. From an unknown cause the curtains caught fire. The blaze spread and before they could leave the room they were fatally burned. Several other guests were routed.

Spirit Plea Fails, Pastor Held In Larceny

"She wanted me to get the spirits to kill her husband, who has a $5,000 life insurance policy," the Rev. E. D. Davis, 34, of 632 Chauncey street, Negro, told Magistrate Thomas D. Jones in Morals Court today when arraigned on complaint of Mrs. Eleanor Harris, of 413 Washington street, Versailles, Negro, that he had appropriated $118 of her money.

Denying that he had taken the money, the Rev. Davis said that Mrs. Harris asked the spirits' aid in "doing away with" her spouse. He refused to have anything to do with her request, believing her a policewoman, he told the court. After the recital Magistrate Jones held the Rev. Davis on a larceny charge.

President of National Association Will Talk on Costs; Experts Expected

Details of hospital work in its relation to the community and the development of an intelligent state policy in making appropriations to the institutions, will be discussed at the ninth annual conference of the Hospital Association of Pennsylvania which opens tomorrow in the William Penn Hotel. The convention will close Thursday night.

Prominent physicians and experts are scheduled to speak at the many sessions. Hospital costs also will be discussed by Dr. Christopher G. Parnall, president of the American Hospital Association and superintendent of the Rochester (N. Y.) General Hospital. He will speak Thursday morning.

Mayor Charles H. Kline is expected to welcome the delegates tomorrow morning and S. D. Hunter, president of the Pittsburgh Hospital Conference will respond. The relation of the hospitals to newspapers will be the theme of an address to be delivered by Oliver J. Keller, news-newspaper publisher.

Wednesday night the association banquet will be held. Wednesday afternoon the election of officers will be conducted.

HOME BURNED, WOMAN HURT

A woman was injured as two families fled to the street from a fire in their frame duplex at 112-14 Miller street, Rankin, early today.

Mrs. Otis Jones, Negro, received a sprained leg when she fell down the steps while trying to carry out personal belongings. Her husband and three other members of the family safely reached the streets.

The fire started in the home of Marcellini Mondo, who escaped with his wife and three children. Jones, awakened by the smoke, aroused the sleepers.

The Mondo home was destroyed, and the Jones side of the duplex was damaged slightly. Damage was estimated at $3,000 by Assistant Fire Chief Hubert McKay.

BLAMES IN MANY JOBS

Detectives today expressed belief that the same bandit trio was responsible for holdups of Gammon's restaurant at 208-10 North Highland avenue, Book's Shoe Store, at 1213 Beaver avenue; the Kelly Motor Company station, at Murtland avenue and Kelly street; Sable's barbecue, Washington boulevard; Alfred Soisson, of 7241½ Kedron street; August Mottlau, of 7621 Waverly street, Joseph Gallagher, of Wilkinsburg, and Frank Dunsfoor, of 127 Richey avenue, which netted the robbers jewelry and cash amounting to $1,300, detectives reported.

North Side police today were holding nine men in connection with a series of store robberies in that district within the last few months, they reported.

The men, docketed on suspicious person charges, according to police, are: Steve Waters, 24, of 1011 Grand avenue; James Feuer, 22, of 327 Central avenue; Andrew Kulpka, 17, and his two brothers, George, 19, and John, 22, of 3017 Chotta street; Edward Sykula, 20, of 3166 McClure avenue; Paul Glivecki, 19, of 3261 McClure avenue; George Smith, 22, of 2926 Shadeland avenue, and Lawrence Schwartz, 24, of 2926 Preble avenue.

Five men accused of beating and robbing John Paschel, 40, of 97 Amanda street, Saturday night, were fined $25 each at a hearing before Magistrate John J. Sweeney in the South Side Police Court yesterday. 8 DIE IN CRASH AT CROSSING

AUBURN, N. Y., March 24.—(AP.)—Four youths and four girls were killed near here last night in a grade crossing crash. A gasoline coach on the Auburn line of the New York Central Railroad, running at high speed, struck the small sedan in which the young folk were traveling, hurled it against a house 50 feet away, and scattered the bodies 300 feet along the tracks.

The bodies were so badly mutilated identification was difficult. Hours after the accident the four men only had been identified, through papers in their pockets. They were: Earl J. Besaw, of Syracuse; Frank Straus, believed from Syracuse; Edward Cheldren, of Syracuse, and Darius Auletta, of Syracuse.

The accident happened at Shoemaker Crossing, about five miles West of Auburn.

HARRIS TO ACT ON CROSSINGS

Increased grade crossing accidents and 9,749 crossings unprotected were cited today by Senator Frank J. Harris as necessitating action at the next Legislative session to remedy the situation.

Senator Harris plans a conference to gain recommendations in preparing a bill to correct the condition. Pointing out public-spirited citizens will indorse such a movement, he stressed the need for action by quoting that 2,625 persons were killed and 8,270 injured in Pennsylvania since establishment of the Public Service Commision system of records in 1913. Of 12,000 railroad grade crossings, 18 per cent or 2,272 are protected, he said.

INCOME TAXES SHOW DECLINE

WASHINGTON, March 24.—The Treasury said today that income tax collections as of March 21, amounted to $31,372,280, a drop of $15,955,861 as compared to the same day last year.

Total collections for the month also showed a drop for the same number of days in March 1929.

For the first 21 days of the present month the collections have totaled $491,700,996, while in March, 1929, the collections aggregated $526,088,827, making a decrease of $34,000,000.

The Treasury statement showed, however, that on March 21 there was a surplus of $105,869,734, while on the same day a year ago the surplus amounted to only $3,438,520. Income tax collections for the fiscal year starting last July 1 showed an increase of $133,000,000 over the similar period of the fiscal year, totaling $1,744,335,138.

Total receipts of the Government this fiscal year also were larger than last year, aggregating $2,939,038,034, as compared with $2,804,442,598 last year.

Expenditures were slightly larger than last year, amounting to $2,833,168,299 this year, as compared to $2,801,004,077.

Choir Girls in Air Circus For Church Centennial

NEW YORK, March 24.—(AP.)—St. James' Methodist Episcopal Church, in Madison avenue, will celebrate its one hundredth birthday with a five-day "aerial offertory," its pastor, the Rev. George Machin Stockdale, announced.

The "aerial offertory" will take place at New York Airport, Flushing, from April 2 to April 27, and the program will include stunt flying, wing walking and parachute jumping. Eight girls, members of the choir, will be among the jumpers. The last day of the "offertory" being a Sunday, services may be held in a hangar at the field, the Rev. Mr. Stockdale said.

He said he hoped to raise money for church work through automobile parking, field admissions and concessions.

"I realize," he asserted, "that I am undertaking a daring innovation. I hope it is daring enough to startle the world. I hope that the airport will be black with people on that Sunday afternoon. For this is the Lord's work and Sunday is the day to engage in work for the Lord. St. James' needs money and we will get it if I have to jump from a plane myself."

D. P. THOMPSON DIES IN SOUTH

Mr. Thompson died at 4:40 a. m. His divorced wife, Mrs. Victor Beaufort, and her husband, Maj. Beaufort, and H. R. Deholl, of East Chicago, Ind., were at the bedside. A son, Alexis Thompson, was in the hotel, but did not reach his father's room before his passing.

Mr. Thompson was stricken with pneumonia in a hotel a week ago. Oxygen was administered at intervals, and more was on the way to Miami for him today.

FRAIL STRAPS HANG FIRMLY TO THE NEW EVENING MODE

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, March 24.—Straphangers of the mode are those full, billowy frocks that seem to be almost too much for the narrow, frail strap, often of brilliants, that seems to shoulder its responsibility quite lightly. We say "strap," advisedly for, this season, we have seen quite a number of frocks depending on one strap to keep them going. The brilliant note in the form of strass straps and embellishments is maintained in dresses created for wear this spring. A soft blousing or draping at the waistline often marks the silhouette of the newer models. Tiers and flared flounces are used for skirts that are either softly clinging, or crisply bouffant. Intricate details take the place of elaborate trimmings, and lend ever so much more charm and interest to the frock. For the clinging vine type of gown, georgette, satin and crepe morocain is used, while the models with fuller skirts are developed in taffeta and faille. This latter material lends itself particularly to the gracious type of frock that is so often the choice of the more mature woman, who realizes the true charm of her especial type.

IN THE new Worth collection is a very smart afternoon ensemble called "Papillon." Consisting of a coat and skirt in heavy black wool veiling, it is completed by a white georgette blouse with pin tucks as trimming and elbow length sleeves. The edges of the coat and skirt are cut in deep points and draped in circular folds, each fold or godet having its own point. The collar is of white fox.

BISHOP SHIPMAN DIES SUDDENLY

NEW YORK, March 24.—(AP)—The Rt. Rev. Herbert Shipman, Episcopal suffragan bishop of New York, and a veteran of the World War, died suddenly yesterday at the dinner table in his home of a heart ailment. He was 60 years old.

As chaplain of the Twenty-Seventh Division during the war, he lost an eye and was gassed. Four years ago he suffered a nervous breakdown, but recently had been considered in better health.

At the Chapel of the Intercession yesterday he confirmed 120 persons. He returned home apparently in good health.

Mrs. Shipman, socially prominent, and daughter of Edson Bradley of Washington and New York, collapsed. Mrs. Shipman is the owner of Seaview Terrace, one of the finest residences in Newport, R. I.

Bishop Shipman, a native of Lexington, Ky., was educated at Columbia College and General Theological Seminary. He was chaplain at West Point for a time and from 1907 to 1921 was rector of the Church of the Heavenly Rest here. He had been a bishop for nearly nine years.

"Phyllis was constipated several years ago and I gave her California Fig Syrup. It helped her so wonderfully that I have used it ever since for all her upsets or colds. It has kept her strong, energetic, rugged."

Children suffer when bowels aren't regular. Breath becomes fetid; tongue coated; eyes dull. When these symptoms are neglected, biliousness, feverishness, lack of appetite invariably follow.

Real Test of Hartnett.

GABBY MAY MEAN SECOND CUB FLAG

ASIDE from the line that it will furnish on the 1930 possibilities of the Pirates in their reconstructed state, the four-game series to be opened by the Pittsburgh and Chicago ball clubs in Los Angeles next Thursday will have another interesting angle in the fact that it probably will show just what the Cubs may expect of Catcher Gabby Hartnett in his attempted come back this year. It will be Hartnett's first test against major league opposition, the only kind of test that really tells anything.

Gabby Hartnett

Gabby was rendered a total loss to the Cubs as a backstop last season by a crippled throwing arm, being able to catch in only one game, and that when there was nothing at stake. He was used as a pinch-hitter in 24 other games, but his idleness affected his work even there, as attested by a batting average of only .273 against a mark of .302 in 1928. The peppery backstop is said to have recovered the use of his whip this spring on the strength of the fact that he has caught 81 innings in camp games and contests with minor league teams. That's all well enough as far as it goes, but Gabby's arm will not actually be tested until he is called upon to hold major league base runners in check.

ONE man's services may mean a great deal even to a club that has already won a pennant without him. That applies to the case of Hartnett and the Chicago team. The fact that the Bruins were able to go through to a flag victory last year while lacking the services of their star catcher was convincing evidence of their strength in other departments.

Already the club has been bolstered by the acquisition of Lester Bell for third base so it will be seen that if it is further braced by the return of Hartnett to regular active duty behind the bat, beating it out for the pennant will be a mighty tough job for any rival. In addition to his catching class and hitting ability, Gabby's spirit is a tremendous asset. Should the Pirate series prove that he is again in working order after a year on the shelf, the Cubs will go to the post three weeks from tomorrow much stronger favorites than they are at present.

WHEN baseball's remarkable veterans are being discussed old Rube Benton must not be overlooked. The venerable southpaw is in his forty-second year and has been pitching 22 seasons, but he's still carrying on for Minneapolis in the American Association. When the Millers were ordered to Hot Springs, Ark., to start spring training recently, Rube was the first player to report to Manager Mike Kelly.

Rube Benton

Far from weakening with the passing of the years, Benton appears actually to improve with age. In his first season with Minneapolis, 1926, he won 12 games. The following year he won 18. In 1928 he dropped to 15 victories, but last year he surpassed all of his previous marks by turning in 20 wins against 14 defeats. Polli and Betts, of St. Paul, were the only hurlers in the league to win more games and neither equaled Rube's earned run mark of 3.69.

MORE than 14 years ago, Benton was an active and victorious Pirate pitcher for one day, but it didn't count. Pittsburgh bought him from Cincinnati in August, 1915, for $4,000, but League President John K. Tener ruled that he belonged to the Giants under a prior option. The Bucs pitched him anyhow and put it up to the league board of directors. Benton faced the Cubs at Forbes Field on August 17 and beat Bert Humphries in a pitchers' battle, 3 to 2, driving in the winning run himself with a clean single. The directors ordered the game thrown out and awarded Rube to New York. When the game was played over Babe Adams defeated Jimmy Lavender, 2 to 1, in 12 innings. Benton helped the Giants win the pennant in 1917 and shut out Eddie Cicotte and the White Sox in the third game of the world series, 2 to 0.

IF YOU can pick the winner of a return fight scheduled for April 1 in Los Angeles you've got something on the coast fans who witnessed the first engagement. For no bout ever staged out there left the spectators more hopelessly up in the air on the question of superiority. It was a battle for the story books.

Men who have viewed fights all over the world say they never saw such an ending. The principals were Armand Santiago, Cuban, and Billy Townsend, of Seattle. After 18 minutes of thrilling and sensational battling, both men collapsed on their stools at the end of the sixth round. It looked for all the world like that fistic rarity, a double knockout.

TOWNSEND, however, came to just in time to stagger toward the center of the ring and answer the bell for the seventh round. Shortly before the sixth ended he had been on the floor for the count of nine. Santiago was unable to come up for the seventh and Townsend, hardly able to stand, got the verdict.

Now they're to meet again to fight it out, and the Olympic Club could sell the space in the rafters. Santiago, the loser in the first bout, was introduced from the ring at another show the other night and received the greatest ovation ever given to any fighter in Los Angeles with the single exception of Jack Dempsey.

David Lowen

PERHAPS you wouldn't think that anybody could become so addicted to horseshoe pitching as to vow never to give it up, but there's an instance of that very thing out on the Pacific coast. And instead of merely one such devotee there are four. They are the surviving members of the Last Man Horseshoe Club, of Los Angeles. The oldest is David Lowen, 87, and his buddies are H. W. Reed, 81, J. C. P. Westergard, 67, and William Bates, 63. The league was organized back in 1913 with 14 members, of whom 10 have died. Entering their eighteenth year of competition the four are pledged to continue the game until there remains but one. Upon the last man will fall the duty of enshrining the horseshoes of his comrades.

TOMMY GIBBONS is another veteran of the fight game who thinks Primo Carnera has possibilities. Tommy took advantage of a chance to watch Carnera in action recently and admits that he was favorably impressed. "Far be it from me to predict that Carnera ever will win the world championship," Gibbons said, "but he stands an excellent chance when one considers the class of the present-day heavyweights.

"Any fighter who has the size and can box a lick and hit fairly hard has a chance to win the title these days. I will say that Carnera handles himself surprisingly well for such a big fellow. He has possibilities, no doubt about that, and may punch his way to the championship. It is astonishing how fast and graceful the Italian is for a

CARVER TO SPEAK

"College Football and the Carnegie Foundation Report" is to be the subject of Jess Carver, college sports writer of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, in a talk before the Cornell Club of Western Pennsylvania next Friday. He is expected to tell of the football situation in American colleges from the viewpoint of the football writer rather than of the college professor. The occasion will be the regular weekly luncheon of the Cornell Club in the William Penn Hotel.

ST. JOSEPH'S LYCEUM HAS 2,823 TALLY

CLEVELAND, March 24.—St. Joseph's Lyceum, of Pittsburgh, set a fast pace for Western Pennsylvania district pinmen in the annual American Bowling Congress tournament here last night when they banged a 2,823 score to ring up a pay count, a feat no other Steel City team was able to accomplish. St. Joseph's had games of 902, 928 and 993 on the last squad.

The Muses, of Wheeling, W. Va., rolling on the first squad rolled a high total of 2,805, which was better than the other scores from the Pittsburgh district, led by the Elks, of Tarentum, who nicked the timber for 2,785, just inside the money.

HARRIS NO. 1 HIGH

Harris No. 1, of Pittsburgh, just failed landing in the money with its 2,724 tally, a poor opening game of 851 holding it back, for it returned games of 964 and 909 before it finished. Harris No. 2, of Tarentum, was well up with 2,635.

Other Pittsburgh district teams' scores were: Owls, of Braddock, 2,687; Wierthels, of Pittsburgh, 2,681; Fintex, 2,609; Votel's Stars, 2,571; Hornick's Colts, 2,569; Auditorium No. 2 A, 2,303, and Auditorium No. 2 B, 2,419.

CHICAGOANS LEAD

Chicago pinsters all but wrecked the standings, for they picked off three choice places in the doubles, one in the singles and three in the all-events.

St. Paul, Detroit and Muncie, Ind., were other cities to have their names go up on the boards as a result of the prowess of their bowlers. Three series of 1,300 were rolled in the doubles event, in which E. Matak and J. Mitchell, of St. Paul, hit the top with a total of 1,309.

They were threatened in the evening by the two Chicago pairs, but each of the latter fell just a little short, G. Geiser and J. Dellinger going to second place with 1,306 and R. Pekie and G. Notz rolling third with 1,304. A. Hein and A. Carlson, of Chicago, mustered a 1,283 for fifth, and E. Sloan and T. Cornwall, of Muncie, made eighth with 1,264.

J. Reese, of Detroit, proved the best singles shooter of the day as his series of 684 put him into seventh.

Nick Altrock Says:

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., March 24.—We are zigzagging all over the South like the lost battalion. If you like to sleep in a hammock and undress in a refrigerator, you would love traveling on an expedition tour with a ball club.

Nick Altrock

Personally I would rather spend the night in a bar room than three weeks in a Pullman car. I would even take five nights in a bar room. On this year's tour I have a private apartment on the top shelf of an upper berth and when I get out of it in the morning it is just as simple as being rescued by a hook and ladder truck.

I tell you there is no place like home, even if you are behind in the rent.

EXPLANATIONS FOR SATURDAY'S RIPLEY CARTOONS: A FLY WEIGHS MORE ON SIX LEGS THAN ON FOUR—Weight as a force is the result of gravity and is equal to the pressure which a body exerts upon the obstacle which keeps it suspended. The action of gravity varies in proportion to the distance from the center of the earth. The weight of a body will vary in the same manner, and, as a result, a fly will weigh more when it stands on six legs than when it stands on four. The French physicist, Saussure, has conducted some very delicate experiments bearing on the infinitesimal changes in weights of insects due to their posture. He incorporated his findings in his "Monograph on Gravity and Weight." THE 38½-FOOT CUBE OF GOLD—Of the cumulative world production of gold since 1492, monetary stocks now comprise 467,000,000 ounces, while 536,563,329 ounces represent the gold lost or absorbed in other monetary uses. This statement is made by the United States Bureau of Mines, as a result of its recent study on the subject.

TOMORROW—A STRANGE PRIZE FIGHT.

FRENCH SLATED FOR MOUND DUTY

By CHARLES J. DOYLE,
Staff Correspondent.

OAKLAND, Cal., March 24.—Their schedule with the Seals and Missions completed, the big Pirate party is over on this side of San Francisco Bay today for the purpose of opening a three-game series with the Oakland Oaks. The first battle is set for this afternoon.

The long sojourn of the Buccos in San Francisco was a source of deep delight to Manager Ens. The run of good baseball weather was capped by a beautiful Sunday which saw the big leaguers and Seals in morning and afternoon games. The early contest was won by the home team, 2 to 1, the Pirates copping in the afternoon, 6 to 5.

The uninterrupted series at Recreation Park provided a real test for the Freebooters and while the results attained were nothing to brag about Ens was rejoicing on account of the weather that prevailed.

The Pirates won five of the eight games played with the Missions and Seals during the stay at Recreation Park. Three of the successes came in competition with Wade Killefer's club, the Seals breaking even with the Pirates in the four battles.

20,000 SEE SERIES

More than 20,000 native sons and daughters were out to see the Pittsburghers perform during the week. Although this total is not quite as heavy as had been established in previous meetings of the Coast leaguers and the Pirates, the aggregate was highly satisfying to the owners of both clubs. The nest egg will go a long way in the training expense of the Pittsburgh team.

Today saw the Buccos entering upon their last week of California preparation. After finishing with the Oaks Wednesday, the team will leave for Los Angeles, where it is due to face the hardest test of the long barnstorming jaunt now in progress. The Cub champions are to be met in four battles at the resort city. These games are set for the four days beginning Thursday. The Pirates are scheduled to begin the Eastward trek Sunday night.

Mack to Make Radio Debut Tonight

NEW YORK, March 24.—(AP.)—Connie Mack, manager of the pennant holding Philadelphia Athletics, will make his radio debut tonight. He will appear in a program to be devoted to baseball and is expected to discuss some of the season's prospects, together with Dewolfe Hopper, pioneer of the stage, who will recite "Casey at the Bat." He will be guest of the family party on W[illegible] and coast-to-coast N. B. C. chain. The orchestra is to play nine musical "innings" and Graham McNamee will recount famous plays and incidents of the national game.

KOSKI VICTOR IN MARATHON

NEW YORK, March 24.—(AP.)—Karl Koski, of the Finnish-American A. C., won the National A. A. U. marathon championship yesterday, covering the 26 miles, 385 yards in the extremely fast time of 2 hours 25 minutes 21 1-5 seconds.

The race was run on Staten Island. Koski went into the lead at the end of the fourteenth mile, gradually increased his margin and won by more than a mile from Jack O'Reilly, of the Gladstone A. C., Toronto. O'Reilly's time was 2:33:08. Matt Lamp, of the Millrose A. A., was third in 2:33:20 and John D. Stemple, Meadowbrook Club, Philadelphia, fourth, in 2:35:44.

DUNN BATTLES HEINE HART

With fingers crossed, the East End organization today awaited the zero hour when it will send Johnny Dunn, of New Kensington, and Heine Hart, of Allentown,

Neither Dunn nor Hart was on the original windup billing. Jackie Rodgers, local Negro featherweight knockout star, and Archie Bell, of New York, were to have been the principals. After the match was made Rodgers insisted on raising the weight stipulation in the contract and Bell withdrew. Hart then was signed to meet Rodgers, and last Saturday Rodgers pulled out with a lame ankle, necessitating the moving up of Dunn from a second

DE LA SALLE KEEPS TITLE

CHICAGO, March 24.—(AP.)—De La Salle's big blue team, built around Big Ed Krause, again rules the national Catholic High School basketball world. The husky Chicago five, fighting for its second consecutive national Catholic prep title at Loyola University, last night overcame a scrapping team from Jasper (Ind.) Academy, 25 to 14, with six feet four inches and 198 pounds of Ed Krause tossing in six field goals and keeping the battling Hoosiers constantly on the defensive, except for a short sketch in the final period.

SHARON-LEWISTOWN TILT HERE TOMORROW

WINNER PLAYS FOR STATE CROWN

By JESS CARVER.

For the second year in a row the W. P. I. A. L. is without representation in the final rounds of the P. I. A. A. basketball title play, a situation that does not exactly appear to be right. Tonight, at Philadelphia, Lower Merion and John Harris, of Harrisburg, meet in the eastern semi-final and tomorrow Sharon and Lewistown clash here in the Pitt Stadium in the western test.

When it is taken into consideration that the W. P. I. A. L., with its 130-odd schools, represents the biggest part of the P. I. A. A., and that its champion annually has to play through a season without losing more than one or two games, it would appear as though the W. P. I. A. L. leader should be advanced to the semi-finals of the state tourney without having to meet the northwestern district champ.

HAS IT SOFT.

The northwestern team, each year, whether it be Sharon or some other club, can actually play through its regular season and not win a ball game, enter the Grove City tourney, come out on top and get into the state semi-finals, while the W. P. I. A. L. entry, after playing through a harder schedule in its particular section of the league, must go through the strenuous league elimination tourney, a much tougher test than the Northwestern affair, and then, after all this struggling, get ready in a day or so to take on the comparatively fresh District 8 representative.

Like a one-card draw against a pat hand, it is at least something to think about.

HARK! HARK!

Last week, in this column, the news was broken ever so gently that Leo Houck, boxing coach at Penn State, was to take over the mentoring of the State freshmen baseballers at the close of the intercollegiate boxing season.

There was a deeper significance back of that crack than merely that the capable Leo was to work a bit harder. With the word a day or so later that Bob Higgins had been named head football coach, (exclusively in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph), ground for surmising that Burke M. (Dutch) Hermann, present freshmen football and baseball and varsity basketball coach, would be moved up to Higgins' assistantship, might be seen.

That is, in fact, about what will happen, and with Dutch advancing, either Joe Bedenk or Larry Conover will become freshmen coach.

The Tipoff

If it were not for running the risk of upsetting some plans that concern a very good friend, this column could tell all about the Lawther-Westminster fuss right this minute, and also name his successor. Braggin' again!

Dr. H. C. Carlson will speak at the sport dinner of the Ambridge Kiwanis Club tomorrow evening, delivering the principal address of the affair.

Red Ryan, titian-haired basketball star of Bob Thorn's Grove City teams for the past four years, gaped at the tall buildings of Pittsburgh on Saturday and strutted a mean hoof at a ball at the William Penn in the evening.

Artie (Uncle Bealfare) Hoffman, w. k. [illegible] athlete, will try his hand at the professional baseball racket again this summer. Uncle Bealfare is one of the few gents who'll draw a card to two pair.

Gabe O'Donovan credits young Fleming, Bethany's freshman basketball star, with having given him the toughest night he (Gabe) ever experienced when Westminster played Bethany at Bethany this year. Anyone capable of giving an O'Donovan a tough night deserves credit.

Joe Vero, Tom Walsh, Kid Beyer and Life Guard Kennedy gave each other a swimming party Saturday afternoon following the championship handball match between Frank Smith and Theos Manos at the K. A. C.

Leo Carroll, local referee, will take no back talk from any basketball player he may call a foul on. Leo called three technical fouls in the Duke Pharmacy-Philadelphia Pharmic game Saturday night. There is nothing sillier than to see a player, who has been detected fouling, try to argue with the man in white (or blue or pink or whatever the color may be). They ought to be penalized, and when Leo's working, they are.

M'EWAN TO HOLY CROSS

WORCESTER, Mass., March 24.—(AP.)—Capt. John J. McEwan, U. S. A., retired, has been appointed head football coach at Holy Cross, it has been announced.

NO. 4—HOW TO THROW A FAST BALL

I had to laugh. "Did you ever throw a straight ball?" I asked him.

"Oh, sure!"

But he hadn't. As a matter of fact, every ball curves a little bit, as I proved to him when he tried to throw a straight one.

"A fast ball," I explained, "is a ball that is thrown with full speed and one that takes a funny little hop at the plate. The fast ball thrown by an overhand pitcher raises a little. The side-arm pitcher's fast one hops sideways."

"Oh," he said, "like an inshoot."

"Yes," I replied, "the sandlot 'inshoot' is nothing but a fast ball."

"Well," Mac interrupted, "why don't you show him how to throw it?"

The picture shows the lesson. You grip the ball tightly, use your natural motion and let the ball go off the ends of the fingers. The "hop" comes from the wrist snap at the time the ball is delivered, and, naturally, the more wrist snap there is the greater the hop on the ball.

Whether you throw overhand, side-arm or underhand the grip is the same. The important thing is that you release the ball off the ends of the fingers. The fast ball rotates very rapidly and the spin you give it off the fingers gives it both speed and hop. That's why most pitchers grip their fast ball very tightly.

The most effective fast ball is one that rises or hops upward. And it's the most difficult to throw, too, because to make a ball rise you've got to go against gravity. Most pitchers in the big leagues have a fast ball that jumps sideways like that boyhood inshoot. Waite Hoyt is one of the few pitchers I know whose fast one rises. Lefty Grove has one like that, too, when he throws directly overhand.

The fast ball is the first thing that a young pitcher must develop. Get a fast ball and learn to control it—for the best fast one in the world isn't worth a dime without control. After you've mastered that, then it's time enough to start work on a curve ball.

WEDNESDAY—LESSONS IN BUNTING.

WOMAN SUES JACK KEARNS

LOS ANGELES, March 24.—(AP.)—Details of an alleged marriage of Jack Kearns, former manager of Jack Dempsey, former champion heavyweight pugilist, to Edith Angel, were revealed in an affidavit on file in Municipal Court last night.

The affidavit was filed in connection with the woman's suit for $2,000 against Kearns. In the original complaint, the woman, who also is known as Legana Kearns, bases her claim for the money upon an agreement in writing in which Kearns promised to pay her $500 a month until one or the other "should obtain a divorce."

The affidavit, made by the woman before a New York notary public March 10, declares she was married to Kearns August 4, 1921, in the office of Mayor Keeler, of Atlantic City, N. J., by "a man named Burns." After the wedding Kearns gave her a wedding ring and sent her to California, the affidavit continues. The woman said neither Mayor Keeler nor any person other than the three named were present at the wedding.

NO MARRIAGE RECORD

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., March 24.—(AP.)—Surprise was expressed here on the information set forth in the affidavit made in Los Angeles by Edith Angel in which she declared she married Jack Kearns here on August 4, 1921.

At the time of the purported marriage, the late Edward L. Bader was mayor. No one by the name of "Burns" who could perform a marriage ceremony was recalled in city hall. The Woman's affidavit said they had been married by a man named "Burns." Alfred T. Glenn, registrar of vital statistics, said he had examined his books for a record of the marriage, but found none. All licenses must be issued through Glenn's office.

"RUNOUT" IS CHARGED.

It is announced that the winner of tonight's battle will meet Rodgers at a later date, but that is problematical. Ugly rumors have been going the rounds that Rodgers and his managers did not want Hart as an opponent and faked the bad ankle as an "out" after previously having announced that they would not go through with the match under any conditions. The boxing commission is investigating this phase and if the charges are substantiated it is safe to say that both Rodgers and his two managers, James (Red) Mason and Johnny Deutsch, will be set down for a lengthy period. Rodgers is slated for an examination by the commission down at Motor Square Garden late today.

Tales of tampering with Rodgers by other managers also are current and it is claimed that this is the real reason Jackie was taken to Chicago to train last week. It is alleged that certain local interests, working with New York men, are plotting to get Jackie away from his present connections and make a bid for big money with him in the East. His record of eight straight knockout victories has intrigued the imaginations of these men.

The State Athletic Commission does not regard as binding the contract held by Mason and Deutsch on Rodgers' services, although it is signed by both parents of the boxer, Jackie still being a minor. George Pearle, a former manager of Rodgers, holds a similar paper and has filed a prior claim with the commission, complicating matters. Just why the State Commission takes this stand is difficult to fathom, for other state commissions recognize similar contracts, in view of the fact that perhaps 75 per cent of all the boxers are minors and thus would be free to flit from one manager to another with the commission's avowed consent.

MAY CHANGE RULES

To bolster its stand, the commission insists that all contracts for bouts be signed by the boxers as well as the managers, a rule that can not be successfully enforced any more than the national prohibition amendment, since matches frequently are made on short notice involving boxers located in distant cities. It is understood that the commission at an early meeting plans to change its rules to embody a more sensible and better working arrangement to cover the situation. Until such a time, matchmakers will remain at the mercy of designing managers and boxers who can make and break agreements with impunity by begging off on a technicality.

Bobby Young, of Detroit, and formerly of Duquesne, meets Young Corsey, of Canton, O., in the eight-round semi-final at the Garden tonight. Don Frazier, Cuban Negro, of Chicago, takes the place of Dunn against Jesse Duke, of Clearfield, Pa., in the second bout, and Young Nanci, of Swissvale, and Jimmy Thomas, Negro, of the Hill, box the opener.

Between Rounds

Interest is keen in the annual senior boxing championships of the Allegheny Mountain Association of the A. A. U., to be fought in Motor Square Garden tomorrow and Wednesday evenings. The winners qualify to represent this district in the National senior title bouts at Boston next month.

Matchmaker Nate Leff hopes to complete his preliminary card today for his double windup show in the upstairs hall of Duquesne Garden Wednesday night. He has Andy Andrucci and Battling Gizzy in the main bout and Johnny Smacker and Ray Collins, the latter of Erie, in the other 10-rounder.

Jackie Wilson, of Jersey City, who meets Mickey Solomon, of New Castle, in the main bout at the Moose Temple Friday night, now resides on the North Side and is under the management of Jimmy Conrad, who also handles Johnny Dunn. That's quite a comeback for Conrad after his long layoff from boxing—having both Dunn and Wilson in windups in Pittsburgh in the same week. Conrad formerly managed Jack Perry, Patsy Scanlon, Eddie and Chalky Wimler and Tim Droxler, among others.

Jack Zivic, former local welterweight, is back in training in New York, according to word received from him by his former manager, Luke Carney, and will be boxing again soon. His first bout probably will be against Mickey Bliss, at Allentown, Pa.

Benny Buniach, manager of Buck McTiernan, of Swissvale, who signalized his return to the ring by defeating Johnny Pial at the Moose Temple last Friday night, said today that Buck is ready to take on any of his challengers, but for the present will continue to fight at catchweights, which means around 162 pounds. He scaled 162½ pounds for Pial, following a three months' layoff. This is approximately 10 pounds heavier than his former weight. He scaled 151¾ when he boxed Georgie Fifield at Motor Square Garden and 150½ for Farmer Joe Cooper in the same ring when the articles called for 152 pounds each time, and 153 for his first bout with Mickey Solomon at the Moose Temple and only 151¼ for their return meeting.

Two 10-round bouts have been arranged by Promoter Jim McGirr, of McKeesport, for his show Thursday night. He has Young Rudy, of Charleroi, on top with Pete Herman, of Detroit, and Chuck Taggert, Butler heavyweight, in with Ray Fay, of Charleroi, for the other feature event. Herman formerly resided in Connellsville and won over Rudy there three years ago.

Sport Vignettes

To Les Biederman, of Wilkinsburg, a journalistic star at Ohio State University, this col'm is indebted for some interesting Buckeye paragraphs . . . He says George Simpson, Ohio State sprint king, never goes into strict training and smokes ciggies . . . Cough that one off! . . . Pete Bowen, Pitt dash man, who doesn't like those li'l digs we take at track meets occasionally just to keep him stirred up, will renew friendships with Simpson and Dick Rockaway when Ohio States comes here to meet the Panthers in a dual meet April 19 . . . Rockaway and Pete campaigned in Europe some months ago, Dick being world high hurdles champion . . . In Columbus, they are crediting Sam Willaman, Buckeye coach, with pulling a fast one in getting Pitt back on the Ohio State football schedule for next fall instead of 1931, as they figure the Bucks will be hot this year and Pitt, losing a flock of stars, will be a bit frostbitten . . . Ohio State has most of its lettermen of last fall returning and also the talent from its freshman team of last fall, which was one of the best in the history of its yearlings . . . Wesley Fesler, of Youngstown, all-America end, is one of the most versatile ath-a-letes in the land . . . He has earned his varsity letter in football, basketball and baseball and is a crack tennis player and was a topping high jumper in his high school days . . . He was captain of the Ohio State basketball team the last two seasons and co-captain of the football eleven two years with Allan Holman, the quarterback . . . All Ohio State sport leaders are appointed before each game by the head coach and an honorary captain is elected at the end of the season . . . George Thompson, a sophomore at Ohio State, left the Buckeye baseball nine flat to join the Peoria club, a farm of the Cincinnati Reds. He is an outfielder and practically has a regular berth cinched . . . Asked if he thought Heine Hart had a chance of beating Jackie Rodgers, local knockout ace, before their scheduled bout at Motor Square Garden tonight was knocked out, William (Fuzzy) Pfarr, of Sidewalks notoriety, pulled the year's worst fight pun. "Hartly," was his snappy comeback, as he reached for a complimentary ticket . . . Commenting on the orgy of fouls in recent boxing bouts, George Engel, former Pittsburgher, now of New York, was moved to recall the alleged good old days when he was piloting Frank Klaus, the Braddock Bearcat, who went on to win the middleweight championship . . . In his bout with the very rough and tough Billy Papke, in Paris, in 1913, Engel says Frank was fouled repeatedly from the sixth round to the tenth and Billy then desisted only after the referee, a big burly fellow, threatened to toss him out of the ring into the laps of the parlez-vouers . . . He fouled Frank again in the fifteenth and was disqualified . . . They were slated to travel 20 rounds . . . Did Klaus complain or try to quit? . . . He did not . . . All he did was to beg the referee not to stop the fight but to let him "get" his man . . . In 1909, according to Engel, Frank was boxing a big heavyweight in Brooklyn and was tapped on the right thigh just as Jack Sharkey belted Phil Scott at Miami . . . "Don't tell me a punch on the leg can't paralyze a man's limbs," says Engel . . . "Poor Frank couldn't move on that leg . . . But he didn't claim a foul then, either . . . Instead, he wrapped up everything he had left in one punch and knocked his opponent cold," . . . Them, it would seem, wuz the happy days.—HARRY KECK.

STRIB TO MEET PHIL

MIAMI, March 24.—(AP.)—W. L. (Young) Stribling, Macon heavyweight, and Phil Scott, English champion, have been booked to fight at Albert Hall, London, April 10.

MANY CLUBS PLAN GOLF TOURNEYS

By VERN SWARTSFAGER

Organization golf, which includes the various and sundry civic clubs and similar bodies, are planning bigger and better golf tournaments for this summer. Their plans will not go awry unless local country clubs put the clamp down and refuse them playing dates, a rumored threat that has been in the air for the last two seasons. If these clubs succeed in getting their tourney dates, and it is most likely they will, for many a club is eager to bolster its coffers, organization golf will boom this season.

PRINTERS TO PLAY

There is one bunch coming to town which should have little trouble in securing a place for its four-day tournament—the annual links championship of the International Typographical Union, which is to be staged during the latter part of August in conjunction with its annual sports meet to be held here.

The printers, among them some of the finest of golfers, have been playing their championship for more than five years, and in their wake comes a flow of praise for their treatment of the courses they have played upon, and for the consideration they have given the clubs who have offered them the courtesy of their links. The tournament inconveniences home club members only little, because the printers start at 8 o'clock in the morning and play until around noon—giving the club member his afternoon of golf as usual. Last year more than 100 played at Indianapolis. The tournament is conducted on a match play basis.

MANY ORGANIZATIONS

Aside from that event there will be the annual state championship of the Pennsylvania Society, Sons of the American Revolution, with George L. Craig, Jr., of Allegheny, moving the works to put it over; the Bond Club will have its regular inter-city matches aside from one-day tournaments; the Traffic Club, as usual, will bring notables from all parts of the country for their several competitions; the Hotel, Club and Restaurant Golf Association, with Walter H. Mennigke, chairman of the house committee at Chartiers Heights guiding its destiny, anticipates a great year; the Lions, Rotary, Arabian Sand-Diggers, Aero Club, Penn and Cornell alumni, and the city-county match to anticipate.

Even more organizations may be in the field this year. Every indication points to a great season.

Tee to Green

Dave Broudy, orchestra conductor at the Stanley, and Dick Liebert, good-looking organlogue impresario at the Penn, will attend the Warner in a body this week to see that Walter Hagen and Leo Diegel, showing in a picture there, do their stuff according to snuff. Both are enthusiastic golfers.

H. G. (Swede) Olsen, Burke Glen pro, gave an exhibition at an East Liberty store last Saturday.

"Senator" Louis Tesh is shining up his clubs. He means business this year. He was a big gun at the recent annual dinner-dance of the Hotel, Club and Restaurant Golf Association at Chartiers Heights.

Local Y Team Enters Hebrew Tourney

The Young Men's Hebrew Association basketball team has entered the National Y. M. H. A. tournament to be held in Newark, N. J., next Saturday and Sunday, according to an announcement today by Arthur W. Scher, athletic director of the local institution.

The local passers were eliminated in the first round of last year's tournament in Atlantic City, but hope to make a better showing this year. Philadelphia is the defending champion.

PHIL GOLDSTEIN QUITS BRONSON

Phil Goldstein, local Jewish lightweight star, has changed managers. Henceforth he will make his headquarters in Cleveland and box under the direction of Jimmy Dunn, veteran handler, who developed Johnny Kilbane into the featherweight champion. Phil leaves Jimmy Bronson, of New York, with whom he has been associated for almost four years, ever since he quit the amateur ranks. In that time he has boxed a number of main bouts here and in the East, principally in Newark, N. J., and Holyoke, Mass. He has been one of the best local attractions.

Phil Goldstein

In making the switch, Goldstein, who returned this morning from a visit to Cleveland, where he talked the matter over with Dunn yesterday, said he thought he needed a change of scenery. He has not had a fight for the last five months, or since he boxed Roger Bernard at Motor Square Garden.

Goldstein and Bronson are breaking off on friendly terms. They never had a contract with each other, according to Phil. One of the boxer's stablemates with Dunn will be Joey Goodman, another Jewish lightweight, and a friend of Phil when both were in New York.

Handball Doubles Tourney Under Way

Theos Manos, who won the singles title on Saturday, and Frank Smith, fellow member of the Keystone Athletic Club and the man whom he dethroned, were on hand to defend their doubles title when the annual A. M. A. A. A. U. handball doubles championships opened at the Keystone club this afternoon. The pairings for the opening matches follow:

Smith and Manos, K. A. C., bye.
Wolfe and Chersky, Y. M. H. A., vs. McGinness and Laughlin, P. A. A.
Winkleman and Gladstone, Y. M. H. A., vs. McCabe and Stevenson, Y. M. C. A.
Fierst and Lapidus, Y. M. H. A., vs. Clarke and Bialas, P. A. A.

LETTERS AWARDED

Sure Way to Get Rid of Dandruff

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. Then you destroy it entirely.

To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.

AMATEUR FIVES MEET TONIGHT FOR TITLES

By JULIUS LEVIN.

Championships in two classes of the annual Allegheny Mountain Association of the A. A. U. will be decided tonight at Duquesne University, when the Knickerbockers of Lawrenceville meet the North Side Community House passers for the first-class title and the Irene Kaufmann Settlement House quintet engages the Mt. Washington Triangles for the light first-class crown.

The two contests bring into action evenly-matched floor teams, quintets that compare favorably with the best amateur clubs ever molded together in this vicinity, and their followers are anticipating a pair of great battles.

REAL CONTENDERS

The Knickers and Community House both showed their mettle in the semi-final round, the Knickers being forced to flash their best form to defeat Holy Cross, while Community House just managed to squeeze out a one-point triumph over the Young Men's Hebrew Association, last year's winner of the championship. Community House won the title two years ago.

In the light first-class battle, the Irene Kaufmann Settlement House is the favorite to defeat the Mt. Washington Triangles, but Ziggy Kahn's boys are not expecting a soft assignment tonight. The Triangles made an impressive showing in their climb to the final. Interest in the final battles is high and preparations have been made to handle a capacity crowd at Duquesne University.

PLAYOFFS CARDED

Tomorrow night will witness the opening games of the playoffs in the Allegheny County League and the West Penn League. In the county loop the J. J. Veronas meet the Duquesne Lafayettes, defending champions, at Columbus Temple. The Lafayettes won the first half title and the Veronas were the victors in the second half. In the West Penn League the Ray E. Schneiders tackle the Penn Five of Sharpsburg at Forresters Hall, Lawrenceville. The Schneiders won the first half and Penn Five the second half. Both games bring together evenly matched quintets and the outcome in each case is regarded as a tossup. The second game in the County League series is scheduled at Duquesne Thursday, while the second in the West Penn is carded Saturday at Sharpsburg.

Keeps Hair Neat

Rich-looking, Orderly

If your hair lacks natural gloss and lustre, or is difficult to keep in place it is very easy to give it that rich, glossy, refined and . . . orderly appearance . . . so essential to well-groomed men.

Just rub a little Glostora through your hair . . . once or twice a week . . . or after shampooing, and your hair will then stay, each day . . . just as you comb it.

Glostora softens the hair and makes it pliable. Then—even stubborn hair—will stay in place of its own accord.

It gives your hair that natural, rich, well-groomed effect, instead of leaving it stiff and artificial looking as pastes do.

Glostora also keeps the scalp soft, and the hair healthy by restoring the natural oils from which the hair derives its health, life, gloss and lustre.

Try it!—See how easy it is to keep your hair combed—any style you like—whether brushed lightly or combed down flat. If you want your hair to lie down particularly smooth and tight, after applying Glostora, simply moisten your hair with water before brushing it.

BUFF DONNELLI STARS, VICTORS BRILLIANT

By TOM BIRKS

The wonderful form of the green and gold of Heidelberg which won it two National amateur championships again was in evidence yesterday afternoon when Manager Ba[illegible]tini gathered the remnants of his famous club together to meet the Pierpoint Motors club, District League champion, in a benefit game for Bill O'Donnell. Flashing the punch that made it famous, Heidelberg won a good game, 5 to 0, at Thoms Run field.

The fans also brought home the fact that Heidelberg is the greatest drawing card in Western Pennsylvania, for the largest crowd of the season was on the side lines.

GREAT EXHIBITION.

Pierpoint has beaten practically every club in the district with the exception of Gallatin, but the Heidelberg machine was something different, and the boys, playing together for the first time this season, gave a most brilliant exhibition.

The game brought back Buff Donnelli, Western Pennsylvania's greatest soccer player, for the first time this season. With his brother Fred, who has developed in Cleveland, this combination played ducks and drakes with Pierpoint's defense.

The score at half time was 1 to 0, Heidelberg, and it was a typical Donnelli shot that scored. Buff met one of Marshall's goal kicks 35 yards out and Marshall was beaten.

MOTORS STOPPED

In the second half McCosky, Chappel and Fred Donnelli scored, putting the game on ice, and while Angus McNair played brilliantly for the Blue and White it was the return of the Green and Gold that the fans applauded. In keeping with the spirit, the former amateur champions played like a team inspired, proving that when Heidelberg was eliminated at the beginning of the season the greatest amateur team ever developed was taken away. Most of the players had not donned a shoe all season, but the exhibition was worth while and Heidelberg's glory never will be dimmed. The lineup:

Heidelberg—5		Pierpoint—0
Fritz	G	Marshall
Valliat	R.B	Clough
Cycle	L.B	Thompson
Stenzel	R.H	Van Sure
Jones	C.H	Comerich
Gillespie	L.H	Schang
Kusic	O	Williamson
Buff Donnelli	I.R	Kirk
Fred Donnelli	C	Moresman
McCosky	I.L	McNair
Chappel	O.L	Petrulini

Goals—Fred Donnelli 2, Buff Donnelli, McCosky, Chappel. Referee—O'Connor.

Campus Comment

By

KNUTE ROCKNE

With the close of the indoor track season comes a lull in this sport for the next month or so.

Knute Rockne.

The season has been characterized by very few record-breaking performances. In fact, the interest and class of competition hardly has been up to that of former years. Two new world indoor records were made, one by Nelson, of Butler, who jumped 6 feet 6¾ inches in the high jump, and the other by the Harvard one-mile relay team. The Crimson quartet ran this distance in 3 minutes 20 3-5 seconds.

The outdoor season should be productive, however, of some real performances, what with Wykoff and Simpson in the sprints, middle distance runners such as Martin of Purdue, Wilson of Notre Dame, McCafferty of Holy Cross and Engle of Yale, all of whom are potential record-breakers. Then in the discus there are at least a half dozen men capable of breaking the present record held by Moeller, of Oregon. In fact, Krenz, of Stanford, has broken this record by quite a few feet, unofficially, and bids fair to more than duplicate this performance at one of the big meets later.

EASTER HERO SCRATCHED

WANTAGE, England, March 24.—(AP.)—J. R. Anthony, trainer for J. H. Whitney, today stated that Easter Hero had been scratched from the Grand National, last week's lameness having returned.

Anthony said that Dr. Cundell, veterinary, had been to Wantage this morning, and after inspecting Easter Hero reported:

"The leg is flushed and the lameness has returned, and it is impossible for Easter Hero to run at Liverpool and do himself justice."

Easter Hero, who was a favorite for the famous steeplechase, which will be run on Friday at Aintree, developed lameness several days after winning the gold cup at Cheltenham about 10 days ago and has been under the care of a veterinary ever since.

Last week it appeared that the lameness had worked out and Easter Hero had several fine gallops at the end of which he drew up in good condition.

Don's Speed Test Further Delayed

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., March 24.—(AP.)—Beach conditions continue to keep Kaye Don, British auto racer, from making an attempt to break the world automobile speed record of 231 miles an hour.

Rains have caused gulleys to appear here and there on the beach and today it appeared that several days would be required for the waves to fill up these ditches. Until the tide does this, Don does not intend to take his car on the course.

MARATHON MARK FALLS

NEW YORK, March 24.—(INS.)—[illegible] of the Finnish American A. C. today held a world record for the national marathon. He won the event yesterday at River Lake Park, Staten Island, covering the 26 miles in 2:32:21. The old record was 2:33, made by Charles Mellor in the Huntington to Boston marathon.

TOOEY WINS CUP

man of his bulk. He is beautifully proportioned, and unless he is muscle bound he ought to be a terrific puncher.

"IN MY opinion the best place to beat a man of Carnera's bulk would be his body. If I were fighting him I would concentrate on his midriff. His body affords a fine target, and, strange as it may seem, big men seem to be more easily affected by blows to the stomach, liver and heart than smaller boxers.

Tommy Gibbons

"AS FOR DEMPSEY, he would be very dangerous against anybody for three or four rounds. While a boxer loses his speed, endurance and judgment of distance with idleness and gathering age, he can still retain his punch for several rounds. Dempsey, of course, would have to win inside of four rounds if he were to win at all, as he would blow up after that. Don't forget, however, that Jack can do more damage in three or four rounds against an opponent he can hit than any other fighter of this day can accomplish in 10 rounds. Dempsey, at 35, should be able to get into good enough condition with six months' training to give a satisfactory account of himself against Sharkey, Schmeling and Carnera, the outstanding three heavyweights of today."

BUCS-OAKLAND OPEN SERIES TODAY

games is ready to take on The Oaks in the opener. Glenn Spencer, who shared the slab trick with Larry in the Mission game, is likely to be in the same spot again.

Skipper Ens announced he will ask more toil of his pitchers just as quickly as the series with Chicago begins. At that time, the Pittsburgh sharpshooters will be sent to the slab for six or seven rounds. Up to today only one hurler had reeled off as many as six frames, the honor for the exploit going to Martin Lang, clever southpaw from Wichita, who faced the Seals over that distance in the morning contest of yesterday.

HURLERS IN SHAPE.

Ens, however, could ask for a nine-inning pitcher and at least four or five of his favored hurlers would step out. French, Petty, Meine, Brame, Kremer and one or two others appear to have reached a point in condition where they could go the route. The boss will not allow any of them to take the test at this time as such an act would be deemed a bit foolhardy. The season will not open until three weeks tomorrow and it would be a bit dangerous for a dependable hurler to so exert himself at this stage.

The forenoon contest of yesterday brought out the best slab duel of the week. Nick Williams, boss of the Seals, called upon Art (Lefty) McDougal, a bit of a kid, to work nine rounds in the contest and the youngster won the plaudits of the multitude by holding the Buccos to three hits, two of which were scratches. The one real blow accredited the big leaguers was uncorked by Stuart Clarke, who flailed the ball into the left field seats for a homer that represented the only Pittsburgh tally.

The other safeties given Pittsburgh batters were recorded as the result of pop-lofts in the sun that eluded the fielders. It is true that quite a few of the Pirate Yannigans were in action in this contest, but McDougal could hardly be classed in any other manner, hence his feat deserves much praise.

HOMERS COUNT

Strangely enough, the whole output of runs in the game was the result of four-sackers. Lang and Herbert Sanders held the Seals to eight hits, but full-distance socks by Frankie Grosetti and Earl Sheely spilled the beans for the Pittsburghers. The erstwhile Bucco first sacker decided the contest in the fourth with his belt into the left bleachers.

The Pirates came within a hair of kicking away the afternoon game, which was staged before a crowd of approximately 6,000 fans. The big leaguers carried a four-run lead into the final frame, and Jesse Petty, who entered the contest in the sixth, appeared to have the home batters mystified. Petty's support broke down, however. Bad errors by Rolly Hemsley, George Grantham and Dick Bartell paving the way for three runs. The tying marker was on second and two were out on top of Hemsley's bad throw to first with the bases filled, when Crosetti grounded out. Hemsley's low toss to nail a runner went to the outfield and two Seals scooted over.

John Miljus, one of Pittsburgh's stalwart baseball sons, essayed to stop his old buddies in the finale. John started aright, but in the third stanza he ran afoul of a five-hit shower that netted four Pirate runs. The big advantage stood in the stead of the invaders as the game progressed. Miljus retired at the end of the fourth in favor of Curt Davis.

MEINE LOOKS GOOD

Heine Meine looked like a champ as he took 11 Seals out of the picture in succession as the game opened and waged on. Two were out in the fourth, and nary a man had reached first when Coleman received a double as Adam Comorosky dropped his fly which the Polish flyer challenged at the fence. He could not hold the ball. Red Wingo followed with a double, and the home fans began to perk up. Still another two-sacker in the inning gave the Seals a fair start.

Pie Traynor's clever understudy, Stewie Clarke, uncorked his second homer of the day before Davis could get set in the fifth. It was another drive into the leftfield seats, the ball being well spanked. Larmon Cox batted for Meine in the sixth with two out, the youngster splashing a triple to center. Fred Brickell, a hitting star of the afternoon, drove in what proved to be the winning run with a single.

Chillysauce

Capt. Pie Traynor, with his inflamed eye, is a matter of deep concern in the Pirate camp. Pie has been watching his teammates from the sideline in "civvies" and in the past couple of days there seems to have been little or no change in his afflicted right organ.

That the condition is worrying Traynor to some extent is natural, yet Pie was tickled to hear the specialists state that the ailment was not serious, provided the right care be given it. He also was told by the doctors that he had the bad teeth extracted in the nick of time, not so much for the condition of his eye, but for his health in general.

Lloyd Waner was ailing again yesterday on top of his defeat of Saturday. Perhaps the strain was too great, but in any event he complained of his condition. Meantime, Freddie Brickell is playing a la Tris Speaker. The Wichita whirlwind hammered the ball around the field and acted like a ball hawk in the pasture during the second game of yesterday. Some of the Pirates would wager that Brickell can outstep Brother Lloyd in a foot race.

Miner $51,750 Winner in Agua Caliente Sweeps

AGUA CALIENTE, Lower California, Mex., March 24.—(AP.)—By holding the sweepstake ticket on Victorian, winner of the Agua Caliente handicap, George Fisher, a mining weighmaster from Butte, Mont., was more wealthy today by $51,750. Bob Wood, Santa Ana, Cal., was paid $23,000 for his drawing of Alexander Pantages, and A. M. Comer, Emmitsburg, Md., won $11,500 for third place. Sweepstake tickets cost $2 each, with $115,000 given in prize money.

KREMER MAY HURL OPENER

By Staff Correspondent.

OAKLAND, Cal., March 24.—Looking ahead three weeks to a contemplated scene in Cincinnati, it does not require any special prophetic vision to suggest that Jewel Ens will have five or six first-class hurlers ready to take the slab assignment for the opening game of the season with the Reds.

No, such an oracle is not needed, but to pick the honor man for the big occasion is something else again.

To get down to brass tacks on the matter, the concensus of opinion in the Pirate camp seems to favor Ervin Brame or Remy Kremer for the job. Larry French is a camp sensation, but Larry is a left-hander and Dan Howley might rush out too much right-handed batting power were Ens to nominate a lefthander. Brame or Kremer is the best bet right now. On the other hand, if Howley were to fire a lefthand pitcher at the Pirates in the inaugural, Ens probably would come out definitely for Kremer, who is a right-hand batter. Brame is one of the best left-hand hitters in the league, so the percentage would be to match him against a right hand pitcher. He ruined more than one game for the Reds with his bat last season.

Harvard May Enter Boxing Association

PHILADELPHIA, March 24.—(INS.)—Observers of Harvard University were so impressed with the 1930 championships of the Eastern Intercollegiate Boxing Association held at the Palestra here Friday and Saturday last that it was reported today the staid New England institution intended going in for the manly art and would be a member of the league next year.

Penn State's slugging leather pushers won the team title for the second consecutive year, amassing a total of 19 points. Western Maryland's squad took the second place honors with 14 points.

The Army boxers have been invited to compete in the tournament next season, and a plan is under consideration for permitting the entry of star individuals of various colleges without forcing any institution to send a complete team.

Hundred Denied Chance at Title

HUNDRED, W. Va., March 24.—(AP.)—The Hundred High School Basketball team, West Virginia state champions, will not compete in the national scholastic basketball tournament, Principal George R. Hunt said today. Principal Hunt said he did not think the trip was "justified."

The Hundred quintet won the state title at the tournament at Buckhannon Saturday night. The entire town of less than one hundred population was celebrating today and was to be joined this afternoon by residents of Littleton, a nearby town, in a parade.

Students were given a holiday here and a half-holiday was granted the students at Littleton.

VICTORIAN AGUA CALIENTE WINNER

AGUA CALIENTE, Lower California, Mex., March 24.—(AP.)—Out from the dust of Brown Wisdom's flying feet came Victorian of the Warm Stable, Lexington, Ky., to win the first annual running of the Agua Caliente handicap in record time here yesterday.

The speedy Eastern 5-year-old staged a rousing spurt on the home stretch to finish three lengths ahead of Alexander Pantages, Allocarrodio stable, Los Angeles, and five lengths in front of Donnay, Rancocas stable entry, New York, third, in 2 minutes 3⅘ seconds for the mile and a quarter.

Brown Wisdom, sporting the silks of Reichert Brothers, Chicago, faltered after running around to the final turn, and drew a bad sixth, nine lengths behind the winner. Victorian had gone to the post 2-to-1 favorite, with Brown Wisdom, and although he brought the Warm stable $98,400, he paid only $6.20 on $2 parimutuel tickets.

Ambulance Fails To Aid Carnera Dodge Crowd

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 24.—Kansas City got its first glimpse of Primo Carnera yesterday, through the curtained windows of an ambulance.

Informed of the crowd, Carnera and a manager climbed into an ambulance, parked near his special car, the big fighter reclining on the cot. The driver started the machine and was halfway out of the station when police hailed them, informing them the "real patient" was still aboard a train in the railroad yards.

Without much ado Carnera was ordered out of the car. The crowd, which had followed the machine, thronged about him. A special detail of police rescued the big Italian and rushed him to a waiting machine and then to his hotel.

At Garden

Hard-hitting lightweight, of Detroit, and formerly of Duquesne, who boes Young Corsey, of Canton, O., in the semi-final bout at Motor Square Garden tonight.

Roush Fails to Join Giants on Orders

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, March 24.—(AP.)—If John McGraw really meant what he said, Ed Roush, veteran outfielder, is just about through as a member of the New York Giants. Roush, who has declined to accept a big cut in his salary, was given until yesterday to report to the Giant training camp or suffer "the consequences." Roush neither reported nor sent word to McGraw.

VETERAN UMPIRE

Bill Klem has completed his twenty-fifth year as a National League umpire and has officiated in 14 world series. He claims to have worked in baseball games in every one of the United States.

DARST IN CHARGE

WINNING TROTTER

Seven consecutive races on Grand Circuit tracks this season are credited to Main McElwyn, 3-year-old trotter. They brought his owner, C. B. Shaffer, about $40,000.

ROSIES WIN; HYATT FIVE BEATEN

CLEVELAND, March 24.—The Cleveland Rosenblums made it three straight, and three out of four in the fourth world series of the American Basketball League here last night when they outclassed the Rochester Centrals, 23 to 16. The Rosies need one more victory to clinch the title.

Charley Hyatt's All-Star Collegiates lost a two extra-period game to the Union Trusts, one of the fastest semi-pro teams in Ohio, 37 to 36, in a preliminary.

The world series crowd gave Hyatt a tremendous ovation, particularly in the overtime periods. Local fans say he is the most spectacular player they have seen. Hyatt's team ran away in the first period through brilliant shooting by Hyatt and White only to fall down in the second half.

With 10 seconds to play and the score tied Hyatt cut for the hoop and was fouled. On the free throw he missed the chance to win. In both overtime periods Hyatt, White and Minnich missed easy shots. The lineups:

Rosenblums—23		Rochester—16
Barry	F	Kintzing
Lapchick	F	Rabin
Cunningham	C	Hearn
Dehnert	G	Artus
Husta	G	Hirsch

Substitutions—Glasco for Barry, Chizmadia for Rabin, Allen for Artus. Field shots—Rosies 10 out of 35; Rochester 6 out of 47. Field goals—Chizmadia, Allen, Glasco, Barry 2, Lapchick, Dehnert 3, Husta 3, Kintzing 3, Artus, Hirsch. Fouls—Rosies 3 out of 5; Rochester 4 out of 5. First half score—Rosies 13, Rochester 4. Referee—Salador. Umpire—Bennett.

Hyatt A Stars—36		Union Trust—37
Hyatt	F	Ostewski
Minnich	F	Kirkwood
Wunderlich	C	McDougall
White	G	Morse
Lubic	G	McCullough

Field goals—Hyatt 6, Minnich, Wunderlich 2, White 4, Ostewski 2, McDougall 5, Morse 5, McCullough 3. Fouls—Union Trust 6 out of 10; Hyatt All Stars 5 out of 10. First half score—Hyatts 21, Trusts 14. Second half score—Hyatts 33, Trusts 33.

NET FINAL TODAY

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 24.—(AP.)—The Alcazar courts were too wet yesterday for the final match in the southeastern tennis tournament between John Doeg, Santa Monica, Cal., and J. Gilbert Hall, South Orange, N. J. They will play for the title today if weather conditions permit.

MAHANOY CITY COPS

BLOOMSBURG, Pa., March 24.—(AP.)—Mahanoy City high school won the ninth annual basketball tourney of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College Saturday night by defeating Plymouth High, 44 to 21. In the playoff for third place Freeland High defeated Hanover Township High, 36 to 30.

EVERY WHERE I WENT IT WAS THE SAME STORY

"Don't need anyone right now, but leave your name and address and when we need a man we'll send for you." (In a letter to the Sun-Telegraph, Mr. M. K. A., Fifth St., Beaver, Pa., continued:) "Tired, hungry, disgusted, with my stomach nearly as empty as my pockets, I decided to spend half of my last dollar on an ad. Others had had results—perhaps I would be lucky like some of the ones I had read about. So I went to the Sun-Telegraph Office and inserted an ad. I went home and told my wife what I had done. She thought maybe someone in need of a good 'all 'round' man might see the ad and answer it. In due course of time I went back to the Sun-Telegraph office and, to my surprise, was handed two answers to my ad. I went to see the sender of one of the answers and got the job, which led to a better one with more pay later on. I gave the other answer to a pal and he, too, got a job, which helped his wife and 'kids' through the hard times. So, naturally, I'm for the Sun-Telegraph.

URGES RESERVE REDISCOUNT TIME PAPER

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER.

NEW YORK, March 24.—Arthur J. Morris, president of the Industrial Finance Corporation and originator of a chair of poor man's banks which bear his name, urges the administration and the Federal Reserve Board to help restore prosperity by making instalment paper eligible for rediscount by the Federal Reserve Banks. He thinks that his proposal is the most practical step for relieving unemployment.

At this time, Mr. Morris' views are especially timely. His banks deal with the public en masse—not with the fashionably rich, as the Fifth avenue trust companies do, but with the rank and file of job seekers and workingmen. He is better qualified to discuss unemployment, therefore, than the heads of giant banks which deal only with corporation executives and affluent individuals.

"The biggest single step which the present administration at Washington can take to assist in promptly reducing unemployment is to have the Federal Reserve Board, without a day's delay, complete ways and means of making conservatively created instalment paper, under proper restrictions, eligible for rediscount by Federal Reserve banks," Mr. Morris told me. "By such a move the Federal Reserve Bank will authentically tell the world and the banking fraternity of this country that the time has come when it recognizes the fact that instalment buying and instalment paper arising therefrom have become a necessary part of the warp and woof of modern commerce and must be under proper restrictions, properly encouraged in order to do its part in contributing to the permanency of mass buying power, mass consumption and mass production, which are the synonyms of industrial prosperity in America."

WOULD HELP PRODUCTION

"The only panacea for nation-wide unemployment is to continue mass production. Where production flourishes unemployment does not exist. In order, therefore, to insure mass production, we must have mass consumption; and mass consumption is impossible without instalment buying.

"I wish I had the power and knew the means of making this clear to the administrative, financial and industrial interests of this country. If the average bank had had the same 20-year experience that we have acquired developing industrial banking, they would know beyond the peradventure of human doubt that under proper management and pursuant to conservative policies instalment financing is as safe and is as sound as any form of commercial banking which the last 50 years has produced.

"Notwithstanding these facts, however, there is still a reticence among the leading commercial banks of the country to get out and aggressively encourage instalment buying. The restrictions which they impose upon rediscounts by finance companies become greater rather than constructive, and the average bank's willingness to accept the paper of well run finance companies is more or less limited and restricted to a few of us whose companies enjoy large capital and excellent ratios between capital and borrowed money.

"These conditions actually threaten the early recovery of business prosperity in this country because in the absence of the immediate application of measures which will make possible not simply the continuance but the further development of instalment financing's contribution to mass buying power, then prompt restoration of mass production and general employment cannot hope to follow."

RESULTS OF UNEMPLOYMENT

Asked to disclose present financing tendencies among privates and top sergeants of finance, Mr. Morris revealed: "From observations to date the most direct result from present unemployment generally is: First, that saving deposits in the Morris plan banks are steadily increasing; second, applications for Morris plan loans are steadily increasing; third, the demand for acceptance instalment financing has receded.

"The fact that our saving deposits are increasing indicates that the masses we serve are curtailing expenditures, stopping speculation, and have reached the determination systematically to save their money—and in an institution on which they can depend to lend them money in times of stress and need. Throughout the nation the public is steadily learning the full import of our slogan: 'Save where you can borrow.'"

Incidentally, the time has come for mutual savings banks to consider enlarging their scope of social service through considering small loans and through financing the building of small loans. In order to avoid the possibility of undue hazards, the savings banks through a modification of the law could be authorized to make small loans, but only out of surplus funds.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, March 24.—(AP.)—Bond trading drifted back to more normal proportions today. The higher interest rates that followed the phenomenal cheapness of funds in the middle of last week made the yields from prime securities look less attractive. The recent advance has carried numerous high grade issues, particularly the railroad favorites, up two and three points from March 1 levels.

NEW YORK, March 24.—(AP.)—Transactions in the most active bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today were as follows, 000 omitted in sales column (United States bonds in dollars and thirty-seconds of dollars):

Research Main Factor In Koppers Growth

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

RESEARCH has made American industry what it is today. But in no organization has science been made to work closer to industry than in the Koppers Company. It is doubtful if it has led to more amazing results in any other field of endeavor.

The Koppers Company in the by-product coke oven has reversed normal industrial procedure. Most manufacturers take several raw products and make of them a single finished product. The coke oven operator takes a single raw product and breaks it down into a vast number of other materials. The number of these materials is being constantly increased.

C. J. Ramsberg, vice president of the Koppers Company, recently outlined the development in the by-product coke industry before the American Mining Congress. He first indicated the progress made by pointing to the fact that less than 10 per cent of the coke now made in this country comes from the obsolete bee hive coke ovens which waste all the valuable by-products and yield less coke per ton of coal. Nearly all of the by-product coke made in this country is produced in Koppers ovens.

Makes Smokeless Fuels

THE main function of by-product coke ovens is to produce two clean smokeless fuels. These are coke and coal gas. Mr. Ramsberg states that last year 76,000,000 tons of coal, or one out of every 6½ tons of bituminous coal mined in this country, were carbonized with by-product recovery and this proportion is increasing yearly.

In 1920 the Koppers Company had established itself in the outstanding position in its field. Its ovens were recognized as the most modern development in the industry throughout the world. But the company was not willing to rest.

Additional research under the direction of Joseph Becker, now vice president of the company, led to the perfection of an improved type of oven which had all the advantages of the older installations and overcame many of the distadvantages. At a single stroke previous size limitations were thrown into the discard and it became possible to heat larger ovens with blast furnace gas or cheaper producer gas, releasing all of the valuable coal gas for other purposes.

Large Installations Made

MR. RAMSBERG states that it took courage to introduce a new oven at a time when the old oven was on the crest of a wave of appreciation. Yet in the seven and a half years since the first Becker oven was put into operation, 3,494 have been installed with an annual coal carbonizing capacity of 30,000,000 tons in this country and 674 with a capacity of 5,500,000 tons have been built in England, France, Italy, Russia and Belgium.

Today by-product coke plants are one of the important factors in all integrated steel plants. They supply steel producers with two indispensible fuels. These are coke for the production of pig iron and gas for heating open hearth furnaces. The coke ovens also consume as a fuel the exhaust gas from the blast furnaces.

Domestic Use Grows

BY-PRODUCT ovens were used principally in the steel industry at first, but they are steadily becoming an increasing factor in the public utility field. They are constantly taking a bigger place in home life throughout the country. In addition to supplying gas for domestic use in a large area, the market for domestic sizes of coke for home consumption is steadily growing. More important than other factors to the individual is the smokeless quality of the fuel which will make areas where bituminous coal is widely used far more desirable as places in which to live.

But gas and coke are only two of the many products. The amazing developments along other lines will be covered in subsequent articles on the Koppers Company.

California Oil Output Hits Lowest Level Since 1926.

CRUDE oil production in California during the week just ended showed the smallest daily average since 1926. Daily output last week averaged 643,900 barrels, a drop of 2,100 barrels as compared with the previous week, and approximately 100,000 barrels a day less than had been reported during February. Evidently observance of the new statute designed to conserve natural gas resources, but which indirectly works to prevent flush oil production, has been strictly to the letter since the decision of the State Court upholding the validity of the measure came down a fortnight ago.

Resumption of heavy buying of Standard Oil of New Jersey, lifting that stock to new high ground for the year, had its basis chiefly in growing realization of the scope of the company's operations in natural gas. Until the recent disclosure of the natural gas operations of its subsidiaries, Standard Oil of New Jersey had attracted little interest by reason of its position in that industry. But it turns out that the company through a number of subsidiaries is one of the best integrated producers of natural gas in the business, with some 650,000 domestic and about 1,000 industrial consumers being supplied through a system of some 15,000 miles of pipe lines.

OPERATIONS of General Refractories Company are being maintained at a high rate and earnings for the current quarter will exceed the same period of 1929, and will equal and probably surpass the net reported for the last three months of 1929 of $664,000, the highest quarter earnings in history.

In reference to a report that there is talk of a Standard Oil Company taking over Sinclair Consolidated Oil Corporation's marketing agencies, H. F. Sinclair, chairman of Sinclair, said: "Our marketing facilities are vital and are not for sale. Rather than reduce them, we contemplate their expansion. The report is not only untrue, but is utterly ridiculous."

PRESENT indications are the first quarter results of Simms Petroleum Company will show improvement over the like 1929 period, when net loss of $57,351 was reported. The increase in revenue reflects to a larger degree the increase in allowable output of the Yates field in West Texas, where the company's output averaged 6,500 barrels net daily up to March 19, when daily allowable output of the field was reduced by 20,000 barrels. At present the company's output in the field averages 5,500 net barrels daily, against 4,400 barrels a year ago. Simms at present is producing close to its average net output of 13,892 barrels daily in 1929.

Although the announcement of the proposed increase in General American Tank Car's authorized stock led to discussions of the possibility of a stock dividend, the management states that no policy as to the use of additional shares has been decided upon as yet. It is also said by officials that while the expansion program of the company will be continued, no projects have been sufficiently matured to permit making an announcement at present.

U. S. Acts to Halt Vacuum Oil Merger

WASHINGTON, March 24.—(INS.)—The government acted today to prevent the merger of the Standard Oil Company of New York and the Vacuum Oil Company.

A petition was filed in the Federal Court at St. Louis asking the proposed merger be declared illegal.

The government holds that the merger of these corporations would violate the final decree which dissolved the Standard Oil Company in 1911. Both companies were defendants in the anti-trust action brought in St. Louis in 1906 against the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey and its subsidiaries.

Southern Pacific And Atchison in Big Spending

SAN FRANCISCO, March 24.—(INS.)—Expenditures of more than $50,000,000 are planned this year by the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe and Southern Pacific Railroads, according to announcements today by executives of the two companies.

W. B. Storey, president of the Atchison, said that the road would spend $23,000,000 for ordinary improvements, elimination of grade crossings, and $18,000,000 for new equipment. The company also has an application before the Interstate Commerce Commission for the construction of a $5,000,000 new line to connect Amarillo, Tex., with the Atchison lines in Colorado. Mr. Storey expressed optimism with regard to the general business outlook.

Paul Shoup, president of the Southern Pacific, announced expenditure of $7,000,000 for train equipment for the Pacific lines of the company.

SCREW & BOLT IN MERGER

The Pittsburgh Screw and Bolt Corporation has purchased two additional properties. William G. Costin, chairman of the board, in a letter to stockholders accompanying the annual report, said:

"We are particularly gratified to be able to announce the recent acquisition of two properties, both of which are strategically located, and when final plans are put into operation these two acquisitions should prove to be of great benefit to all concerned. Definite details of these acquisitions have not as yet been made public, but will be done sometime in the near future."

Mr. Costin also stated that satisfactory progress was being made in the development of airplane propellers and that production will be started on a commercial basis during the present year.

Resumption of Big Pool Activities Lifts Score Of Specialties to Highs

NEW YORK, March 24.—(AP.)—Bullish forces regained control of the price movement in today's stock market after an early period of irregularity. Resumption of big scale pool operations lifted a score of specialties 1 to 12 points to new high records, while gains of 1 to 3 points were scattered throughout the general list by early afternoon.

There were a few soft spots here and there, Montgomery Ward and American Locomotive sinking to new low levels, but they failed to cut much of a figure in the day's proceedings.

Call money held steady at 4 per cent with no immediate indications of a change in rate. A nominal calling of loans was reported, but these were replaced with new funds.

SENTIMENT CHEERFUL

The summary of business conditions published by the National Business Survey Conference, even though it made no definite predictions of future trends, had a cheerful effect on speculative sentiment. While current business in many lines has been disappointing operators on the long side appear to take the position that the recent decline in securities values generally over-discounted whatever trade recession has taken place.

Vanadium Steel was one of the spectacular performers in today's market, soaring 12 points to a new high at 117¼ in what appeared to be a "technical corner" in that issue. Houston Oil was marked up more than 8 points to 99¾. Foster Wheeler advanced 7 to 82 and Worthington Pump, Internal Combustion preferred, United Aircraft, Newport Company, United Carbon, Warner Brothers Pictures and Vulcan Detinning were marked up 3 to 6 points, all at new high prices for the year.

NEW PEAKS REACHED

New peak prices also were registered by Bendix, International Nickel, Pacific Lighting, American Bank Note, N. S. Realty, Colorado Fuel, Kelvinator, Anchor Cap, Simms Petroleum, General Asphalt, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Texas Gulf Sulphur, Servel, Paramount Famous Lasky, General Railway Signal and Airway Electric.

Johns Manville and Western Union, which broke 5 points each in the early trading, recovered their losses by early afternoon. Montgomery-Ward also recovered its early decline, and was in brisk demand above 40. Safeway Stores sold down more than 2 points to within a fraction of the year's low.

Fidelity Trust Co. Merger Effective

NEW YORK, March 24.—The acquisition of the Fidelity Trust Company of New York by the Marine Midland Corporation became effective last week by the deposit of more than 75 per cent of Fidelity stock to be exchanged for shares of Marine Midland Corporation. With the Fidelity Trust Company, the Marine Midland Corporation now embraces a group of 18 banks and trust companies in New York State with resources of about $600,000,000.

Germany Receives $50,000,000 Loan

BERLIN, March 24.—A syndicate, headed by Lee, Higginson and Company, has granted the treasury $50,000,000 5½ per cent loan, secured by the first part of the Kreuger and Toll Match loan due August 31. The second part, amounting to $75,000,000, due May 31, 1931, will be discounted by the same group in autumn.

The $50,000,000 credit granted to the treasury last year by Dillon, Read and Company, due June 30, will be repaid in cash.

Granite City Steel Earnings Show Gain

NEW YORK, March 24.—The Granite City Steel Company reports net income of $1,682,690 for the year ended December 31, 1929, after all charges and tax provision, equal, after preferred dividends, to $5.68 a share on 292,247 common shares, against $1,074,993 before taxes, or $3.48 on 233,877 common shares in 1928. The preferred stock was retired March 1, 1929.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, March 24.—(AP)—The curb market worked irregularly higher today as bullish groups bid up selected issues. This more than offset a fairly general trickle of nervous liquidation, inducted by the downturn on Saturday, and the tardiness of the recovery in business.

Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list).

LOCAL MARKET MOVEMENTS NARROW

Engineering Holds Gain Achieved on Saturday; Industrial List Steady

Securities on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange opened the new week with only minor changes from the levels prevailing Saturday. There was no noticeable change in the volume of trading and business was fairly well scattered.

United Engineering, which featured the dealings in Saturday's market with an upturn of 6 points, quieted down at the start today and sold on the opening at 47 unchanged from the preceding close.

Less than 1,000 shares of the stock were required to force the price up six points on Saturday, and traders interpreted the incident as indicating that stock overhanging the market had been gathered in during the past month or so while the price had been hovering in the low 40s.

Other industrials were slightly changed today. Fractional recessions in certain issues were offset by equalizing advances in others. The fuels were moderately active, but held close to the trading range in which they have been working for the past several sessions.

The committee on securities today admitted to unlisted trading privileges 2,000,000 shares—($25 par value)—of the Leonard Oil Development Company. The stock sold at 3½.

Predicts Revival of Industry in Spring

NEW YORK, March 24.—Industrial production will experience a Spring revival which, while not nearly as pronounced as that witnessed in 1929, will nevertheless be of fairly substantial proportions, concludes the Standard Statistics Company, of New York, in a current survey, which follows in part:

"Automobile factory operations are now definitely on the upgrade, and should attain quite considerably higher levels in March and April than in the two preceding months. With the advent of open weather, activities in the building construction trades also should register noticeable expansion. Steel output, which lately has contracted moderately, should renew its advance before the end of this month, and in April is likely to be larger than in any month of the first quarter."

Barge Line Switch Charges Eliminated

ST. LOUIS, March 24.—Elimination of reciprocal switching charges between the Chicago, Rock Island Pacific Railway and the United States Inland Waterways Corporation, was announced last night by Maj. Gen. Thomas Q. Ashburn, chairman of the board of the barge lines. Gen. Ashburn predicted the agreement would mark a new era in rail-water relationships and would save the government $200,000 at two ports affected, Peoria and Rock Island. He declared, however, other lines will be forced to fall into line by pressure of competition, eventually eliminating charges totaling several millions of dollars annually.

Railroads have charged $5 to $10 on each carlot transferred from rail to water, which will be eliminated in the C. R. I. & P. agreement.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, March 24.—Cotton opened barely steady at a decline of 13 to 25 points [illegible] under heavy general selling which was stimulated by weakness in Liverpool and a belief that the advance of the past two weeks had eased the market's technical position. There was some further buying of May by trade interests but spot houses were among the sellers of new crop months and the early pressure sent prices off to 15.41c for May and about 15.11c for the new October contract or 20 to 28 points below Saturday's closing quotations.

Liverpool cable advices said there had been realizing with continental and Bombay selling, also some Alexandria selling on the depression in Egyptian. Another cable received in the trade here reported [illegible] demand in Liverpool and said there was selling on a belief that last week's advance had been overdone. Manchester reported a well sustained demand for cotton cloth and said the outlook for business with China was better.

Offerings tapered off after the early decline and trading was quieter late in the morning with prices showing rallies of some 5 or 10 points from the lowest on covering and trade buying. At mid-day May was selling around 15.52 and the new October contract 15.21, with the general list showing net losses of 20 to 27 points.

Visible Grain Supply.

NEW YORK, March 24.—The visible supply of American grain shows the following changes in bushels: Wheat decreased 2,280,000; corn decreased 248,000; oats decreased 798,000; rye decreased 40,000; barley decreased 203,000.

Forbes

These Eighteen Developments Contain Cheer.

—By B. C. FORBES—

ENCOURAGEMENT is coming from many directions. Thus:

1—All cereals made substantial gains in price before the end of the week. Advance in corn was particularly vigorous.

2—Cotton enjoyed substantial recovery.

3—The general commodity price level after a long sinking spell has moved moderately upward.

4—Employment reports at least slightly more cheerful.

5—Construction projects are at last being energetically launched with every indication that within a few weeks unemployment distress will be relieved.

8—The oil industry, after unconscionable delay, announces that it has turned the corner and that improvement in conditions should become more pronounced.

9—Instead of a drastic decrease, income tax payments thus far have astonished many by comparing favorably with a year ago.

10—Money rates last week were the lowest in recent years. Call money touched 2 per cent officially and 1½ per cent outside the stock exchange—contrasted with 9 per cent a year ago. Time loans were available at 3½ to 3¾ against 8 per cent at this time last year. Commercial paper is quoted at 4 per cent and bankers' acceptances at as low as 2½ per cent.

11—The 12 Federal Reserve Banks are carrying 82.5 per cent reserves, which is more than twice legal requirements and a gain of 11 per cent over 12 months ago. Several cities have reduced their discount rate and the Bank of England's lowering of its rate to 3½ per cent has started talk of a possible further cut at New York, an expectation which may not be realized.

12—Average stock quotations have climbed to a new peak for the year and trading has become much more spirited—Friday's volume was the largest since dullness followed the panicky decline.

14—Preparations are under way by underwriters to issue larger amounts of new securities now that there is no inducement for outsiders to continue lending their funds in Wall street.

15—The lateness of Easter has delayed spring buying, but the mercantile agencies note some betterment in retail trade and talk hopefully of further improvement.

16—Of the tariff it can at least be said that, after interminable wrangling, it must be near passage.

17—Very important shipbuilding contracts are announced by the postmaster general—enough, it is claimed, to keep our shipyards busy for several years—a matter of great momentum.

18—Finally, more courageous sentiment is developing throughout most of the country.

DO NOT assume from the foregoing, however, that prosperity arrived with the arrival of spring. No country could claim to be prosperous when several million workers are unable to find employment. Moreover, not many business concerns will be able to show increased profits for the current quarter; as a matter of fact, decreases from a year ago will be the general rule. During the coming months an unusual number of dividend reductions and omissions must be expected.

What can be claimed—and all that can be claimed—is that, within six months of the worst stock panic the United States ever has known, the downward trend appears to have been arrested and incipient improvement manifesting itself in industry, in employment, in trade, in farm prices and, most notable of all, in security prices.

There are pessimists who contend that there has been no actual improvement either in employment or in business and that various industries still are wallowing in depression. They attach no significance to the rise in stocks and bonds beyond the inevitable reflection of abnormally cheap money. Nor do they see any likely general recovery in the near future.

THAT there has been genuine, though not pronounced, improvement in many directions cannot be legitimately disputed. What lies ahead no human being can, of course, foresee or dogmatically foretell.

My humble opinion is that the tide has begun to rise and that, though back-washes must be expected, especially in the stock market, the movement will, in the main, be toward better levels.

Erie R. R. to Sell $50,000,000 Bonds

WASHINGTON, March 24.—(AP.)—Authorization to sell $50,000,000 of its refunding and improvement 5 per cent mortgage gold bonds was sought today by the Erie Railroad in an application to the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The road said that, due to the improved conditions in the bond market since the application to issue the bonds was made in February, they could be sold at 93½ per cent of principal and accrued interest.

Cal. Daily Average Oil Output Lower

LOS ANGELES, March 24.—California daily crude oil production for the week ended March 22 totaled 650,000 barrels, against 655,000 barrels the previous week, a decrease of 5,000 barrels.

GIMBEL PROFIT GAINS

Report of Gimbel Brothers, Inc., and subsidiaries for the year ended January 1, 1930, shows net profit of $804,484 after depreciation and interest, equivalent to $4.37 a share on 184,200 shares of 7 per cent preferred stock. This compares with a net of $909,795 in 1928.

After payment of preferred dividends there was a deficit of $521,141 for the year, comparing with a deficit of $2,299,645 in the preceding year.

Bernard F. Gimbel, president of the company, in connection with the annual statement issued today, anticipates that the coming year will show a continuation of the improvement that has been made during the past year, Mr. Gimbel said.

"The sales volume was the largest in the history of the company, showing an increase of $3,526,877.70 over the previous year.

"On November 6, 1919, there were sold 373,500 shares of additional common stock, which added $9,013,949 to the company's assets and which will result in substantial savings of interest charges.

"The ratio of assets to liabilities is over four to one and the book value of the common stock is $36.89 a share.

"During the year the company purchased in the market for retirement $1,320,000 of its preferred stock, which reduced the amount of preferred capital stock outstanding to $18,420,000."

GEN'L ELECTRIC EARNINGS UP

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., March 24.—The General Electric Company's annual report for 1929, published today, disclosed record net profit of $67,289,880, equal to $8.97 a share on the common stock. In 1928 the company earned $54,153,806, or $7.15 a share.

Orders received last year amounted to $445,802,519, also a new record and a 28 per cent increase over 1928. Unfilled orders on December 31 last totaled $94,623,000, compared with $72,953,000 at the close of 1928, a 30 per cent gain. Sales billed last year were $415,338,094, compared with $337,189,422.

Surplus for 1929 was $25,054,826 against $8,313,494 at the end of 1928. Net income from sales totaled $49,395,896 against $39,661,230.

The International General Electric Company, Inc., which handles the export business, made a 1929 profit of $1,708,064 compared with $1,681,735 in 1928.

N. Y. Area Building Contracts Higher

NEW YORK, March 24.—Construction contracts awarded in New York metropolitan area in week ended March 15 totaled $26,599,500 against $19,101,300 in previous week, up 39 per cent, and $16,738,400 in 1929 week, up 59 per cent, reports F. W. Dodge Corporation.

The White House Gang

he immediately seized upon the most effective way to halt the disturbance and administer the reprimand . . . knowing that the time for reprimand is immediately subsequent to the delinquency. Putting his tongue in his cheek perhaps, TR wrote that message with the deftness of a statesman, having a complete understanding of our minds, and knowing, almost to an iota, the response to be expected from it.

It acknowledged the importance and success of our attack upon the building and, because of that, when we reported to him, it was as undefeated and honorable combatants, who had earned the right to an unprejudiced hearing.

"I know, and I take it for granted," TR said, "that you have good reason for all this. I would like to have an expression, however, of your understanding of your rights in the corridors of the State-War-Navy Building?"

"Well," Q explained, "we have more rights there than anywhere else—except in the White House—because it's the closest thing to us . . ."

The Treasury

"Yes, yes," TR seemed to agree, "and the next closest p-r-i-v-i-l-e-g-e-d place—as I understand it—is on the opposite side of the White House, the Treasury?"

"No," Q corrected. "It ought to be, but it isn't; we don't ever go there—"

"No?" TR said, looking surprised. "Then there's something wrong about my idea of your rights. Because, I certainly should think that the Treasury would be immense-ly better for your purposes. Think of all those bags of money, those stacks of c-u-r-r-e-n-c-y, those bars of silver and gold, millions on millions of dollars that should be yours, to do e-x-a-c-t-l-y as you chose with—because the Treasury is just across the street."

Q looked startled. The eyes of the Gang began to protrude; they licked dry lips with moistening tongues.

"Golly!" Q remarked abruptly. "I wish that were true! But it isn't, of course—"

"No, of course it isn't," TR said quietly.

The Gang shook their heads gravely.

"They wouldn't let us touch a single nickel," cried Q rushingly. "We'd be pinched, and thrown in jail, maybe shot, and—"

"Not entirely in-con-ceivable," TR said. "If you seriously attempted a raid on the Treasury of the United States, the Captain of the Watch would fight to his last man; Maj. Sylvester would have all the D. C. police out on the job, quick enough, and the Secretary of War might see fit to order a troop or two of cavalry from Fort Meyer."

"Blooey! Blooey!" Q said, in a serious voice.

Boys Understood

TR nodded in agreement.

"I guess we haven't any right in the Treasury at all," Q admitted, with a touch of regret. Then he added—"any more than we have in the State-War-Navy Building."

"That is the exact truth of the whole matter," TR confirmed concisely.

Q looked sorrowfully at the Gang and we at him. The realization had broken in upon us, that we did not own the earth after all. Nor were we "persons in authority." We had, however, the satisfaction of discovering this sickening disillusionment, ourselves—had not been tactlessly and brutally told it.

TR must have known the thoughts which were breaking in waves across our minds. He dismissed the whole subject immediately by saying, "Every once in a while, when you feel like it, I hope you'll all come in to see me. Now, won't you?"

Had we been completely shorn of our honors? Perhaps; but we knew, and appreciated, the fact of our having gained a tremendous one—that of special access to the President of the United States.

As we went out of the office, TR turned to his work with an air of concentration, which showed that he had completed an important job, and was turning to another, thereby erasing from his mind everything that had occurred between us. The Gang went out into the garden, and sat down upon a stone bench in the sun. Nothing was said for a long time; but the thinking that went on was prodigious. . . .

Gets Into Trouble

Thought, at our age, was a painful process and, when we were together, difficult to sustain. With us, thought was almost synonymous with action. It translated itself into concrete movement as naturally as a dog's activity when he sees a cat. So, when Paul Ireland yelped and ran, we followed him to the east entrance, into the long basement corridor and, finally, into the main basement of the White House itself, to see Eddie Norris in the boiler-room, where we were always welcome.

Eddie was an old friend of the Gang's. When in trouble, Q would turn to Eddie, quite naturally. And this was because, when Q was once in a tight corner, Eddie had proved at least sympathetic.

"Eddie! Eddie!" Q had cried, running breathless to Norris. "Where are you? I'm in a nawful mess! Come and help me quickly, before Father comes from his office! Quick, Eddie, quick!"

Norris rose from his desk, came through the archway of the basement foundations, skirted the deep pit of the boilers, and said, "Right away, Quent, if I can do it. What is it you want?"

"Eddie," Q demanded, "you've got to do it . . . immejitly! Get a piece of board"—indicating the size with his hands—"and a can of brown paint, and a brush, and a hammer, and some tacks. Quick, Eddie!"

DAILY TRUE STORY

'Cakes and Java!'

"CAKES AND JAVA!"

When the wheat cakes and coffee were brought, Chick looked up at her and grinned.

"New Kid, eh?" he asked.

June sized him up frankly enough.

"I'm new here," June said quietly.

"Well, you sure don't hurt my eyes a bit," Chick assured her.

"You got me wrong, sister—not the kind of fresh you mean."

"Will there be anything else?"

Chick shook his head, slipped a dime under the edge of his plate. June liked the customers who did that instead of tossing down a coin as though they were giving her a diamond necklace—picked up his check and departed.

"Well, well, nobody has eloped with you yet," was Chick's greeting.

"What's yours?" June asked.

"It's no good trying to freeze me out like that because you simply burn me up, Good Lookin', and I don't mean maybe. How's the lamb stew today?"

"No one has died from it so far," June assured him.

She brought Chick his order.

Chick had breakfast and luncheons in Warkin's Cafe.

June worked there from seven to two.

Got Him Wrong

After a week or so June said, "I guess I got you wrong—I thought you was fresh."

"I didn't get you wrong—I knew you was the best looker that ever slung out an order of cakes and Java to a guy."

"Cakes and Java—Gawd," murmured June.

"That's why I'm doing this."

"Would you hit me with the coffee urn if I was to ask you to go see a movie with me tonight?"

"I'd love to go—it's awful lonesome where I room."

So Chick Roberts met June Mearson in front of her dismal rooming house that night and they went to a movie. Then they sat on the high steps of the rooming house and talked. It was spring and warm and rather pleasant outside.

Chick learned that June Mearson had refused to let a needy aunt support her and had struck out for herself.

June learned that Chick worked in the Double Star garage as a mechanic and hoped some day to save enough to start a service station and garage of his own "back home," which was well up State.

"The country is kind of nice—I used to go out in the country on fresh air fund vacations when I was a kid," June confessed.

"Kind of nice? It's swell. I thought I was goin' to be happy in this man's town when I came down from the sticks, but I got enough of it already," Chick confessed.

By the time that summer had arrived in earnest June and Chick were decidedly friendly. June wouldn't permit Chick to take her expensive places. She said he was saving his coin.

The hot weather was distressing. They lengthened June's hours in the restaurant and the heat there nearly drove her frantic.

Chick didn't find it any too comfortable crawling under greasy cars when the thermometer was up around ninety odd.

It was at this time that Bert Thornton dropped into Warkin's Cafe.

He didn't intend to eat there. Bert was working for his father, a small construction concern. Warkin had rented the adjoining store and wanted an estimate on the cost of increasing the size of the restaurant.

Bert Thornton looked over the place and gave his estimate. In looking about he noticed June Mearson in more detail than he noted the tearing out to be done. He decided to have something to eat and sat at June's table.

Cool and Dashing

Bert Thornton looked cool and dashing. His light suit was summery and just right. His slick hair, swell shirt and tie—all about him seemed perfection. June saw and admired and returned Bert's smile.

"How about a party tonight, Bright-eyes?" Bert asked.

June shook her head.

"I wouldn't bite you—I'm lonesome, that's all, and you look lonesome, too."

"No thanks," said June.

But she thought about this handsome chap all day.

Bert Thornton thought a whole lot about the "Nifty little waitress."

He told his friend Tom Clancey about her that evening as they played tennis under artificial lights.

"Yeah?"

"Exactly—you know my technique."

"May be she won't be made, Bert."

His friend laughed.

"And you think you have the knack of making them all think you are the right lad?"

"Know it," Bert assured him seriously.

But Bert Thornton believed in himself. He dropped into the restaurant every day. He got chatty with June and finally took her down to Coney Island in his car.

He certainly had a line. He talked of his corporation, of his country place, and of everything else that would impress a girl.

"A little queen like you ought never to drudge in a place like this," he told her.

Kisses June

"We could be mighty happy together, June—go places, have heaps of fun."

"It would be lovely," June agreed. She was seeing an engagement ring in the offing at that moment and could almost hear wedding bells.

Whatever Bert Thornton was thinking or planning did not include wedding bells.

June had said nothing to Chick Roberts about her new and "Ritzy" boy friend.

One night after June had been to see a sentimental movie with Chick and they had walked back to her rooming house doorsteps, Chick grabbed June and kissed her.

"Aw Chick, be sensible."

"Come fall, we can get married, honey. It won't take more'n another year before we can go up country and live and I'll have a swell place of my own."

June shook her head.

A dirty service station in the "sticks," a husband all grease and overalls, nothing but work and more work—that's all June could see.

She was comparing Chick with Bert Thornton. He drove his own car; he didn't repair other folks' cars.

"What say, June?"

June shook her head.

"Aw, come now, Babe—I thought it was all settled, me and you was steadies and everything," Chick pleaded.

June was thinking. A year to wait—a whole year and she working right along all that time.

"Cakes and Jave—cakes and Java—Gawd no," she muttered.

"What's that?" Chick asked.

"Be reasonable Chick—we cant' afford to get married—not to each other. I don't want to drudge away forever. We—we'll just be friends."

"We'll go over to the Palisades Park tomorrow night, Babe, and have a swell time and settle on when we'll get married," Chick declared.

"I can't—I got a date, Chick."

He was silent a moment.

"Oh, it's like that, is it?"

"Yes, Chick."

"I ain't in the picture, eh?"

"You're a swell boy, Chick, but—well, my boy friend is rich and can give me everything."

"Yeah?"

"Honest—his name is Thornton. He has a big contracting business."

"I know him—his old man keeps a truck in the garage where I work. So you're going out with him tomorrow night? Where?"

"Over in Jersey."

"Have a good time," Chick said, bitterly, and he walked away without a word.

June Feels Like Crying

June ran up to her room and wondered why she felt so much like crying.

Bert Thornton called for her the next night. He was an hour late.

"Something wrong with the car," he explained. "It took the dumb sap at the garage an hour to fix it," he said.

So they rode over into Jersey and out along the old turnpike and into a side road to a not too attractive road house. They danced a little and drank a little. June would only have the red Italian wine.

Finally June became stupid and drowsy. Bert started to help her out to another room.

Chick Roberts had been in the little back bar all the time. He had been watching. He came out and put an arm about the half protesting June.

"What's the idea—this is my sister," growled Chick and he got in one beautiful sock on Bert's jaw.

Carlos, the owner, was protesting to Thornton, after they dashed water on him and made the birds stop singing.

"What could I do? It was th' guy's sister—he had a right—he make trouble for me," said Carlos.

June wasn't able to work the next day so Chick dropped over to see her.

"Aw Babe, it was just luck," he said. "I heard that guy telephoning out to that place—orders for a private room and to load your drinks—I had to go out, didn't I?"

"Oh, Chick, forgive me—just don't ever let me see a glass of wine again, and I'll sling cakes and Java for you all my life," June promised.

Of course up in their country home they have eggs and sausages and a lot of things much better than mere cakes, to go with their Java.

But Does Death Chair Deter Potential Killers?

Irene Schroeder, "Iron Irene," whose escapades, as "the blonde trigger woman" and woman of other picturesque synonyms, have occupied the minds of legal authorities, particularly, and well behaved society, has been found guilty of first degree murder after a trial for the killing of a state policeman acting in his line of duty.

The penalty, fixed by the jury, is death. Under the law, the jury could have designated life imprisonment. Society is in no position to find fault with the verdict. The jurors did their duty as they saw it. The woman, judging from the evidence, is deserving of no favors from the law. By her own admission, she slew a fellow being. Judging from evidence again, it is only a result of the chance of fortune that responsibility for other crimes does not bear upon her. So there exists no special reason for lenience if the system of capital punishment is to be maintained.

Most deserving of sympathy are the relatives of Irene, her father, her son, her sisters, and the mother and kin of the man she slew.

Society will benefit if other heedless young persons (most thugs and bandits are young), many of whom are headed for Irene's fate, will be warned by it and turn to the right before it is too late. But does capital punishment deter criminals?

Public Office Traffickers Should Be Prosecuted

Thanks to the United States Senate the ugly facts about the traffic in federal offices in Southern states has been finally made a matter of official public record.

Under the chairmanship of Senator Brookhart, of Iowa, a committee of the Senate has investigated conditions in Georgia, Mississippi, South Carolina and Texas.

By its findings the committee completely substantiates the charges brought by the Hearst newspapers more than a year ago that federal offices were bought and sold in certain Southern states like so many bales of cotton.

Upon recommendation of the committee, President Hoover has turned over its report to the Department of Justice with a view to proceeding legally against all persons who have violated the statute covering the barter and sale of public offices.

It now behooves the executive branch of the government to show the same energy in rounding up these Republican rascals that the Senate has shown in exposing their rascality.

Fortunately for the public welfare the administration did not await the report of the Brookhart committee to begin its cleanup of these shocking conditions in the South for which the Republican National Committee was largely responsible.

Already the nefarious referee system under which the traffic in federal offices developed into a prosperous and highly protected industry has been abolished.

But the Republican National Committee has not yet cleaned its own house. It is still harboring some who have aided and abetted this traffic either directly or indirectly.

And until these unworthy members are expelled, the national committee as a whole will stand convicted of consenting to these practices.

Nor will other politicians be discouraged from reviving the traffic in federal offices unless the Department of Justice makes an example of those whose guilt has already been exposed by the Brookhart committee. They should be prosecuted to the limit of the law—not next year nor the year after, but NOW.

AND WHILE THEIR PROSECUTION IS PROCEEDING, CONGRESS WOULD DO WELL TO ADOPT THE FINAL RECOMMENDATION OF THE BROOKHART COMMITTEE. THIS IS TO AMEND THE FEDERAL CORRUPT PRACTICE ACT SO AS TO INCLUDE ANY PERSON SOLICITING FUNDS FROM A FEDERAL OFFICER OR FEDERAL EMPLOYE FOR POLITICAL PURPOSES, OR ACCEPTING NOTES FOR SUCH PURPOSES FROM ANY FEDERAL OFFICER OR FEDERAL EMPLOYE.

Public confidence in their integrity is the foundation of American institutions. To shake that confidence is to undermine that foundation.

That is why the buying and selling of federal offices in Southern states is not only a disgrace to the Republican party, but a danger to popular government the country over.

Hospital Head Explains 'Boy Held as Hostage'

Officials of the South Side Hospital will be congratulated by friends of the worthy institution for having promptly disavowed any such intent as was indicated in a report that a boy patient had been held there as a hostage until his bill were paid.

It appears there was basis for the incident in hospital attendants too strictly observing instructions to ascertain that those financially able to pay were not placed on the charity list, since, it is explained, the State Welfare Department surcharges such accounts and puts the expense on the hospital.

J. E. Roth, president of the hospital, asserts the prime aim of the hospital is to render the best possible service to the community it serves and that money is a second consideration. Nevertheless, hospitals, like other institutions, have expenses to meet and must not fail, in the interest of efficiency, to collect from all who can afford to pay.

Beet Tops

Scientists Think They Should be Saved.

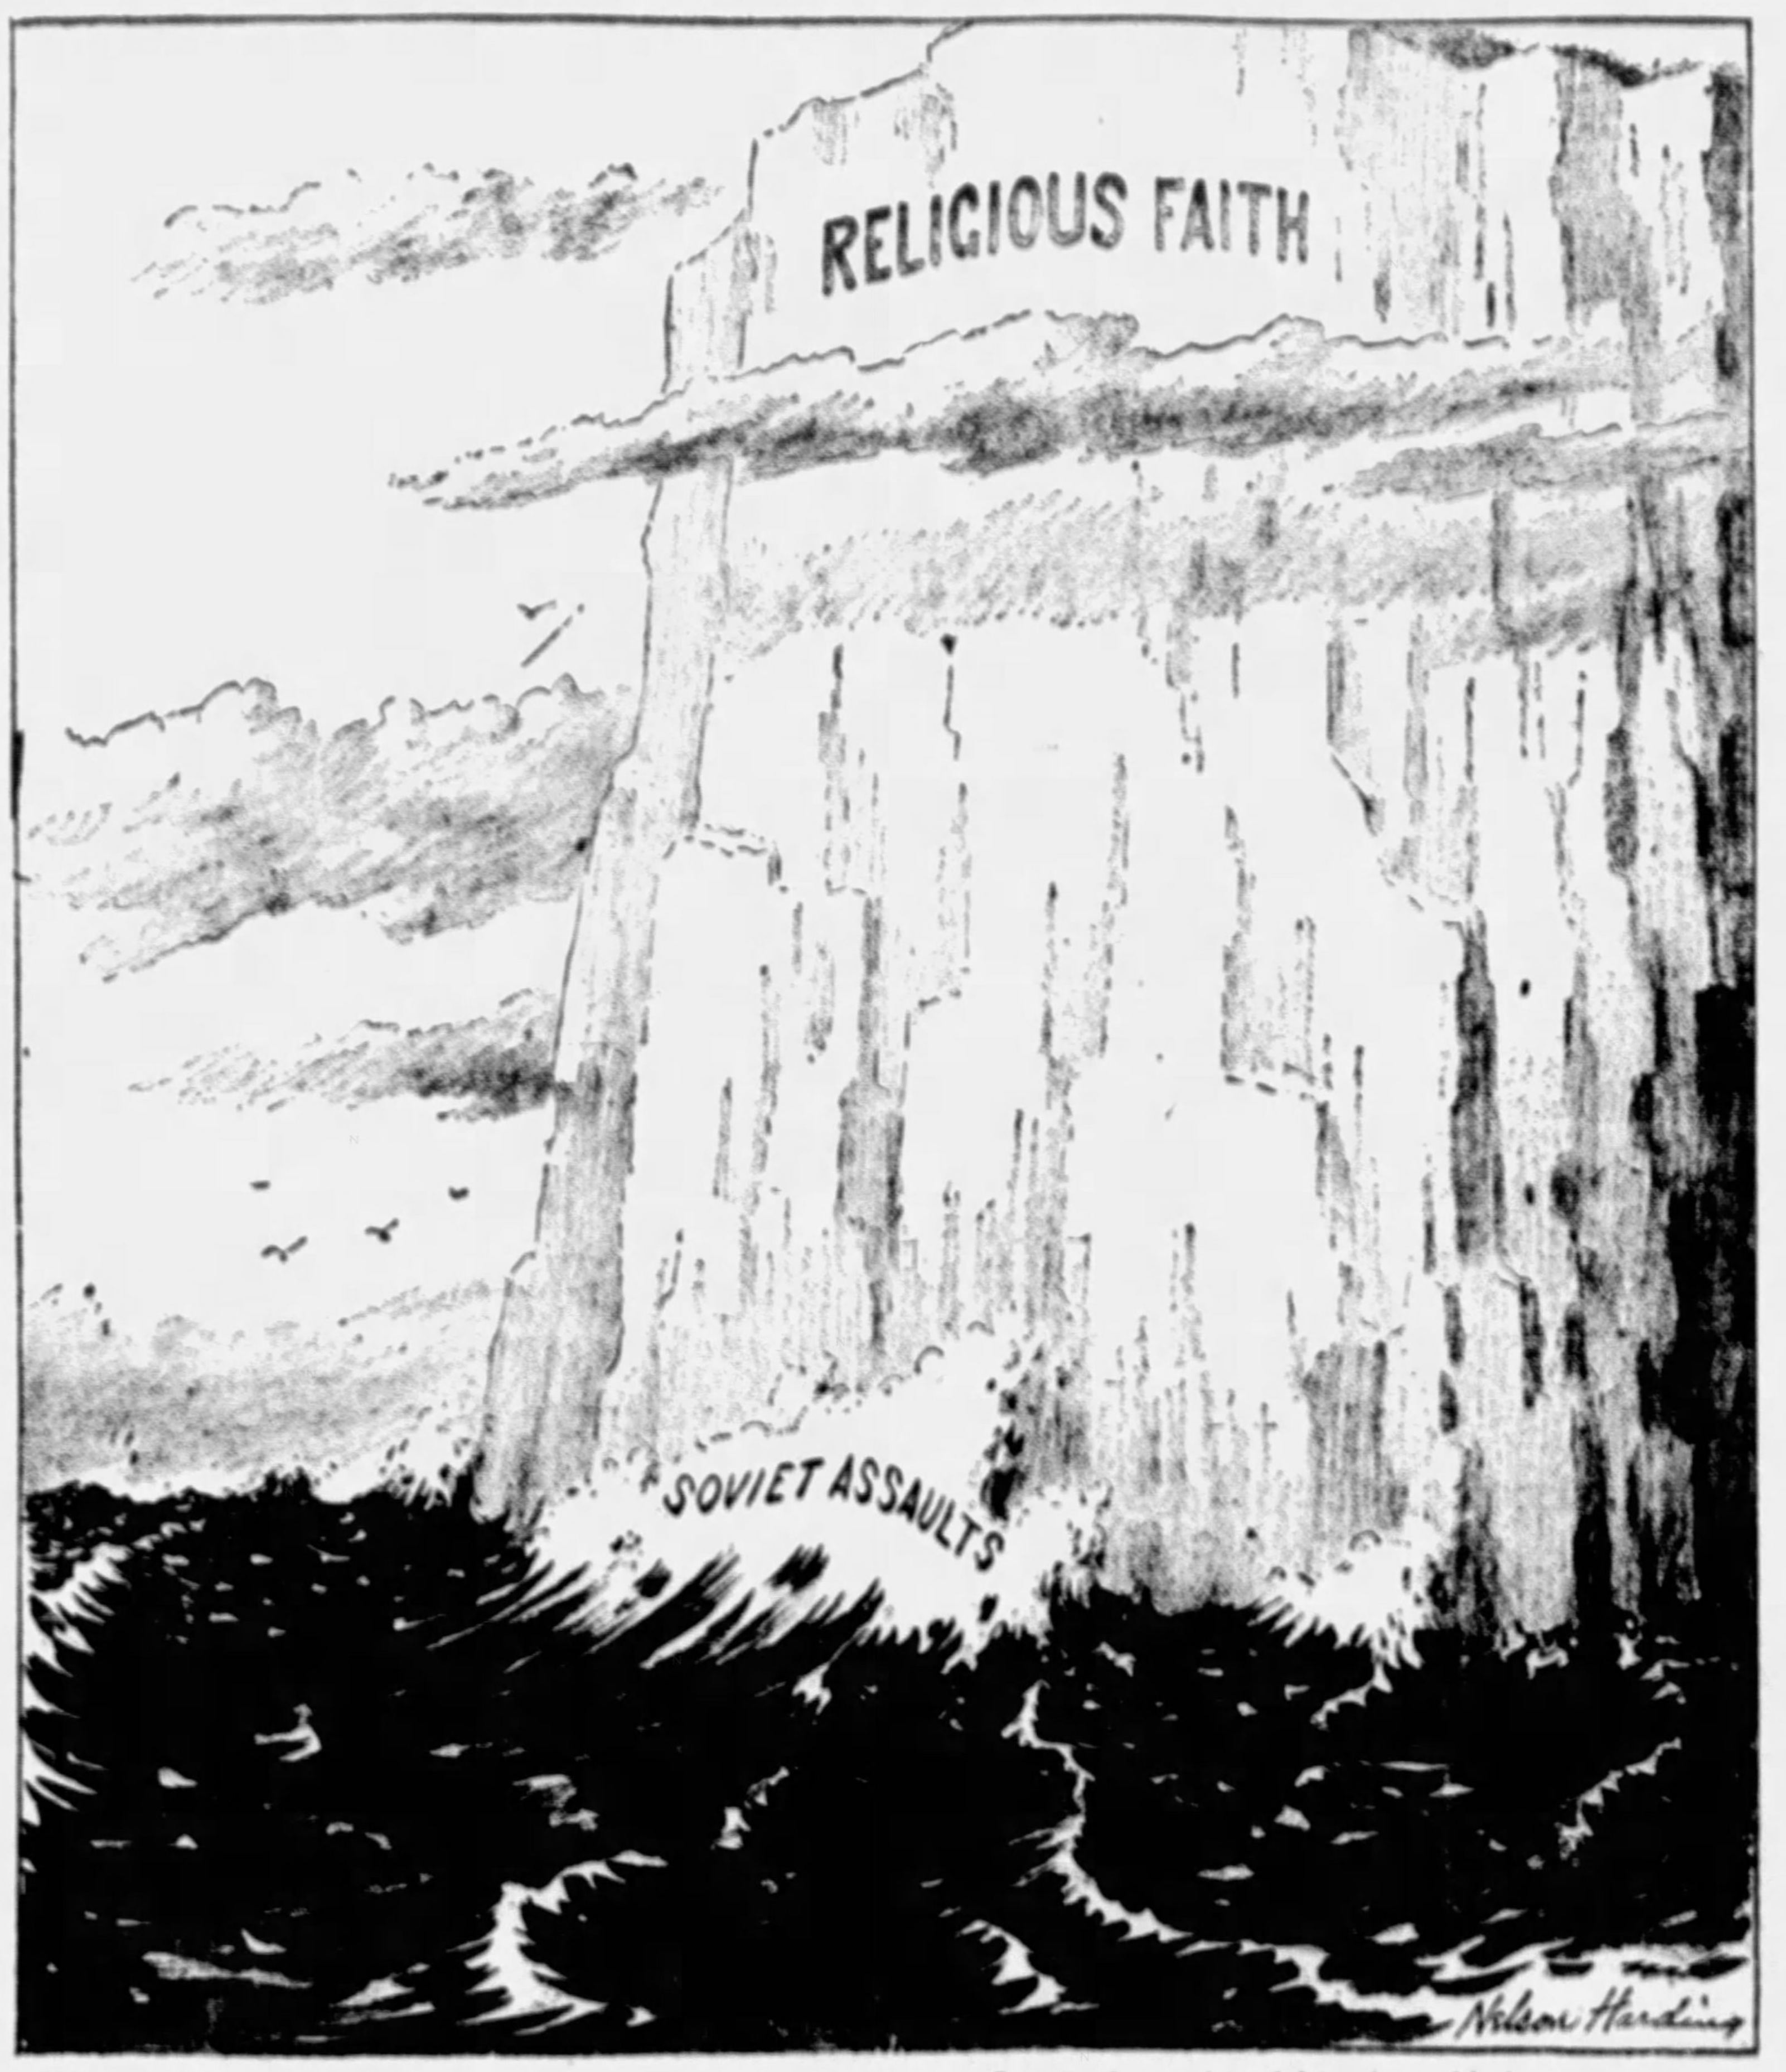
By plucking off the leaves instead of slashing off the top of the sugar beet, Americans can save $10,000,000 a year, says Dr. Ernest Reed, the botanist of Syracuse University.

The discarding of that inch-and-a-half top has set the country's wealth back that much every year, he avers. Presumably, if we consumed $10,000,000 worth more sugar, we should all be an inch-and-a-half thicker in the waist.

Now that we were all set on being slim, they can keep throwing away the beet tops. What interests us consumers at large is how to salvage the last inch of a cigar or the last quarter of an inch of a fag. We should like to call this to the attention of scientists to see if they are really as solicitous about our pocketbook as they make out to be.

Rock Of Ages

Drawn by Nelson Harding



Like a lofty promontory,
As a granite cliff arising,
Towering above the breakers
Lashed to fury by a tempest.

Stands the ancient faith of mankind,
Stands the rugged rock of ages
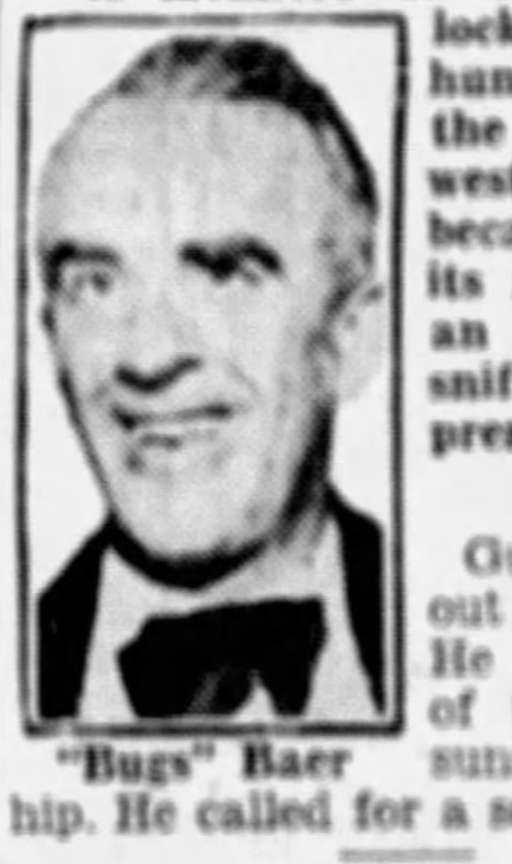
Hurled upon its firm foundation.

"Bugs" Baer Says:

Blindfolded Justice

NEW YORK—Another blow at tailor-made liberty has been walloped by the cadets of justice.

A lavaliere of official padlocks has been hung around the neck of a western hotel because one of its guests took an amended snifter on the premises.



"Bugs" Baer

Guest walked in out of the night. He had a bottle of prohibited sunshine on his hip. He called for a set-up.

In furnishing the set-up, a hotel becomes an accessory before the gulp. The law says the innocent must suffer with the board of directors.

The minute the hostelry trotted out the glasses and the cracked ice it was guilty of hospitality in the third degree. And if you don't furnish the set-ups you are unable to compete with economical Mongolian industrialists.

Closing a hotel because one of its guests looks upon the wine when it is bootleg is something like closing a school because one of the pupils spells incorrectly.

Shall we all be evicted into the storm and darkness because the man in room 57 has the hiccups?

Shall fermented halitosis be diagnosed as community property and martial law proclaimed from coast to coast just because a farmer in the Missouri valley came to town with a cross-country jag?

The Eighteenth Amendment has already ruined every hotel dining room in the land. People are now eating in flea-bags and dead-falls where the cooking is terrible but the sauce is contraband.

The hotel owners are the most law abiding citizens in America. They obey the amendments and have never squawked. If a hotel is guilty because it furnishes cracked ice and ginger ale to its guests then we know a firm in Jersey City which should be indicted for selling toothpicks to African cannibals.

No liquor is ever served in hotels, but there are a thousand man-traps in the vicinity where a guest can manipulate the laughing elbow. Shall the proprietor be guilty because the guest has taken sudden lessons in fancy skating?

A FOILED CONSPIRACY

By Herbert Kaufman

AFTER six months efforts to put "something nice" in everybody's stockings, but the consumer's, Messrs. Smoot and Hawley, the twin Kris Kringles of Congress, have completed the schedules of their higher-cost-of-living bill.

Every interest, except the COMMON interest, now has its special pleader in the U. S. Senate.

But we've grown to expect THAT, ever since the primaries began to fill the upper chamber with little states'men instead of great statesmen. National welfare, posterity and thrift have long had no representation there.

This "you-help-me-and-I'll-help-you" tariff reveals how "the most august deliberative body on earth" has degenerated into a kennel of provincial watch-dogs, ready to rend party solidarity and economic soundness, whenever sectional or constituent opportunity may be advantaged.

THE tactics which secured higher schedules on sugar and wool, and removed lumber and cement from the free list, failed, however, to finesse a billion dollar pork grab for OIL.

But kindly note that the coalition conspiracy to exact tribute from all lubricating systems, automobiles and Diesel engines in America, was scotched by JUST ONE VOTE.

By which narrow margin, Mr. Hoover is spared the obnoxious extremity of exercising his veto—the President's conscience, policies and executive duty would have left him no ALTERNATIVE course.

The country is overwhelmingly opposed to the LEAST tariff on petroleum. Its garages, furnace tanks and factory equipment protest against the exaction. But the loudest warning of all rings from CONSERVATION.

Three successive administrations have vainly pleaded with the industry to abate its reckless exhaustion of our irreplaceable fuel fields.

THREE successive presidents have worked to the limits of vested authority to preserve the future from dependence upon import. One of the first official moves of Mr. Hoover was a convocation of operating companies, under Mark Requa's chairmanship, to secure a voluntary clamp upon production.

His engineering experience beholds no greater peril to our commercial and military effectiveness, than the stupid and jealous greeds so incessantly depleting the most precious of natural resources.

We must ALWAYS possess adequate internal supplies of motor essence within national borders. But no governmental persuasion seems able to dent the unpatriotic obduracy of the corporations who finally hold title to our security and prosperity.

Every gallon of gas and oil brought from abroad helps postpone the stripping of our own pools. Just as every carload of pulpwood from a Canadian or New Foundland mill keeps another stand of timber on the job of retaining top-soil and preventing floods.

Forethought and concern for tomorrow shudder at the consequences such a fatuous move holds for conservation—which is served as much by the use of Mexican, Mesopotamian and East Indian petroleum as through control of local production.

Oil must STAY on the FREE list or the next generation will find itself hampered by confiscatory overheads—handicapped both in war and peace.

Any duty on oil can only profit a handful of direct beneficiaries. The lobbyists that sponsor it, and OUR POTENTIAL ENEMIES.

The Smoot-Hawley tariff may be a brazen pickpocket, BUT THANK HEAVEN, ISN'T guilty of TREASON.

∴ LISTEN, WORLD ∴

By Elsie Robinson

DON'T be afraid of life. Life isn't some malign monster over which you have no control—a monster which may pounce on you unexpectedly with some horrid fate. LIFE IS WHAT YOU MAKE IT.

Your fate doesn't come from outside . . . it comes from inside. You, yourself, build it. You do not build it in one great decision. You build it in millions of tiny decisions.

You do not consider these decisions important when you make them. You're hurried, or bothered, or angry, so you do the easiest thing.

"It doesn't really matter," you say to yourself, and go off and forget it. But it does matter, for that unconsidered decision was a link in the chain of your fate. Some day that tiny link will help to bind you.

There's poor Jim, doing 10 years for embezzlement, over in the pen. Jim's a nice chap, with honest eyes and fine ideals. You'd never believe he stole that money from his bank. He can't believe it himself. The temptation came so suddenly.

No fate ever happens suddenly. We are what we've made ourselves.

Judas was a betrayer years before he gave Christ that fatal kiss. And, by the same token, Lincoln was a leader years before he ascended the White House steps.

"But surely there are events over which we have no control—events which shape our whole lives," you say. "Sickness and poverty and the loss of someone you love . . . these things aren't created INSIDE you. They happen from OUTSIDE—"

Yes, they happen from outside—but its the reaction to them, that happens inside you, that really counts. Sickness, poverty and loss happen to millions of people. Some triumph over them, some surrender to them, in just the measure that they're made themselves strong or weak. Robert Louis Stevenson, dying of tuberculosis, wrote words of immortal courage. He wrote them because he had been CHOOSING COURAGE all his life. Mrs. Calvin Coolidge rose from her dead boy's side and went on with her duties as mistress of this nation because all her life she had been CHOOSING DUTY.

Don't be afraid of life. Life is only what you make it. If you must be afraid of anything! BE AFRAID OF YOURSELF!

BE A PITTSBURGH BOOSTER
To Your Friends in Other Cities

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS

In Collaboration With

Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

THE ONLY really serious difficulty in dating rocks is the problem of relating the rock-systems of distant regions of the globe.

The succession of rocks in China may be known, and also the succession in Western Europe; but the evidence may be lacking which enables us to say exactly how the one should be fitted against the other.

This may lead to uncertainty in points of detail; but even in such cases it is always possible to date within geologically moderate limits, and every scrap of new knowledge helps to narrow those limits down. Here again the difficulty is not one of principle.

H. G. Wells

The essential fact is this: fossils are not used to date rocks of doubtful age until they themselves have been dated by their position in rocks whose order is not doubtful but obvious. And the proof of the correctness of the method is that its results are coherent and intelligible.

We do not find ammonites appearing haphazard in the earth's crust, but in a definite set of its layers; mammals do not appear and disappear sporadically through geological time, but come on the scene when they are expected, and from then onward show a steady development; four-toed and one-toed horses are never found in the same stratum, and so forth.

If each fossil is a word in the Book of Life's history, then a century ago these words made only a few scattered but promising sentences; today, thanks to unceasing exploration, they have fallen into place, and have told man a new and clearer story of life's past and life's destiny.

Section 3—Evolution of Horses.

AND now let us take one of the better preserved sections from vast, confused autobiography which life has written in the rocks.

It is loudly argued by many Creationists and semi-Creationists that there is no fully worked-out pedigree of any existing forms of life, and that there is nothing to dispose of the view that at irregular intervals creative forces intervene in the evoluting process and make life take a convulsive stride forward.

This, however, is not the case. There are now several family trees in existence. We are giving here the past record of the existing horses. They have been evolved from a small, four-toed Eocene mammal and every step in the process is traceable.

It is worth noting that the earliest known three-toed fossil horse was described as recently as 1860, the year after Darwin published the "Origin of Species," and that it was not till about 1870 that any serious attempt was or could be made to establish the horse's ancestry from fossils.

Many startling finds were made in the '70s and '80s, presenting the story in rough outline. But it has been the patient accumulation of specimens since then which has filled in the details and made it convincing.

As the fossil-bearing rocks have been more intensively explored, link after link has been brought to light, until now we are able to reconstruct an almost unbroken chain of change, extending for over forty million years.

The existing horses constitute a very distinct family of animals. No other vertebrates have but one toe to each foot; and no other animals have quite similar teeth.

The family now comprises one genus only, called Equus and including seven species—two Asiatic wild asses (the onager and kiang) one African wild ass, the little Przevalsky's horse from Asia, and three kinds of zebra from Africa.

A fourth kind of zebra, the quagga, has recently been exterminated. In addition, there are, of course, the many varieties of domestic horse and donkey, brought into being by man's selective breeding.

Now all these wild horses and asses and zebras live in much the same way. They run swiftly over hard, level plains (wild asses in the Mongolian desert have been timed doing their forty miles per hour), and they feed on a food that is difficult to chew—on the tough leaves and stems of grasses, which are often hardened by a certain amount of flinty matter.

And corresponding with this hardness of ground and of food, we find special provisions in their feet and teeth.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, March 24.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Up at break of day and rehearsing a speech for a news reel but such a poor one telephoned the studio I had been called out of town nor did they seem disappointed. So to breakfast with Marshall Neilan, the cinema director, and one of the wittiest men I know.

Came a gentleman who said he was "charting reactions" of men engaged in writing and when I told him I talked to myself in the bath and often cried out loud he looked at me queerly. Later W. W. Hawkins, the editorial executive, dropped in to chat awhile.

At my desk and read a letter from Albert Payson Terhune that my collie namesake Sunnybank McIntyre had, a week after his twelfth birthday, sired a litter of seven vigorous and husky pups. And that Terhune, himself, was off to loll on the sands of the Riviera, the lucky fellow.

Broadway's most famous hat check girl is Rene Carroll, a prepossessing miss who presides at Sardi's—a haunt of newspaper writers, artists and press agents. Miss Carroll has been so frequently sketched and written up that she becomes an exemplar of the White Way notion of celebrity. Her autograph book is filled with treasured sentiments of those who have basked in the dazzle of her dimpled smile.

Word seeps back to Broadway, too, that Pearl White, whose perilous exploits in early movies won somewhat lasting fame, is living in happy domesticity in far away Egypt. Miss White, following her movie triumphs, migrated to Paris and for years added to the gaiety of the life that bubbles at Ciro's and other haunts in narrow rue Daunou. There she met an Egyptian millionaire—a sportsman with a hefty racing stable and several European villas. They married a year ago and settled in Constantinople, the whispers being the cinema blonde received a two million dollar antenuptial gift.

Records show that the majority of fortunate marriages of beautiful Broadway ladies are contracted in Europe. Grace Field, who pirouetted professionally at old Claridge's and her own club, is the wife of a rich French noble and the chatelaine of an ancient chateau fringing the Fontainbleau forests.

I often wonder—sitting in a gallery seat watching the parade—if young ladies who achieve the dubious distinction of "a Broadway toast" receive as many offers of marriage as press agents would have us believe. I have heard of at least a dozen men reputed to have offered their wealth, social position and hand to the attractive Helen Morgan. I just skipped from the typewriter and called up three. Each said he had not the pleasure of knowing Miss Morgan. But would like to.

* * *

Speaking of Broadway toasts, it was the once gorgeously beautiful Nan Patterson who reaching the bottom of the toboggan philosophised: "I am one of the Broadway toasts who is now a crumb on Tenth avenue."

Lately a sure-fire method of obtaining tabloid publicity for stage, screen and [illegible] club performers is to launch a rumor engagement. Many even go to the extreme of taking out marriage licenses to satisfy a tawdry ache for exploitation. That rare Roman C. F. Frohman judged publicity accurately. "Anything [illegible] print," he said, "that does [illegible] suggest dignity and intelligence [illegible] harmful." Every producer knows more players have been "killed" than "made" professionally by sensational headlines. But they still resort to monkey business in public to achieve them.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

SOMEONE has done you a wrong that you feel that you [illegible] forget.

Suppose all those to whom you have done an injustice should take the same attitude toward you; what would be your standing?

No matter who you are you have done some things during your life that were not fair or strictly honorable toward some of your friends or acquaintances.

But you are more charitable toward your actions, are you not?

In other words you demand more than you are willing to give.

For some reason you think your mistakes and frailities should be overlooked.

You are unwilling to make the slightest allowance for those who have offended you.

You may think it shows weakness to forgive, but the contrary is true.

Small men refuse to overlook offenses of those who are willing or anxious to make amends for their acts.

The big man realizes that all make mistakes, errors of judgment or perhaps even premeditated evil at some time, but the big man is not vengeful and desirous of retaliation.
